Ozone alert bad news at ground level

Chicago area residents awoke to an early summer this year and with it got the season's first breath of ozone.

Ozone alerts were unknown in Chicago before 1974. It was assumed the photo-chemical smog was unique to Los Angeles.

Now ozone advisories are as much a part of summer as baseball games and backyard picnics. The Illinois Environmental Protection Agency issued the year's first ozone advisory from April 16-18.

Ozone is not just a city problem, said Jim Maloney, of the EPA's air pollution control division. The state maintains six ozone monitors in Chicago suburbs, including one in Arlington Heights.

OZONE IS A toxic gas produced by the reaction of hydrocarbons, nitrogen oxides and oxygen in the presence of sunshine. Automobile exhaust and industrial smoke are prime contributors to ozone.

The gas itself is invisible but because it frequently occurs with other forms of air pollution, ozone alerts usually mean hazy skies.

"It is hard to calculate how high ozone levels will go. We can make day-to-day predictions, or a week at a time when we know conditions are right for ozone buildup. But prediction is not down to a fine science," Maloney said.

The EPA began monitoring ozone levels in Illinois in 1974. The highest hourly average of ozone in Chicago, measured in parts per million, has decreased each year since 1974. But the three-year period is too short to be called a trend, Maloney said.

"THERE HAS BEEN a substantial reduction in industrial air pollution in the Chicago area. We now have 95 per cent compliance with our air regulations. Also, more and more of the cars on the road have pollution controls," he said.

But the highest ozone level ever recorded in Illinois was measured just last year in Waukegan when ozone reached .245 parts per million.

The EPA has four stages of ozone warnings:

- An Ozone Advisory is issued when ozone levels reach .07 parts per million for two consecutive hours and when weather conditions make it likely ozone will build up again the following day. This is the threshold level at which persons with heart or respiratory problems start to feel the effects of ozone.
- A Yellow Alert is issued when ozone is concentrated enough that the general public feels it effects, .17 parts per million.

The public is asked to avoid unnecessary driving and industries are notified of the high ozone conditions during a Yellow Alert.

Five Yellow Alerts were called in Illinois last year, three in East St. Louis, one in Chicago and one in Waukegan.

- A Red Alert is when ozone is measured at .3 parts per million. Only essential vehicles should be driven; parking lots of 200 cars or more are closed; manufacturers that contribute to ozone production are asked to curtail emissions and electric power plants may be cut back. Illinois has never called a Red Alert.
- An Ozone Emergency exists when ozone reaches .5 parts per million. Industries are shut down; electric power plants cut and only emergency vehicles are allowed to operate.

Joan Haley, environmental coordinator for the Chicago Lung Association, said ozone has both immediate and long-term effects.

Shortness of breath, headache, fatigue and dizziness are some of ozone's immediate effects. More serious symptoms are the inflammation and swelling of bronchial

Housing plan threatened by land cost, apathy

by BILL HILL

The high cost of land in Arlington Heights and a lack of interest in building multi-family developments could thwart the village's attempts to meet the new goals of its housing-assistance plan.

To make its housing plan more realistic with current market trends, the village recently revised the plan it must submit to the U.S. Dept. of Housing and Urban Development to be eligible to apply for community development funds. However, there are doubts whether the goals of the new plan can be met, mostly because of the high cost of land in Arlington Heights.

The changes were suggested by HUD officials after a recent survey of rental conditions in the village revealed that a low vacancy rate and high rents make unrealistic the village's plan to put all subsidized housing in existing apartment buildings.

THE OLD PLAN called for the development of 125 units in each of the next three years. The revised plan calls for the development of 90 units in each of the next three years with 50 units in existing apartments and 40 units in newly constructed developments.

"It's a very modest, very practical kind of approach to solving our housing needs," Village Pres. James T. Ryan said. "But there is still some question about whether the plan can ever be implemented because of land values in Arlington Heights," he said.

A look at development plans submitted for village approval the past two years shows that multi-family developments are no longer as popular with developers. In fact, three large sites zoned for multi-family developments have been rezoned for single-family use the past year at the request of the landowners.

"The lack of R-5 (multi-family) petitions and the lack of space for such projects are the reasons we genuinely believed that the best way to implement our goals would be through existing housing," said James Hol-

Nixon admits Watergate 'mistake'

by CLAY F. RICHARDS

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Richard Nixon, in a forthcoming teleivison interview, admits he sought to "politically contain" the Watergate scandal — and says he made a mistake by trying to use the CIA to block investigations into it.

Dribs and drabs of the interview and of previously undisclosed White House tapes implicating Nixon further in the Watergate scandal appeared in major newspapers and news magazines Sunday, amid suggestions the leaks were orchestrated to get maximum publicity for the television show.

"My motive in everything I was saying or certainly thinking at the time was not to try to cover up a criminal action, but . . . to be sure that as far as any slip-over — or should I say slop-over, I think, would be a better word — (to prevent) any slopover in a way that would damage innocent people," Nixon said.

"We weren't going to allow people in the White House, people in the committee, at the highest levels who were not involved to be smeared by the whole thing," Nixon said in the television interview. "In other words, we were trying to politically contain it."

EXCERPTS OF the prerecorded interview with David Frost, to be televised Wednesday night, were published by Time magazine Sunday.

Frost asked about Nixon's efforts to use the Central Intelligence Agency and warnings against interfering with national security matters to get the FBI off the Watergate investigation.

"For the first time, Nixon, his taut face betraying his discomfort, admits publicly that his repeated claim that he was only trying to keep the FBI out of national security matters is 'untrue'," the Time account said.

"He concedes: 'It was a grevious mistake to have gotten the CIA involved in this thing'."

Another account, in Newsweek, quotes Nixon as conceding his actions were motivated by politics — not national security — but as maintaining his personal knowledge of Watergate events is "very limited."

THREE DAYS BEFORE airing of the interview, in which Nixon breaks 32 months of silence on Watergate since his resignation Aug. 9, 1974, transcripts of previously secret White House tapes were published in the Washington Post and New York Times, along with the two news magazines.

Former White House Counsel Charles Colson, who participated in many of the new conversations with Nixon, dismissed the new trascripts as "old hash" and said they contained distortions and inaccuracies.

"This is a beautiful PR (public relations) job for David Frost," Colson said. "I'm astonished that so much news could be made out of old hash. There's some gross inaccuracies, gross distortion."

Colson said he found "particularly misleading" reports quoting Nixon as referring to "God damn hush money" in a conversation Jan. 8, 1973.

The transcripts included:

- A Nixon-Colson conversation on June 29, 1972, three days after the Watergate burglary, in which Nixon talks about being involved in "a dangerous job," and uses the Watergate catchword "stonewall" for the first time. This is .the same day that investigators found an 18½ minute gap on a tape in which Nixon and top aide

Oswald IRS letter cited in Kennedy killing probe

DALLAS (UPI)—Less than a month before President Johnn F. Kennedy was assassinated, Lee Harvey Oswald wrote to the Internal Revenue Service saying he planned to quit his job at the Texas School Book Depository, the Dallas Morning News reported Sunday.

In a copyrighted story, the newspaper said the Warren Commission never said it knew of the letter or investigated its implications.

The letter was one of several written by Oswald in November 1963 that assassination theorists contend cast considerable doubt on the depth of the Warren Commission's investigation and its conclusion that Oswald — acting alone — killed Kennedy.

Although the letter to the IRS is undated, it was written about Nov. 1,

Watchmaker keeps time to beat of family tradition

Byline report

He sits hunched all day over a workbench in a closet-sized room, cluttered with shelves and a few tables. A man who works with few items bigger than a dime does not need much space.

Jack Rappoport is a watchmaker. His father was a watchmaker before him.

The whiskered, sometimes gruff craftsman of 61 practices his family trade in a storefront at 1748 Miner St. with a reverence rare in an era of Mickey Mouse digital watches.

From 60 to 100 broken watches go through his skilled hands a week, each carefully disassembled and reassembled. He fixes watches that other watchmakers have deemed hopeless.

HIS CUSTOMERS are a mixture of new neighbors and old faithfuls — some send their timekeepers to him from across the country, because in their eyes there is no one else like a Rappoport.

"I had a good teacher," he smiled. His father, William, was a watchmaker in Russia at the turn of the century. He came to America in 1905 and opened his first shop on Milwaukee and Ashland avenues in 1909.

Jack was born in 1916. By the time he was 10 years old, he began learning the craft from his father.

"I had a bench at home, where I sat and watched him," Rappoport said, quickly snapping, "Youngsters today don't want to learn to do things with their hands."

HE WORKED AS his father's apprentice for many years — almost until the advent of World War II.

During the way, he repaired watches on the side for his fellow servicemen. He opened his first shop in 1945 at 17 N. State St., Chicago, staying in the city until he and his wife moved to Des Plaines two years ago.

He works alone in his little shop, spending the long hours with his hands on tiny gears and screws, his mind on day-to-day cares and reflections. He tried to work with apprentices a few times, but never could find one who had the patience and skill to fix watches in the Rappoport tradition. His two sons are not interested in their father's trade.

"The old-timers are slowly fading out, and there are very few newcomers coming in," he said. His father died four years ago at 83, repairing watches until two years before his death. His brother is retired from the business and living in California.

Rappoport intends to carry on the family tradition as long as he can.

"IN THIS TRADE, if your hand gets shaky, you're through," he said. Watches have gotten smaller and much more intricate, with calendars, second hands and alarms under crystals an inch in diameter.

"Fortunately my eyesight is still good, my hands are still good. I'll work here a few more years. But I'll never completely retire — I'll work in my home . . . I'll be happy as long as I can still work," he said. "I'm 61 now, but a young 61."

In an age when watches often last just a few years, when craftsmen have all but disappeared behind the assembly lines, one wonders when time will catch up with Jack Rappoport.

CBS fall lineup to include several MTM spinoffs

CBS, which lost its 20-year dominance of network ratings last season to ABC, will attempt to regain its number one spot in the new fall season with a new lineup of shows.

The network unexpectedly canceled "who's Who" and "Phyllis" along with "Delvecchio," "The Andros Targets," "Sonny and Cher," Norman Lear's "All's Fair," "Hunter," "Code R" and "Loves Me, Loves Me Not" to make room for six new one-hour comedy dramas and four new half-hour comedies.

The CBS schedule, announced Sunday by network Pres. Robert Wussler, is dominated by comedy, mostly products of MTM Enterprises, although such action dramas as "Kojak," "Hawaii Five-O," and "Barnaby Jones" have been retained.

SPINOFFS FROM the Mary Tyler Moore Show, which ended this season after seven years, include "The Ed Asner Show" and "The Betty White Show." Ed Asner will continue to play the character Lou Grant, who moves from Minneapolis to Los Angeles where he works as a city editor of a newspaper. Betty White will portray Joyce Whitman, a veteran actress, who stars in the television series "Undercover Woman," which is directed by her former husband. Her best friend and roommate, Mitzi, is played by Georgia Engel, who played Georgette Baxter on the "Mary Tyler Moore Show."

Along with "The Ed Asner Show," the other new one-hour series include:

• "The Fitzpatricks," about an Irish-Catholic family living in Flint, Mich., during hard times. The father doesn't always know best, the mother doesn't always have time and the five kids aren't always ideal.

• "Raffety" stars Patrick McGoohan as Dr. Sid Rafferty, a former Army doctor who practices in a large general hospital.

• "Dan'l Boone," an adventure series about the 25-year-old trapper who explores the Cumberland Gap in Kentucky accompanied by his wife Rebecca and a 12-year-old Cockney boy.

• "Logan's Run," based on the recent science-fiction movie about a threesome who travel through the 23rd Century.

• "Wonder Woman," the series based on the comic book character that appeared periodically this past season on ABC starring Lynda Carter.

Along with "The Betty White Show," the new half-hour comedies include:

• "On Our Own," the story of two young girls who work in the creative department of a New York advertising agency.

• "We've Got Each Other," about a household where the roles are reversed. The husband works at home as a copywriter for a mail-order catalog while his wife manages the studio of an eccentric but talented photographer, Tom Poston.

• "The Tony Randall Show," starring Tony Randall, Devon Scott and Rachel Roberts, retains its same format. CBS picked this comedy up when ABC discarded it for the new fall season because it appeals to an older audience.

"Our new lineup reflects sweeping changes," Wussler said in announcing the shows. NBC, which is in third place behind the other two networks, is expected to announce its fall schedule this week.

Meadows manager starts work today

Thomas Palmer, 35, takes over today as Rolling Meadows city manager. Palmer, the former city manager of Colby, Kan., a town of about 5,000, will be the first permanent city manager the city has had in 18 months. His arrival will signal the end of the city's mayor-council form of government in favor of one which gives the city manager authority not previously given to former managers of the city. Palmer will be paid $29,000 a year.

Township to discuss seniors bus

The Palatine Township Board tonight will take up a decision to discontinue bus service for the elderly. The township senior citizens council has decided to end bus service beginning May 6 because it is running out of funds. Russell Bollinger of the council has said it would cost $6,566 to continue to operate the bus until July, when the council is scheduled to receive another allocation from the township. He blamed unexpected expenses for the bus and an increase in attendance at the center for the shortage of funds. The council had estimated expenses for the bus would be about $12,800 for the 1976-77 fiscal year, but the actual expense is closer to about $15,000.

CBS fall lineup to include several MTM spinoffs

CBS, which lost its 20-year dominance of network ratings last season to ABC, will attempt to regain its number one spot in the new fall season with a new lineup of shows.

The network unexpectedly canceled "who's Who" and "Phyllis" along with "Delvecchio," "The Andros Targets," "Sonny and Cher," Norman Lear's "All's Fair," "Hunter," "Code R" and "Loves Me, Loves Me Not" to make room for six new one-hour comedy dramas and four new half-hour comedies.

The CBS schedule, announced Sunday by network Pres. Robert Wussler, is dominated by comedy, mostly products of MTM Enterprises, although such action dramas as "Kojak," "Hawaii Five-O," and "Barnaby Jones" have been retained.

SPINOFFS FROM the Mary Tyler Moore Show, which ended this season after seven years, include "The Ed Asner Show" and "The Betty White Show." Ed Asner will continue to play the character Lou Grant, who moves from Minneapolis to Los Angeles where he works as a city editor of a newspaper. Betty White will portray Joyce Whitman, a veteran actress, who stars in the television series "Undercover Woman," which is directed by her former husband. Her best friend and roommate, Mitzi, is played by Georgia Engel, who played Georgette Baxter on the "Mary Tyler Moore Show."

Along with "The Ed Asner Show," the other new one-hour series include:

• "The Fitzpatricks," about an Irish-Catholic family living in Flint, Mich., during hard times. The father doesn't always know best, the mother doesn't always have time and the five kids aren't always ideal.

• "Raffety" stars Patrick McGoohan as Dr. Sid Rafferty, a former Army doctor who practices in a large general hospital.

• "Dan'l Boone," an adventure series about the 25-year-old trapper who explores the Cumberland Gap in Kentucky accompanied by his wife Rebecca and a 12-year-old Cockney boy.

• "Logan's Run," based on the recent science-fiction movie about a threesome who travel through the 23rd Century.

• "Wonder Woman," the series based on the comic book character that appeared periodically this past season on ABC starring Lynda Carter.

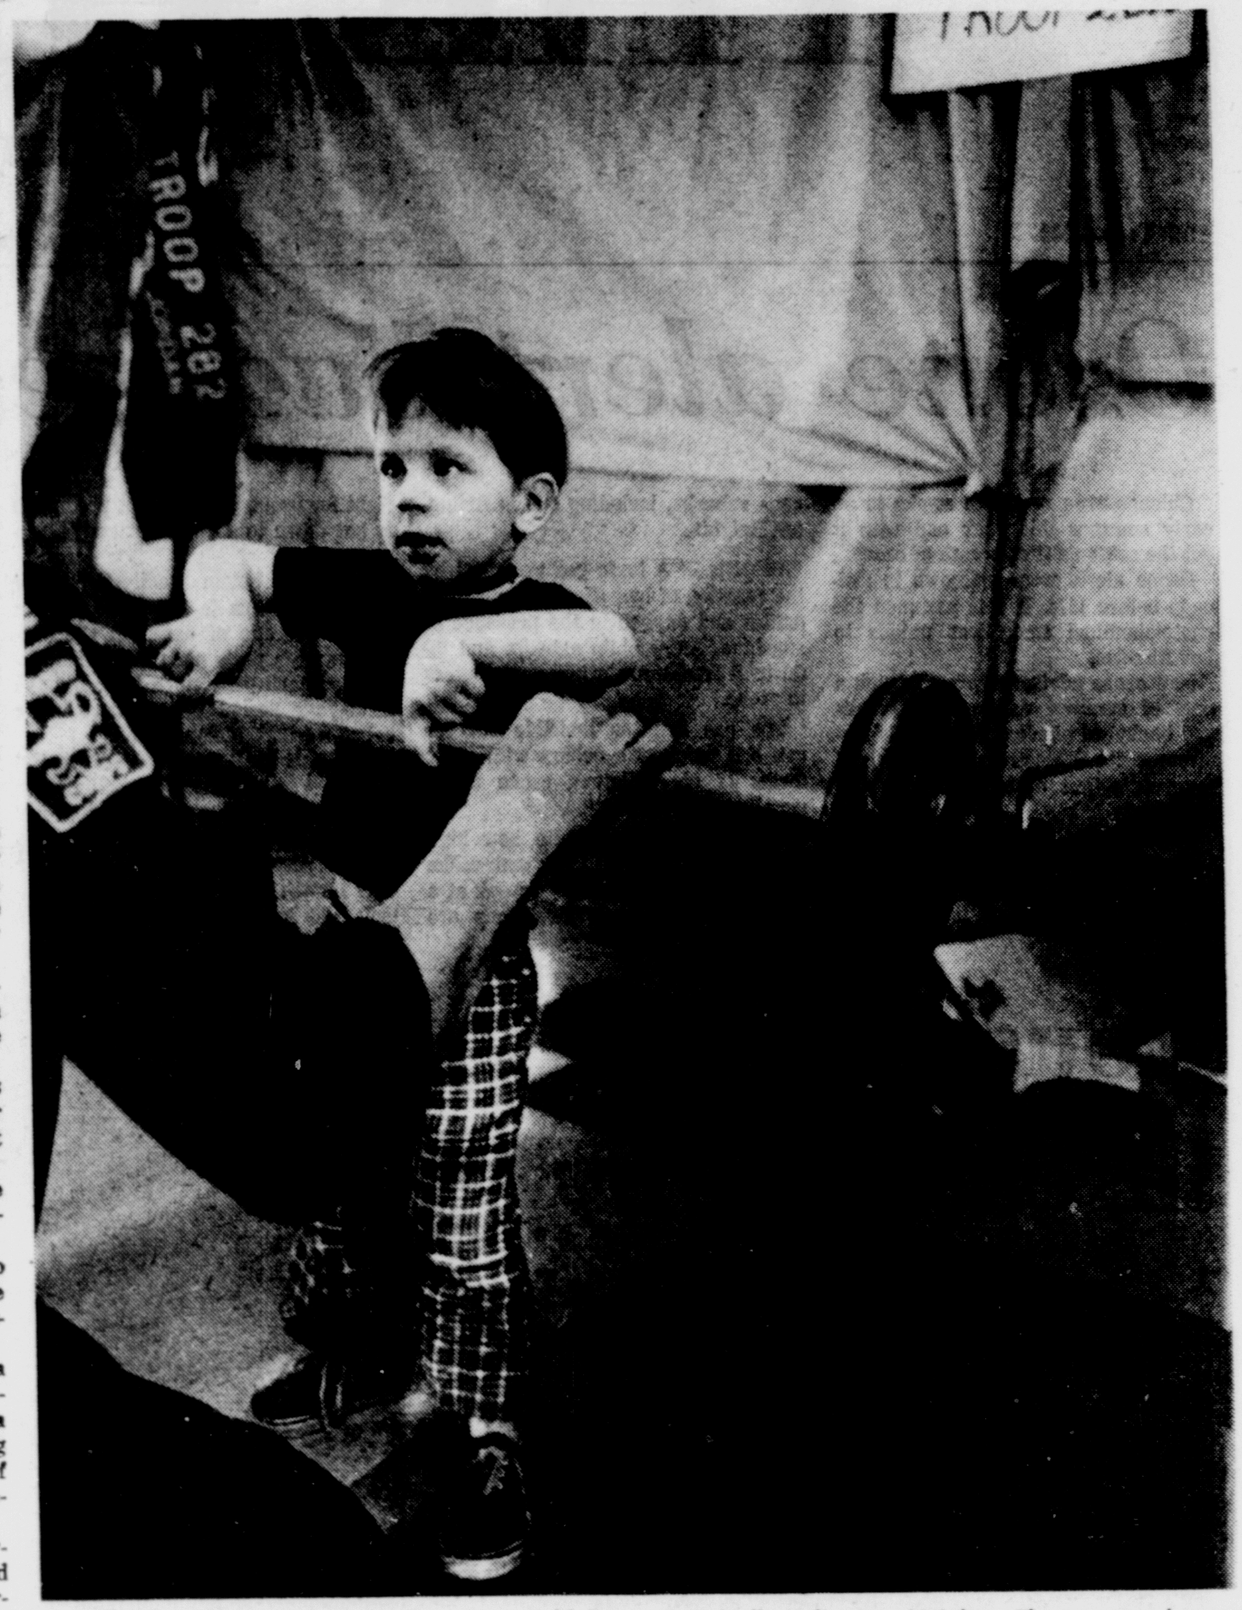
Along with "The Betty White Show," the new half-hour comedies include:

• "On Our Own," the story of two young girls who work in the creative department of a New York advertising agency.

• "We've Got Each Other," about a household where the roles are reversed. The husband works at home as a copywriter for a mail-order catalog while his wife manages the studio of an eccentric but talented photographer, Tom Poston.

• "The Tony Randall Show," starring Tony Randall, Devon Scott and Rachel Roberts, retains its same format. CBS picked this comedy up when ABC discarded it for the new fall season because it appeals to an older audience.

"Our new lineup reflects sweeping changes," Wussler said in announcing the shows. NBC, which is in third place behind the other two networks, is expected to announce its fall schedule this week.



A LIFTING experience was awaiting 2-year-old Patrick, who couldn't remember his last name and confessed that he was lost Sunday at the weekend Scout-O-Rama show in the Arlington Park Exhibition Hall, Arlington Heights. The young observer received a helping hand at the Palatine Scout Troop 282 display by one Scout who enlightened Patrick while he was "weighting" around.

Meadows manager starts work today

Thomas Palmer, 35, takes over today as Rolling Meadows city manager. Palmer, the former city manager of Colby, Kan., a town of about 5,000, will be the first permanent city manager the city has had in 18 months. His arrival will signal the end of the city's mayor-council form of government in favor of one which gives the city manager authority not previously given to former managers of the city. Palmer will be paid $29,000 a year.

Township to discuss seniors bus

The Palatine Township Board tonight will take up a decision to discontinue bus service for the elderly. The township senior citizens council has decided to end bus service beginning May 6 because it is running out of funds. Russell Bollinger of the council has said it would cost $6,566 to continue to operate the bus until July, when the council is scheduled to receive another allocation from the township. He blamed unexpected expenses for the bus and an increase in attendance at the center for the shortage of funds. The council had estimated expenses for the bus would be about $12,800 for the 1976-77 fiscal year, but the actual expense is closer to about $15,000.

Race track theater to shut down May 8

by DIANE MERMIGAS

The Arlington Park Theater will close its doors May 8 at the conclusion of the play "The Big Knife" because it has become financially unfeasible to operate.

It may be turned into a "special events" entertainment facility.

The Madison Square Garden Corp., owners of the theater and adjacent Arlington Park Hilton and race track, announced Saturday it would suspend operation of the 700-seat theater-in-the-round which first opened in 1971 and whose history has been marred by financial disputes and a bombing.

In a written statement released jointly with Harper Arlington Inc., operators of the theater, Madison Square Garden explained the theater's role in the Arlington complex "will be reassessed with an eye toward a completely new entertainment policy directed toward special events bookings for both the theater and the 1,400 seat Jimmy Durante Show Room in the Hilton."

WALTER PERNER, who has managed the theater for the past year with Harvey Medlnsky under the Harper Arlington Inc. partnership, confirmed that the closing is being prompted by financial difficulties.

"We have lost a significant amount of money since we reopened the theater May 28 last year. But the theater has been operating at a deficit ever since it opened six years ago," he said.

Perner would not disclose how much money has been lost in the theater operation, but said that all bills will be paid and all contracts will be financially fulfilled through the May 8 closing.

"We plan to leave the theater with all the bills paid and all of the equipment here inventoried. We do not plan any legal action, and there is no bitterness between ourselves as operators and the owners of theater as there has been with other operators of this theater in the past," Perner said.

FINANCIAL, LEASING and labor problems continually have snarled the smooth operation of the Arlington Park Theater since it first opened.

The theater's more recent problems began in August 1975 when actor John Carradine charged David Lonn, then producer and managing director of the theater under the name KEEP Productions Inc., with writing bad salary checks in payment for his performance in the play "Arsenic and Old Lace."

Carradine dropped a theft complaint against Lonn after receiving a cashier's check for the difference not covered by a $22,000 bond placed with Actors Equity to ensure payment of his salary for the production.

The financial dispute prompted a four-month closing of the theater, from April to August 1975.

IN MARCH 1976, Arlington Park Hilton officials had Lonn, his wife Karen Alton and a third operator, Marian Higgins, arrested for criminal trespass and criminal damage to property after they allegedly forced their way into the theater and refused to leave.

Theater locks had been changed by management of the Arlington Park Hilton Hotel after actor Richard Dreyfuss, star of the motion picture "Jaws," walked out of a KEEP play production there. Lonn booked the Free Street Theater troupe as a replacement which Arlington Park officials constituted as a breach of contract because the troupe was not of a high enough professional caliber.

Cook County Circuit Court Judge Donald J. O'Brien ruled last year that Lonn had violated his contract by booking the troupe, however, Lonn has appealed the case which is pending in the Illinois Appellate Court.

THE THEATER was bombed early last year and was later handed over to Harper Arlington Inc. for operation.

"We felt that because of all that had happened we had a lot to overcome when we took over operation of the theater a year ago. The theater has a history of occasionally doing well. We wanted to make that success more consistent and just couldn't," Perner said.

Perner said part of the problem can be attributed to the fact that the small number of regular theater-goers in the Chicago area are aggressively sought by more glamorous theaters in the city.

"I don't know if there is a large enough potential audience in the surrounding area to support this theater. About 40 per cent of our audiences have come from downtown Chicago and only when there is something here they really want to see," he said.

PERNER SAID the "highly competitive theater situation in the Chicago area" and the coldest winter in a century this past year have contributed to the failing operation of the theater.

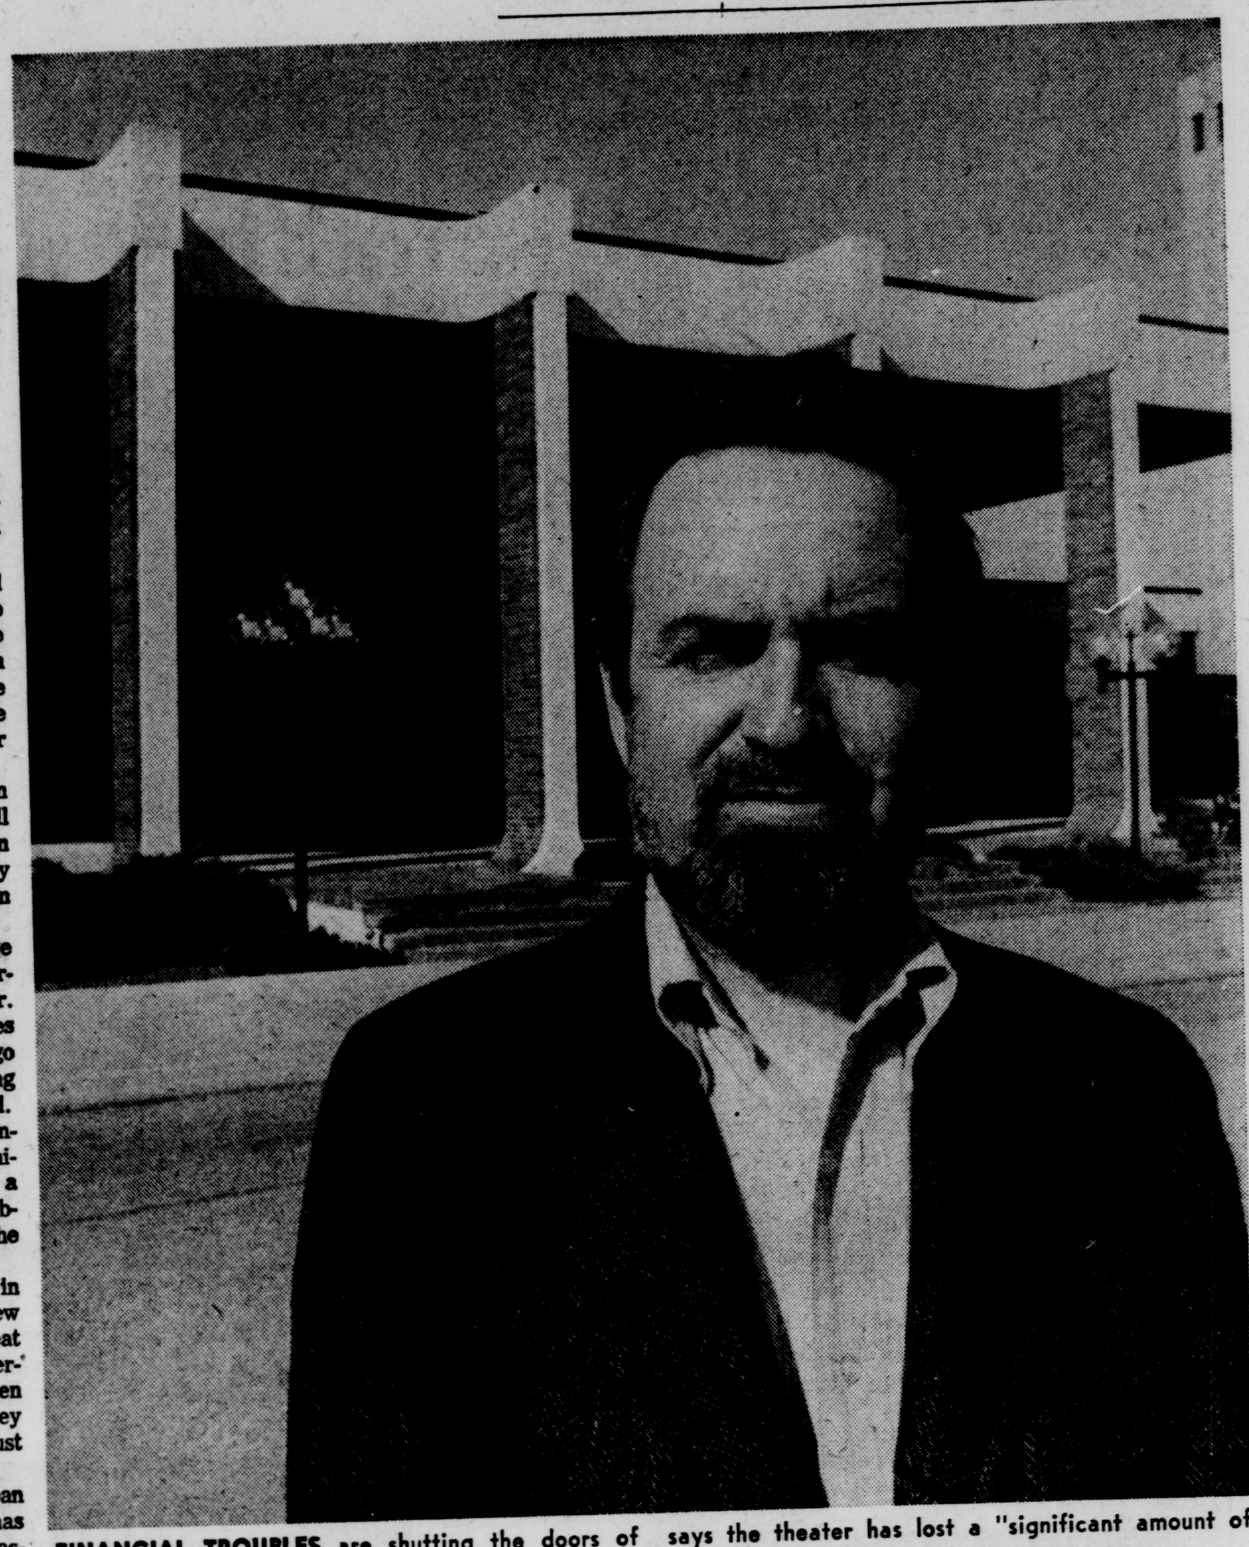
"Some nights during the winter in the middle of the week we had as few as 100 or 200 people in the 700-seat theater. That's how bad it got," Perner said. "Madison Square Garden could have shut it down then, but they gave us the chance to try and it just hasn't worked, that's all."

The scheduled June opening of Jean Marsh in "The Royal Family" has been canceled during the "reassessment period" and refunds are available to ticket holders in person at the theater box office through May 13 or by mail from the theater at 3400 W. Euclid Ave., Arlington Heights.

Joseph Kane, Manager of the Arlington Heights Park Hilton, said Saturday he is lining up "big name entertainment" that will be substituted for the play productions, which are normally part of a race track season weekend package.

"WE'LL BEGIN booking big names next week to appear in the Jimmy Durante Room or even in the theater that will be part of our weekend packages once the racing season starts June 6," he said.

"We feel the theater is most certainly a good marketing plus for us and that we probably can continue to use it for meetings, special entertainment activities, or high school and community events while the situation is being reassessed," Kane said.



FINANCIAL TROUBLES are shutting the doors of Arlington Park Theatre. Manager Walter Perner says the theater has lost a "significant amount of money" since reopening about a year ago.

tubes, increased susceptibility to infection, aggravated asthma and deterioration of the red blood cells in some persons, she said.

"There is also premature aging of the lung tissue and fracture of chromosomes," Ms. Haley said.

There is no "cure" or "remedy" for ozone conditions, Ms. Haley said. "Ozone is a gas and you'd have to wear a gas mask to be completely protected," she said.

PERSONS WHO ARE severely affected by ozone should stay indoors and recirculate air in the house or apartment with a fan or air conditioner, she said.

Ironically, the ozone that causes so much trouble near the ground is that same gas scientists are worried is being destroyed in the stratosphere.

"Ozone has a double personality," Maloney said. "The ozone layer 40 miles up is very helpful. It blocks out most of the sun's ultraviolet rays that otherwise would burn us up and give us skin cancer.

"But near the ground, ozone is real bad news."

Tape leak lucky for Frost or planned as publicity?

WASHINGTON (UPI) — An apparently well planned series of leaks put Richard Nixon's face on magazine covers and previously secret White House tapes in major newspapers Sunday — three days before a television interview with him was to be aired.

After some reports indicated that David Frost's four televised interviews with Nixon contained little in the way of sensational news, and Business Week magazine reported much of the commercial time remained unsold, transcripts appeared in the Washington Post and New York Times of White House conversations implicating Nixon further in the Watergate cover-up.

Newsweek and Time magazines came out Sunday evening with cover stories on Nixon — quoting portions of the Frost interviews which begin Wednesday night on stations across the country on a syndicated basis.

CBS' "60 Minutes program" also included a segment about the Frost-Nixon interviews.

ABC NEWS quoted Robert Zelnick, editor-in-chief of Frost's production team as saying the British television star and enterpreneur had access to the secret Oval Office transcripts seven months ago.

There was widespread speculation Frost or his agents made the transcripts available to the two newspapers. The transcripts were prepared for use in the Watergate cover-up trials but never admitted into evidence.

Only prosecutors and defense lawyers would normally have access to them.

Special Watergate Prosecutor Charles Ruff said Sunday no one on his staff leaked the transcripts.

DEFENSE ATTORNEYS also denied passing the material to reporters.

In Beverly Hills Calif., Zelnick denied he, NBC, Frost or his agents had leaked the tapes. "We didn't release information about the new tapes because we're not in the business of publishing," he said. "For us, the story is in the interview, not the background material."

Zelnick speculated former watergate special prosecutor Leon Jaworski had a hand in making the transcripts available to the press and suggested a disgruntled former employee of the Frost crew might have been the source.

Release of the transcripts prior to the start of the videotaped television interviews — Nixon's first since he resigned Aug. 9, 1974 — in effect, makes the former president appear to be on the witness stand against a burden of new evidence as he answers questions about the Watergate coverup.

"I don't know where David Frost might have got them (the tapes)," former assistant special prosecutor Richard BenVeniste siad. "They didn't get them from the special prosecutors."

THE TAPES are sealed from the public by order of a three-judge federal court panel, at least until the Supreme Court decides whether Nixon or the government owns them.

Oswald IRS letter cited in probe

1963, the paper reported. The letter mentions Oswald had two children, indicating it was written after his second child was born Oct. 20. The note stated Oswald had completed six months of work, which occurred on Nov. 1.

THE OSWALD letter, seeking tax information from the IRS stated he had "worked only six months in the fiscal year of 1963."

The note did not surface until 1966, long after the Warren Commission had issued its no-conspiracy finding in the Kennedy assassination. It did not become public knowledge until 1966, when it was placed in the National Archives as "FBI Exhibit 274" by then U.S. Atty. Gen. Ramsey Clark, said the newspaper.

The Warren Commission concluded Oswald shot Kennedy from a sixth floor window of the School Book Depository.

A portion of the first part of the letter is blurred beyond recognition, reported the newspaper, "as though someone had performed tests on the script or ink."

The Morning News also reported on the same day he may have written the IRS letter — nov. 1 — Oswald rented post office box 6225, just a few feet from where Dallas nightclub owner Jack Ruby rented post office box 5475 six days later.

Ruby shot and killed Oswald two days later at the Dallas Police station and House Assassinations Committee investigators have been pursuing reports that Oswald and Ruby knew each other. The Warren Commission discounted such links between Oswald and Ruby.

Nixon admits 'mistake' to Frost

H. R. Haldeman discussed the break-in.

• A Nixon-Colson conversation Jan. 8, 1973, in which the President purportedly discussed hush money for the Watergate burglars — several months before the subject was brought up in other tapes. But Colson said this tape already is public, and the term "hush money" is not in the Watergate prosecutor's transcript.

• Several statements showing Nixon was preoccupied with the possibility of being impeached in April 1973 — more than a year before the House Judiciary Committee began its hearings. "We kept one jump ahead of the (expletive) sheriff," he complains to Haldeman at one point. On April 26, he askes Haldeman: "My God, what the hell have we done to be impeached?"

• Nixon was concerned John Dean would reveal Thomas A. Pappas, a prominent Republican, was involved in the effort to raise hush money.

• Nixon characterized Supreme Court Justices William Brennan and Thurgood Marshall as "boobs."

• Nixon voiced confidence that existence of the White House taping system would never be made public and told Haldeman: "I don't think it should ever get out that we taped this office."

Special Watergate Prosecutor Charles Ruff said neither he nor his staff leaked the transcripts. Attorneys for various Watergate defendants also denied giving the material to reporters.

Transcripts of 28 tapes were prepared by Watergate prosecutors for use at trials, but were never introduced as evidence or made public.

'Pressure forces illegal FBI tactics'

GADSDEN, Ala. (UPI)—Public pressure to solve a crime is more likely than "excessive zeal" to lead law enforcement officers to use illegal investigative methods, FBI Director Clarence Kelley said Sunday.

"Such pressure can lead to both a violation of the spirit of the law and a grave miscarriage of justice," he said.

Kelley, whose career as an FBI agent, Kansas City police chief and FBI director spans 37 years, said most officers are hard working, often unappreciated citizens, who are committed to the spirit of the law.

"There have been exceptions, of course," Kelley said in a speech prepared for "Loyalty Day" ceremonies sponsored by the Veterans of Foreign Wars.

"There have been activities in the past which, in the context of today, would be objectionable.

"Oddly enough," he said. "it is seldom the excessive zeal of the officer which leads to his taking a shortcut in solving a crime when all else has failed.

"More often — though it is still rare — it is the public presure, public demands that a heinous crime be solved promptly and by whatever methods lend themselves to its solution.

Race track theater to shut down May 8

by DIANE MERMIGAS

The Arlington Park Theater will close its doors May 8 at the conclusion of the play "The Big Knife" because it has become financially unfeasible to operate.

It may be turned into a "special events" entertainment facility.

The Madison Square Garden Corp., owners of the theater and adjacent Arlington Park Hilton and race track, announced Saturday it would suspend operation of the 700-seat theater-in-the-round which first opened in 1971 and whose history has been marred by financial disputes and a bombing.

tubes, increased susceptibility to infection, aggravated asthma and deterioration of the red blood cells in some persons, she said.

"There is also premature aging of the lung tissue and fracture of chromosomes," Ms. Haley said.

There is no "cure" or "remedy" for ozone conditions, Ms. Haley said. "Ozone is a gas and you'd have to wear a gas mask to be completely protected," she said.

PERSONS WHO ARE severely affected by ozone should stay indoors and recirculate air in the house or apartment with a fan or air conditioner, she said.

Ironically, the ozone that causes so much trouble near the ground is that same gas scientists are worried is being destroyed in the stratosphere.

"Ozone has a double personality," Maloney said. "The ozone layer 40 miles up is very helpful. It blocks out most of the sun's ultraviolet rays that otherwise would burn us up and give us skin cancer.

"But near the ground, ozone is real bad news."

Tape leak lucky for Frost or planned as publicity?

WASHINGTON (UPI) — An apparently well planned series of leaks put Richard Nixon's face on magazine covers and previously secret White House tapes in major newspapers Sunday — three days before a television interview with him was to be aired.

After some reports indicated that David Frost's four televised interviews with Nixon contained little in the way of sensational news, and Business Week magazine reported much of the commercial time remained unsold, transcripts appeared in the Washington Post and New York Times of White House conversations implicating Nixon further in the Watergate cover-up.

Newsweek and Time magazines came out Sunday evening with cover stories on Nixon — quoting portions of the Frost interviews which begin Wednesday night on stations across the country on a syndicated basis.

CBS' "60 Minutes program" also included a segment about the Frost-Nixon interviews.

ABC NEWS quoted Robert Zelnick, editor-in-chief of Frost's production team as saying the British television star and enterpreneur had access to the secret Oval Office transcripts seven months ago.

There was widespread speculation Frost or his agents made the transcripts available to the two newspapers. The transcripts were prepared for use in the Watergate cover-up trials but never admitted into evidence.

Only prosecutors and defense lawyers would normally have access to them.

Special Watergate Prosecutor Charles Ruff said Sunday no one on his staff leaked the transcripts.

DEFENSE ATTORNEYS also denied passing the material to reporters.

In Beverly Hills Calif., Zelnick denied he, NBC, Frost or his agents had leaked the tapes. "We didn't release information about the new tapes because we're not in the business of publishing," he said. "For us, the story is in the interview, not the background material."

Zelnick speculated former watergate special prosecutor Leon Jaworski had a hand in making the transcripts available to the press and suggested a disgruntled former employee of the Frost crew might have been the source.

Release of the transcripts prior to the start of the videotaped television interviews — Nixon's first since he resigned Aug. 9, 1974 — in effect, makes the former president appear to be on the witness stand against a burden of new evidence as he answers questions about the Watergate coverup.

"I don't know where David Frost might have got them (the tapes)," former assistant special prosecutor Richard BenVeniste siad. "They didn't get them from the special prosecutors."

THE TAPES are sealed from the public by order of a three-judge federal court panel, at least until the Supreme Court decides whether Nixon or the government owns them.

H. R. Haldeman discussed the break-in.

• A Nixon-Colson conversation Jan. 8, 1973, in which the President purportedly discussed hush money for the Watergate burglars — several months before the subject was brought up in other tapes. But Colson said this tape already is public, and the term "hush money" is not in the Watergate prosecutor's transcript.

• Several statements showing Nixon was preoccupied with the possibility of being impeached in April 1973 — more than a year before the House Judiciary Committee began its hearings. "We kept one jump ahead of the (expletive) sheriff," he complains to Haldeman at one point. On April 26, he askes Haldeman: "My God, what the hell have we done to be impeached?"

• Nixon was concerned John Dean would reveal Thomas A. Pappas, a prominent Republican, was involved in the effort to raise hush money.

• Nixon characterized Supreme Court Justices William Brennan and Thurgood Marshall as "boobs."

• Nixon voiced confidence that existence of the White House taping system would never be made public and told Haldeman: "I don't think it should ever get out that we taped this office."

Special Watergate Prosecutor Charles Ruff said neither he nor his staff leaked the transcripts. Attorneys for various Watergate defendants also denied giving the material to reporters.

Transcripts of 28 tapes were prepared by Watergate prosecutors for use at trials, but were never introduced as evidence or made public.

1963, the paper reported. The letter mentions Oswald had two children, indicating it was written after his second child was born Oct. 20. The note stated Oswald had completed six months of work, which occurred on Nov. 1.

THE OSWALD letter, seeking tax information from the IRS stated he had "worked only six months in the fiscal year of 1963."

The note did not surface until 1966, long after the Warren Commission had issued its no-conspiracy finding in the Kennedy assassination. It did not become public knowledge until 1966, when it was placed in the National Archives as "FBI Exhibit 274" by then U.S. Atty. Gen. Ramsey Clark, said the newspaper.

The Warren Commission concluded Oswald shot Kennedy from a sixth floor window of the School Book Depository.

A portion of the first part of the letter is blurred beyond recognition, reported the newspaper, "as though someone had performed tests on the script or ink."

The Morning News also reported on the same day he may have written the IRS letter — nov. 1 — Oswald rented post office box 6225, just a few feet from where Dallas nightclub owner Jack Ruby rented post office box 5475 six days later.

Ruby shot and killed Oswald two days later at the Dallas Police station and House Assassinations Committee investigators have been pursuing reports that Oswald and Ruby knew each other. The Warren Commission discounted such links between Oswald and Ruby.

'Pressure forces illegal FBI tactics'

GADSDEN, Ala. (UPI)—Public pressure to solve a crime is more likely than "excessive zeal" to lead law enforcement officers to use illegal investigative methods, FBI Director Clarence Kelley said Sunday.

"Such pressure can lead to both a violation of the spirit of the law and a grave miscarriage of justice," he said.

Kelley, whose career as an FBI agent, Kansas City police chief and FBI director spans 37 years, said most officers are hard working, often unappreciated citizens, who are committed to the spirit of the law.

"There have been exceptions, of course," Kelley said in a speech prepared for "Loyalty Day" ceremonies sponsored by the Veterans of Foreign Wars.

"There have been activities in the past which, in the context of today, would be objectionable.

"Oddly enough," he said. "it is seldom the excessive zeal of the officer which leads to his taking a shortcut in solving a crime when all else has failed.

"More often — though it is still rare — it is the public presure, public demands that a heinous crime be solved promptly and by whatever methods lend themselves to its solution.

Chance of cervic cancer low: medic

The risk of vaginal or cervical cancer may be as low as one in 10,000 for young women exposed to synthetic estrogen during their fetal stage of development because their mothers took the hormone during pregnancy, a University of Chicago physician reported todav. Dr. Arthur L. Herbst, chairman of the university's department of obstetrics and gynecology, said the odds may be as high as one in 1,000 for young women whose mothers took synthetic estrogen known as diethylettibestrol (DES). The wide range is due to the uncertainty of how many pregnant women ingested the synthetic estrogen during pregnancy, he reported in the May issue of the American Journal of Obstetrics and Gynecology. Herbst also theorized that DES was merely one of several factors that may have been responsible for causing such cancers. Although these are unknown, he said, "it appears likely that some of them are associated with the onset of puberty."

Liability insurance likely easier to get

Illinois businessmen willing to pay an assistance fee will find it easier to secure product liability insurance this week when the State Dept. of Insurance begins a new program, it was announced Sunday. Richard Mathias, director of insurance, said the Illinois products liability market assistance program was scheduled to go into effect Wednesday.

The voluntary program is being conducted by Illinois insurance agents under insurance department direction. A $150 application fee will be charged to all businesses seeking assistance.

Woman dies in auto crash

A woman died and two persons were injured seriously Sunday in a two-car, head-on crash on Ill. Rte. 13, a mile north of New Athens. Lucille Walter, 63, of New Athens died at St. Elizabeth Hospital in Belleville. State police said she was riding in a car driven by her husband, Elmer, 68. Walter and the driver of the other auto, Frank H. Cozean, 25, Baldwin, were listed in serious condition at the hospital.

Lawmaker pledges site closing

Rep. Paul Findley, R-Ill., promised Sunday to do everything in his power to force the closing of a site where highly contaminated waste materials are being buried on the edge of Wilsonville. "I will do all I can to see that Earthline (Corp.) is closed down," Findley told about 200 persons at a town meeting, his second of the weekend. "The people of Wilsonvillle are living in fear." Findley said he would check with state and federal agencies to see if Earthline is violating any regulations. Findley also said he planned to introduce a bill to allow industrial waste material to be disposed of only on public lands away from residential areas. The Wilsonville only on public lands away from residential areas. The Wilsonville landfill, where 55-gallon drums filled with soil containing PCB's are being buried, is owned by Earthline.

Land costs, apathy cited

zwart, an administrative assistant with the responsibility of preparing the village's housing-assistance plan.

THE HIGH COST of suburban land is blamed for the dilemma. Undeveloped land zoned for multi-family development that the village has purchased in the past year has cost as much as $17,000 per acre, Holzwart said.

Richard Bender, an Arlington Heights appraiser, said raw land in the area now is selling for as much as $30,000 an acre. Such prices are common throughout the area, he said.

"Apples for apples, Arlington Heights might cost a little more because it does have a high-class image, but it's probably within 5 per cent of what similar land costs in surrounding villages," Bender said.

In Elk Grove Village, a developer with plans for 62 rent-subsidized apartments as part of a 312-unit development recently paid $15,600 per acre.

THE VILLAGE of Skokie, which also is involved in the U.S. Housing and Community Development program, is having similar problems devising a housing-assistance plan.

"There are no rental apartment buildings being built in Skokie right now, only high-income condominium developments because those developers can afford to pay more for the land," said Marvin Baily, Skokie's director of housing.

"Arlington Heights' revised plan sounds more realistic than their original one, but I think they will have a difficult time providing the new construction," Baily said.

"The only way we can get new construction units in Skokie is probably going to be to require the village to acquire usable sites with community development block grant money and make them available to developers who would be willing to build federally subsidized units," he said.

SKOKIE HAS set aside $150,000 from the community development grants it has received the past two years for the purpose of acquiring land for subsidized housing, Baily said.

"I think that eventually you will see HUD asking cities in the program what efforts they have made to see the units provided in the plan are being produced and then saying a portion of your money should be used to acquire sites for low-and moderate-income housing," he said.

Ryan said he has reservations about Arlington Heights making similar use of its community development plan.

"Rightly or wrongly, there's a lot to be said about the free market approach to things. We have so many things that are desperate needs that it all becomes a question of priorities," Ryan said.

LAST YEAR Arlington Heights used its $134,000 in community development money to buy land for a downtown parking garage. This year's application for $319,000 calls for it to be used for sidewalks, relocating a sewer line, acquisition of property for the historical society and funding of a housing counselor through the Northweest Opportunity Center.

"The funding of a housing counselor shows some seriousness on the part of Arlington Heights to implement its housing plan, but I still get the impression they're trying to comply minimally with the standards set by HUD," said Michael Raimondi, director of Northwest Opportunity Center.

Raimondi, however, said he is more disappointed with HUD officials for encouraging the village to reduce its total goals.

"The housing-assistance plan with 125 units as an annual goal was realistic. To lower the plan doesn't seem to agree with the community action programs HUD has tried to generate," Raimondi said.

THE PROBLEM is that not enough money from HUD is made available to the Cook County Housing Authority, which issues the rental subsidies for most communities.

"Last year in suburban Cook County there were requests for 2,700 subsidy certificates and we got only 1,100. There's no community that I'm aware of that's been able to meet their housing-assistance plan," said Scott Lancelot of the Cook County Housing Authority.

"Based on what I've seen in Arlington Heights, the 50 units in existing buildings is far more realistic and they will have a much greater chance of meeting that goal. But it will all depend on how many units we get from HUD," Lancelot said.

So, Arlington Heights may have difficulty meeting either of the goals in its new housing-assistance plan.

Village to decide on police station

A decision on whether to proceed with plans for a new Arlington Heights police station will be made today by the village board.

The meeting will begin at 8 p.m. at the municipal building, 33 S. Arlington Heights Rd.

Preliminary architectural plans for the proposed building put the price between $2.6 and $3 million.

The proposed site for the building, which would house the Arlington Heights Police Dept. and headquarters for the fire department, is immediately east of the municipal building at Arlington Heights Road and Sigwalt Street.

VILLAGE MGR. L. A. Hanson has recommended the new building be funded with federal revenue-sharing funds, but the village will receive only $2.4 million through that program before it ends in October 1980.

Plans for the police station at times have been criticized as "showy" and too expensive by the members of the village board's police station screening committee, but at its last meeting it received general support.

The final cost of the 39,000-square-foot building will depend on decisions to include a 10-car garage in the rear of the building and an enclosed bridge connecting the police station to the municipal building. Those features will be presented to the board as options.

Girls at Sacred Heart of Mary High School will dance "The Times" in the annual spring Orchesis show at 8 p.m. Friday and Saturday in the school auditorium, 2890 Central Rd., Rolling Meadows.

The students have choreographed dance routines to represent each section of a newspaper. Music selections include "Nadia's Theme" for sports and "Raindrops Keep Falling on My Head" for the weather report.

Tickets are on sale at the school at $1.50 for adults and 75 cents for students.

St. Viator High School

The St. Viator High School Mother's Club will hold "Shop and Share Days" May 3 and 4 at Jewel food stores in the Northwest suburbs to raise funds for the high school.

Benefit slips are available at the school office, 1213 E. Oakton St., Arlington Heights, or by calling the school, 392-4050 or Mrs. Robert Buckley, 253-0502.

HUD approves village request

Arlington Heights' application for $319,000 in U.S. Housing and Community Development funds has been approved by the U.S. Dept. of Housing and Urban Development.

The village's application for the controversial money calls for $140,000 to be used to relocate a sewer line in downtown Arlington Heights. The line now runs through village-owned property where village officials hope to build a parking garage and a multilevel shopping center-office plaza.

Other plans for the federal money are: $85,000 to acquire property for the Arlington Heights Historical Society, $62,000 for installation of sidewalks, $13,000 to fund a housing counselor through the Northwest Opportunity Center and $19,000 for contingencies.

Village to start fine crackdown

A crackdown on unpaid parking fines, which could net the Village of Arlington Heights 100,000, will be conducted by the Arlington Heights Police Dept. beginning this week.

Village Prosecutor Ernest Blomquist said the search through police records will be done by a computer and reach back as far as three years.

"We've got the court's agreement already to go ahead on this," Blomquist said.

Offenses included in the crackdown are overtime parking, overnight parking, invalid vehicle stickers and fire-lane violations.

IN EACH CASE, the offenders already owe the village $100 in fines and court costs for not appearing in court on their assigned dates.

Blomquist said arrest warrants will be issued to persons found delinquent in paying fines.

"We'll concentrate at first on those with 10 or more unpaid tickets and then go down the list," he said.

Deputy Police Chief Paul Buckholz said the search for delinquent fines initially was begun by hand.

"When we realized how many we had, we decided to take the time and effort to plug the information into the computer," he said.

Blomquist said he may negotiate compromise payments with those persons who offer to pay their fines before arrest warrants are issued.

"It definitely will be to their advantage to come in now," he said.

Vandal panel announces poster contest winners

The Arlington Heights Zero Vandalism Committee has announced the winners of its poster contest for third, fourth and fifth graders.

More than 500 posters were submitted, committee chairman Mae Zimmanck said.

First-place winners will receive calculators and game books.

The winners in the third-grade category are: Lori Bajko, first prize; Brooke Norman, Kathy Ignacek, David Durlacher and Carrie Slaninka, $2 McDonald's gift certificates; Tom Kasmarek, Joe Drewke and Jessica Goeller, certificates of merit.

Fourth-grade winners are: Judy Sadowski, first place; Jeanine Sadowski, Heath Kane, Lora Duda, Tom Bertellotti and Rob Ficker, gift certificates; Jennifer Lekan, Lori Sievert, Farrah Hashemi and Howard Linderman, certificates of merit.

Fifth grade winners are: Grant Orman, first place; Gretchen Kretschmer, Jill Isacksen, Paul McCann and Jill Chiappetta, gift certificates; Jan Klug, W. Friese, Sandra Bouse, Carla Fox and Kathy Christopherson, certificates of merit.

Rotary meeting took preparation

Members of the Arlington Heights and Mount Prospect Rotary clubs spent a year preparing for last week's district conference in Oconomowoc, Wis.

The clubs were hosts of the annual four-day meeting.

Wilfred J. Wolf, Arlington Heights club chairman president, said a lot of work went into preparing for the conference.

"It takes about a year to set up speakers, make reservations and plan for the meeting," he said.

In this case, he said, the work paid off. "The meeting was quite successful. We planned for projects next year, received instruction on changes in the bylaws and heard reports from various committees."

Several hundred members representing 41 district clubs attended the conference. Included were members from clubs in Arlington Heights, Buffalo Grove, Des Plaines, Elk Grove Village, Mount Prospect, Palatine, Rolling Meadows, Schaumburg and Wheeling.

Among the speakers was former UCLA basketball coach John Wooden.

Wolf said next year's chairman host club will be Park Ridge.

"These meetings are very helpful for incoming presidents who need to learn about new changes in bylaws and what to expect in office," Wolf said.

Library to feature mind

During the month of May, the Arlington Heights Memorial Library will feature a display entitled "The Miraculous Mind." Books and other materials will be exhibited depicting human consciousness and its unlimited potential.

Highlighted in the display will be the Transcendental Meditation program of Maharishi Mahesh Yogi.

Harold H. Bloomfield, psychiatrist and teacher of the Transcendental Meditation program, has written two books "TM: Discovering Inner Energy and Overcoming Stress" and "Happiness." Bloomfield will present a videotaped show entitled "The TM program and Executive Health" at 1 p.m. May 14 and again at 8 p.m., May 16 in the Dunton Room of the library, 500 N. Dunton St.

The presentations are free and open to the public. For further information, call 398-7153.

2 attend career seminar

Two Arlington High School students have been selected to attend the annual National DECA Career Development Conference of the Distributive Education Clubs of America today through May 8 in Anaheim, Calif.

Attending the conference is Mary Phillips, president of the local DECA chapter, and Norm Quass, a member of the local, state and national DECA organization.

Students receiving first-place awards were: Bill Anderson, Claire Egan, Rayna Grkov, Cindy Applegren, Silvia Hielscher and Tom Reagan., John Gregor, John Ruggeri and Tina Splitt. Second-place awards went to Steve Moline, Bruce Meyers, Joel Fish, Neil Andress, Gay Lakshminarayanan and Cameron Smith.

Land costs, apathy cited

zwart, an administrative assistant with the responsibility of preparing the village's housing-assistance plan.

THE HIGH COST of suburban land is blamed for the dilemma. Undeveloped land zoned for multi-family development that the village has purchased in the past year has cost as much as $17,000 per acre, Holzwart said.

Richard Bender, an Arlington Heights appraiser, said raw land in the area now is selling for as much as $30,000 an acre. Such prices are common throughout the area, he said.

"Apples for apples, Arlington Heights might cost a little more because it does have a high-class image, but it's probably within 5 per cent of what similar land costs in surrounding villages," Bender said.

In Elk Grove Village, a developer with plans for 62 rent-subsidized apartments as part of a 312-unit development recently paid $15,600 per acre.

THE VILLAGE of Skokie, which also is involved in the U.S. Housing and Community Development program, is having similar problems devising a housing-assistance plan.

"There are no rental apartment buildings being built in Skokie right now, only high-income condominium developments because those developers can afford to pay more for the land," said Marvin Baily, Skokie's director of housing.

"Arlington Heights' revised plan sounds more realistic than their original one, but I think they will have a difficult time providing the new construction," Baily said.

"The only way we can get new construction units in Skokie is probably going to be to require the village to acquire usable sites with community development block grant money and make them available to developers who would be willing to build federally subsidized units," he said.

SKOKIE HAS set aside $150,000 from the community development grants it has received the past two years for the purpose of acquiring land for subsidized housing, Baily said.

"I think that eventually you will see HUD asking cities in the program what efforts they have made to see the units provided in the plan are being produced and then saying a portion of your money should be used to acquire sites for low-and moderate-income housing," he said.

Ryan said he has reservations about Arlington Heights making similar use of its community development plan.

"Rightly or wrongly, there's a lot to be said about the free market approach to things. We have so many things that are desperate needs that it all becomes a question of priorities," Ryan said.

LAST YEAR Arlington Heights used its $134,000 in community development money to buy land for a downtown parking garage. This year's application for $319,000 calls for it to be used for sidewalks, relocating a sewer line, acquisition of property for the historical society and funding of a housing counselor through the Northweest Opportunity Center.

"The funding of a housing counselor shows some seriousness on the part of Arlington Heights to implement its housing plan, but I still get the impression they're trying to comply minimally with the standards set by HUD," said Michael Raimondi, director of Northwest Opportunity Center.

Raimondi, however, said he is more disappointed with HUD officials for encouraging the village to reduce its total goals.

"The housing-assistance plan with 125 units as an annual goal was realistic. To lower the plan doesn't seem to agree with the community action programs HUD has tried to generate," Raimondi said.

THE PROBLEM is that not enough money from HUD is made available to the Cook County Housing Authority, which issues the rental subsidies for most communities.

"Last year in suburban Cook County there were requests for 2,700 subsidy certificates and we got only 1,100. There's no community that I'm aware of that's been able to meet their housing-assistance plan," said Scott Lancelot of the Cook County Housing Authority.

"Based on what I've seen in Arlington Heights, the 50 units in existing buildings is far more realistic and they will have a much greater chance of meeting that goal. But it will all depend on how many units we get from HUD," Lancelot said.

So, Arlington Heights may have difficulty meeting either of the goals in its new housing-assistance plan.

Village to decide on police station

A decision on whether to proceed with plans for a new Arlington Heights police station will be made today by the village board.

The meeting will begin at 8 p.m. at the municipal building, 33 S. Arlington Heights Rd.

Preliminary architectural plans for the proposed building put the price between $2.6 and $3 million.

The proposed site for the building, which would house the Arlington Heights Police Dept. and headquarters for the fire department, is immediately east of the municipal building at Arlington Heights Road and Sigwalt Street.

VILLAGE MGR. L. A. Hanson has recommended the new building be funded with federal revenue-sharing funds, but the village will receive only $2.4 million through that program before it ends in October 1980.

Plans for the police station at times have been criticized as "showy" and too expensive by the members of the village board's police station screening committee, but at its last meeting it received general support.

The final cost of the 39,000-square-foot building will depend on decisions to include a 10-car garage in the rear of the building and an enclosed bridge connecting the police station to the municipal building. Those features will be presented to the board as options.

Andersen cast in Marriott show

Tom Andersen, a junior at Arlington High School, will be a member of the "Grand Music Hall" cast at Marriott's Great America in Gurnee this summer. Anderson has performed with local theater groups and was cast as Oliver in the Best Off Broadway production of "Oliver."

JOUSTER PERFORM for a make-believe Spanish king and queen as part of Olive School's Renaissance Faire. Turning the hands of time back to the 14th, 15th and 16th centuries, the kindergarten-through fifth-grade students Friday played the part of court jesters and tumblers and performed scenes from Macbeth and Don Quixote.

Soviets' cruelty to Jews protested

Hundreds of thousands of persons, led by New York's top politicians, jammed Battery Park in lower Manhattan Sunday to protest mistreatment of Jews in the Soviet Union. The demonstration, entitled "Solidarity Sunday for Soviet Jewry" and taking place coincidentally on May Day, which is celebrated in the Soviet Union, was peaceful and observers said it drew at least as many as last year's 200,000 participants. The demonstrators carried signs and chanted slogans in Hebrew and Yiddish as they jammed most of the park, spilling out for at least five blocks in all directions. Leading the way were children wearing black and white striped prison uniforms and carrying mock jail gates. They were followed by throngs carrying blue flags with the white Star of David.

Reagan criticizes energy plan

President Carter's plan to save fuel by penalizing large users and rewarding those who conserve "isn't an energy program, it's a tax program," former California Gov. Ronald Reagan said Sunday. "I have felt for a long time that the government is not the answer to the energy problem. The government is the problem," Reagan said. "We're not troubled so much by a shortage of energy as by a surplus of government. "The answer lies in the marketplace." Reagan, defeated by Gerald Ford for the Republican presidential nomination last year, was interviewed on NBC-TV's "Meet the Press."

Cubans return research vessel

A marine research vessel, the Venture, returned home over the weekend after spending 2½ days under interrogation by Cuban authorities. Capt. Jack Kluever said the 125-foot ship was boarded by Cubans last Monday when it was "about two or three miles" off the Cuban coast. "It was an accident," Kluever said Saturday. He said the vessel was sailing too close to the Cuban coast because of a navigational error. "They were very efficient, but pretty military," he said of the boarding party. "I don't believe that anyone ever had a gun pointed at us."

The world

Violence marks May Day marches

About 2 million flag-waving marchers paraded before the elite of the Soviet leadership Sunday in a May Day celebration on Red Square in Moscow. May Day clashes in Turkey and El Salvador killed dozens of persons. In Madrid, Spanish police used truncheons and teargas canisters to fight leftists defying a ban on May Day demonstrations. Thousands also turned out for rallies in France, Italy and Japan. In May Day speeches, Ethiopian strongman Mengistu Haile Mariam told cheering crowds in Addis Ababa five U.S. agencies shut down last week had been "fountains of espionage," and Egyptian President Anwar Sadat said in Alexandria that Egyptian pilots would take over Zaire's air force to help crush a rebel invasion. In Istanbul, fighting between rival leftist groups in a downtown square killed a police officer. In San Salvador, army troops fired on demonstrators at an illegal rally, and unconfirmed reports said at least eight persons died.

Travelers protest airport strike

Hundreds of angry passengers stranded by an airport strike stormed the offices of El Al airlines Sunday to demand transfers to other flights. The two-day walkout by 550 El Al maintenance workers demanding shorter hours has so far grounded 40 flights and affected thousands of travelers in Israel alone. Many of them have been put up in hotels to await available planes. Several hundred passengers stormed the airline's airport officers and demanded they be transferred to other flights, a spokesman said. He said El Al has chartered four planes, including two 747 jets, to help handle the overload. The maintenance workers said they will report to their jobs Monday but will not resume work until their demands are met.

5 small nations have bomb: report

Five small countries in Europe, Africa, South America and Asia now have nuclear weapons or will be the end of the year, it was reported Sunday. An article in the May 19 issue of Rolling Stone magazine, entitled "Plutonium for Sale" identified the countries as Argentina, South Africa, South Korea, Spain and Taiwan. The article, quoting Washington sources, said the five are getting nuclear arms by diverting fuel from commercial nuclear reactors. Countries which have atomic bombs are the United States, the Soviet Union, Great Britain, France, China, India. There also have been widespread reports that Israel has the atomic bomb.

Egypt to aid Zaire air force

Egypt said Sunday its pilots will take over Zaire's air force to help it repel Katangese invaders. Zaire President Mobutu Sese Seko hopped on a htlicopter and went "alone . . . to face the enemy," the official AZAP news agency reported. President Anwar Sadat, in a May Day speech in Alexandria, said he decided to help Zaire because the Katangese invasion threatens neighboring Sudan and the source of the Nile.

Woodcock says UAW to fight car tax, rebate

DETROIT (UPI) — Although he reportedly is in line for an important diplomatic post in the Carter administration, United Auto Workers Pres. Leonard Woodcock Sunday said his union will fight President Carter's plan for taxes on gas-guzzling cars and rebates on small models.

In a published interview, Woodcock said the union plans to lobby heavily in Congress for rejection of the tax and rebate portions of the proposal. Under the plan gas hogs would be taxed and the revenues would go as rebates to buyers of fuel-efficient cars.

"I don't think the thing's been thought through adequately," Woodcock said.

WOODCOCK WAS the first major labor leader to back Carter and has been reported likely to be named U.S. envoy in Peking when he leaves the union presidency this month.

Despite his close ties to Carter, Woodcock blasted the energy plan as an ill-conceived method of punishing families who need large cars and possibly causing an international tariff war with small car rebates.

Imports were Woodcock's major concern. He said if foreign models with high gasoline mileage ratings qualify for rebates, they will seriously hurt domestic sales. If not, he said, other nations may retaliate when their share of the American market shrinks.

"I am positive that Congress will not vote a rebate to imports," he said. "There would be a tremendous reaction among our members, certainly, at the thought of taxes levied on American cars going as rebates to foreign imports."

WOODCOCK SAID his union instead will lobby for the current system of fining car makers who don't meet a specified average for fuel economy. Next year, under existing laws, companies must have a fleet average of 18 miles a gallon.

They will be fined $5 a car for each tenth of a mile per gallon over that limit.

Another battle that finds Woodcock and the union siding with the companies involves pollution control standards on 1978 model cars. Woodcock said the UAW will work with the companies to win passage of their proposals for emission limits next year.

Company executives have said they can't meet limits in the existing law and last week the House Commerce Committee approved revised standards the companies and the UAW still consider too strict.

The nation

Soviets' cruelty to Jews protested

Hundreds of thousands of persons, led by New York's top politicians, jammed Battery Park in lower Manhattan Sunday to protest mistreatment of Jews in the Soviet Union. The demonstration, entitled "Solidarity Sunday for Soviet Jewry" and taking place coincidentally on May Day, which is celebrated in the Soviet Union, was peaceful and observers said it drew at least as many as last year's 200,000 participants. The demonstrators carried signs and chanted slogans in Hebrew and Yiddish as they jammed most of the park, spilling out for at least five blocks in all directions. Leading the way were children wearing black and white striped prison uniforms and carrying mock jail gates. They were followed by throngs carrying blue flags with the white Star of David.

Reagan criticizes energy plan

President Carter's plan to save fuel by penalizing large users and rewarding those who conserve "isn't an energy program, it's a tax program," former California Gov. Ronald Reagan said Sunday. "I have felt for a long time that the government is not the answer to the energy problem. The government is the problem," Reagan said. "We're not troubled so much by a shortage of energy as by a surplus of government. "The answer lies in the marketplace." Reagan, defeated by Gerald Ford for the Republican presidential nomination last year, was interviewed on NBC-TV's "Meet the Press."

Cubans return research vessel

A marine research vessel, the Venture, returned home over the weekend after spending 2½ days under interrogation by Cuban authorities. Capt. Jack Kluever said the 125-foot ship was boarded by Cubans last Monday when it was "about two or three miles" off the Cuban coast. "It was an accident," Kluever said Saturday. He said the vessel was sailing too close to the Cuban coast because of a navigational error. "They were very efficient, but pretty military," he said of the boarding party. "I don't believe that anyone ever had a gun pointed at us."

Violence marks May Day marches

About 2 million flag-waving marchers paraded before the elite of the Soviet leadership Sunday in a May Day celebration on Red Square in Moscow. May Day clashes in Turkey and El Salvador killed dozens of persons. In Madrid, Spanish police used truncheons and teargas canisters to fight leftists defying a ban on May Day demonstrations. Thousands also turned out for rallies in France, Italy and Japan. In May Day speeches, Ethiopian strongman Mengistu Haile Mariam told cheering crowds in Addis Ababa five U.S. agencies shut down last week had been "fountains of espionage," and Egyptian President Anwar Sadat said in Alexandria that Egyptian pilots would take over Zaire's air force to help crush a rebel invasion. In Istanbul, fighting between rival leftist groups in a downtown square killed a police officer. In San Salvador, army troops fired on demonstrators at an illegal rally, and unconfirmed reports said at least eight persons died.

Travelers protest airport strike

Hundreds of angry passengers stranded by an airport strike stormed the offices of El Al airlines Sunday to demand transfers to other flights. The two-day walkout by 550 El Al maintenance workers demanding shorter hours has so far grounded 40 flights and affected thousands of travelers in Israel alone. Many of them have been put up in hotels to await available planes. Several hundred passengers stormed the airline's airport officers and demanded they be transferred to other flights, a spokesman said. He said El Al has chartered four planes, including two 747 jets, to help handle the overload. The maintenance workers said they will report to their jobs Monday but will not resume work until their demands are met.

5 small nations have bomb: report

Five small countries in Europe, Africa, South America and Asia now have nuclear weapons or will be the end of the year, it was reported Sunday. An article in the May 19 issue of Rolling Stone magazine, entitled "Plutonium for Sale" identified the countries as Argentina, South Africa, South Korea, Spain and Taiwan. The article, quoting Washington sources, said the five are getting nuclear arms by diverting fuel from commercial nuclear reactors. Countries which have atomic bombs are the United States, the Soviet Union, Great Britain, France, China, India. There also have been widespread reports that Israel has the atomic bomb.

Egypt to aid Zaire air force

Egypt said Sunday its pilots will take over Zaire's air force to help it repel Katangese invaders. Zaire President Mobutu Sese Seko hopped on a htlicopter and went "alone . . . to face the enemy," the official AZAP news agency reported. President Anwar Sadat, in a May Day speech in Alexandria, said he decided to help Zaire because the Katangese invasion threatens neighboring Sudan and the source of the Nile.

Woodcock says UAW to fight car tax, rebate

DETROIT (UPI) — Although he reportedly is in line for an important diplomatic post in the Carter administration, United Auto Workers Pres. Leonard Woodcock Sunday said his union will fight President Carter's plan for taxes on gas-guzzling cars and rebates on small models.

In a published interview, Woodcock said the union plans to lobby heavily in Congress for rejection oi the tax and rebate portions of the proposal. Under the plan gas hogs would be taxed and the revenues would go as rebates to buyers of fuel-efficient cars.

"I don't think the thing's been thought through adequately," Woodcock said.

WOODCOCK WAS the first major labor leader to back Carter and has been reported likely to be named U.S. envoy in Peking when he leaves the union presidency this month.

Despite his close ties to Carter, Woodcock blasted the energy plan as an ill-conceived method of punishing families who need large cars and possibly causing an international tariff war with small car rebates.

Imports were Woodcock's major concern. He said if foreign models with high gasoline mileage ratings qualify for rebates, they will seriously hurt domestic sales. If not, he said, other nations may retaliate when their share of the American market shrinks.

"I am positive that Congress will not vote a rebate to imports," he said. "There would be a tremendous reaction among our members, certainly, at the thought of taxes levied on American cars going as rebates to foreign imports."

WOODCOCK SAID his union instead will lobby for the current system of fining car makers who don't meet a specified average for fuel economy. Next year, under existing laws, companies must have a fleet average of 18 miles a gallon.

They will be fined $5 a car for each tenth of a mile per gallon over that limit.

Another battle that finds Woodcock and the union siding with the companies involves pollution control standards on 1978 model cars. Woodcock said the UAW will work with the companies to win passage of their proposals for emission limits next year.

Company executives have said they can't meet limits in the existing law and last week the House Commerce Committee approved revised standards the companies and the UAW still consider too strict.

New trade chief warns of fraud in energy aids

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The new chairman of the Federal Trade Commission said he believes the administration push to conserve energy may expose consumers to an onslaught of home repair frauds and other gypster schemes.

Michael Pertschuk said he has established a special FTC task force to police advertising for siding, insulation and other energy-saving home improvements.

The agency also may go after advertising that encourages energy waste, he said.

In his first in-depth interview since taking office, the former chief counsel for the Senate Commerce Committee said there already is a flood of entrepreneurs on the market peddling various energy conservation devices and programs.

"THE COMMISSION has had timeous energy conservation devices and programs.

honored experience with siding and home improvement salesmen and they've been given a new lease on life," by President Carter's call for tax breaks for energy-saving repairs and installations, he said.

"It's going to be very important to police those activities to make sure that fraud and misrepresentation are prevented.

"There's a need for standards in the area. What is an adequate solar heating unit? How can the consumer compare the various kinds of not only solar heating but insulation and other methods of providing for retrofitting of homes," he said.

"THEN THERE are some more difficult issues which really go to the heart of marketing and advertising which the commission may have to look at — that kind of advertising and those kinds of products which by their nature encourage energy waste rather than energy conservation.

"That's a more far-ranging kind of thing and a more difficult one because it clearly involves First Amendment problems in terms of what can be said about products, the kinds of appeals that can be made," he said. "But if we are serious as a nation about stimulating conservation rather than waste, then we'd better take a look at the way in which we market products and services."

Pertschuk said the task force has two missions — to police consumer fraud in the energy-saving business and to continue the FTC's long-term investigation into whether a lack of competition in the energy industry is to blame for shortages.

Pertschuk, a moving force behind important consumer legislation during his 12 years as a Senate staffer, comes to the commission with probably the best consumer credentials of any recent chairman. He also said:

• The commission may well reverse its earlier decisions not to move against advertising for candy and other high-sugar foods directed at children. While he declined to comment directly on two petitions the FTC has just received asking for such a ban, he said, "At this point I'm very troubled by the same things that troubled the people who authored those petitions."

• He will continue the FTC's recent push to end restrictions on advertising by doctors and other professionals as well as barriers to the advertising of specific products such as prescription drugs. The area "strikes me as being high pay dirt for consumer benefit," Pertschuk said. "It's going to mean lower prices for consumers."

Gushing oil leak capped; slick no longer threatens

STAVANGER, Norway (UPI) — Texas troubleshooter Red Adair, who successfully capped a gushing oil blowout in the North Sea, signed autographs like a movie star Sunday, then left for home. Officials said the oil slick created by the leak no longer threatens the beach or wildlife.

"It's been a pleasant stay," Adair said, scribbling his name on scraps of paper as he walked toward his plane.

The 62-year-old oil firefighter, working with a team of daredevils Saturday on a platform in the Ekofisk oil field, choked off the wild, eight-day gusher that had spewed a slick larger than the state of Delaware.

"We had a few heartbreaks, but when we got down to it everything worked out just fine," Adair said.

ABOARD THE Bravo 14 offshore platform mid-way between Norway and Britain, 26 specialists began repairing firefighting equipment, emergency escape capsules and communications facilities.

A Norwegian government official said the oil slick, which once threatened to wash ashore on Danish and Norwegian beaches, "is gradually breaking up and being dispersed in the sea." Another official said the slick had broken into nine patches and covered an area about 22 miles by 40 miles.

"The chance that any of this will reach the coast is very, very, very little," said Hans Christian Bugge, director of the Norwegian Pollution Control Board.

"I think that we have been lucky so far. Biological activity in the area is normal, there are surprisingly few reports of dead birds, no dead fish."

MORE THAN 20 ships Sunday were trying to suck up the remaining oil while marine scientists aboard other vessels assessed the impact of the slick on the marine environment.

Adair and his lieutenants, Asger "Boots" Hansen and Richard Hatteberg, played down the problems of battling Bravo, which has spewed 28,000 barrels of oil a day into the ocean.

But the well, which blew out on April 22, defeated four attempts by Adair's men to choke it off. The fifth attempt succeeded, they said, because they lengthened two pistons, in a crucial cutoff valve, by one-eighth of an inch on the spot.

"I'll tell you, there just aren't words for the feeling we had when that worked," said David Goering, a spokesman for Phillips Petroleum Co., which operates the platform.

"IT GOT SO quiet it was like being in a vacuum. We stood there looking at our watches and saying, how long is it going to hold this time?

"And then after two minutes, three minutes, there was just a surge of certainty that we had it licked."

He said the well now is "safe and locked in and killed."

Production at Ekofisk's other platforms, Alpha and Charlie, resumed Saturday night by Norwegian government permission.

'Car rebates, gas tax not possible'

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Americans shouldn't rush out and buy fuel-efficient cars with the assumption that gas taxes are going up or that there will be rebates, two members of Congress said Sunday.

Sen. Henry Jackson, chairman of the Senate Energy and Natural Resources Committee, called President Carter's proposed standby gas tax hike "just not do-able" politically.

"Gasoline is . . . a must. Right or wrong, we have an automobile culture. The truth is people are going to continue to buy gasoline because they have to have it to get to work," he said.

JACKSON, INTERVIEWED on CBS-TV's "Face the Nation," said "some rather ominous questions" have been raised about the proposed nickel-a-year standby tax.

Rep. Al Ullman, D-Ore., chairman of the House Ways and Means Committee, said if a rebate on fuel-efficient cars is passed, it probably will be retroactive.

"You don't have an energy program unless you face up to the new automobiles and also face up to those automobiles that are out there on the road," he said.

Ullman said his tax-writing committee previously considered a rebate for energy-efficient cars, but decided it was too complicated and "not worth it."

"We're going to take another look at it in the context" of Carter's energy plan, he said on ABC-TV's Issues and Answers. "But I don't think Americans should go and buy an automobile just assuming that they're going to get a rebate."

Ullman said the energy conservation program should "deemphasize the tax and emphasize (conservation) goals."

Ullman said his tax-writing committee previously considered a rebate for energy-efficient cars, but decided it was too complicated and "not worth it."

"We're going to take another look at it in the context" of Carter's energy plan, he said on ABC-TV's Issues and Answers. "But I don't think Americans should go and buy an automobile just assuming that they're going to get a rebate."

Ullman said the energy conservation program should "deemphasize the tax and emphasize (conservation) goals."

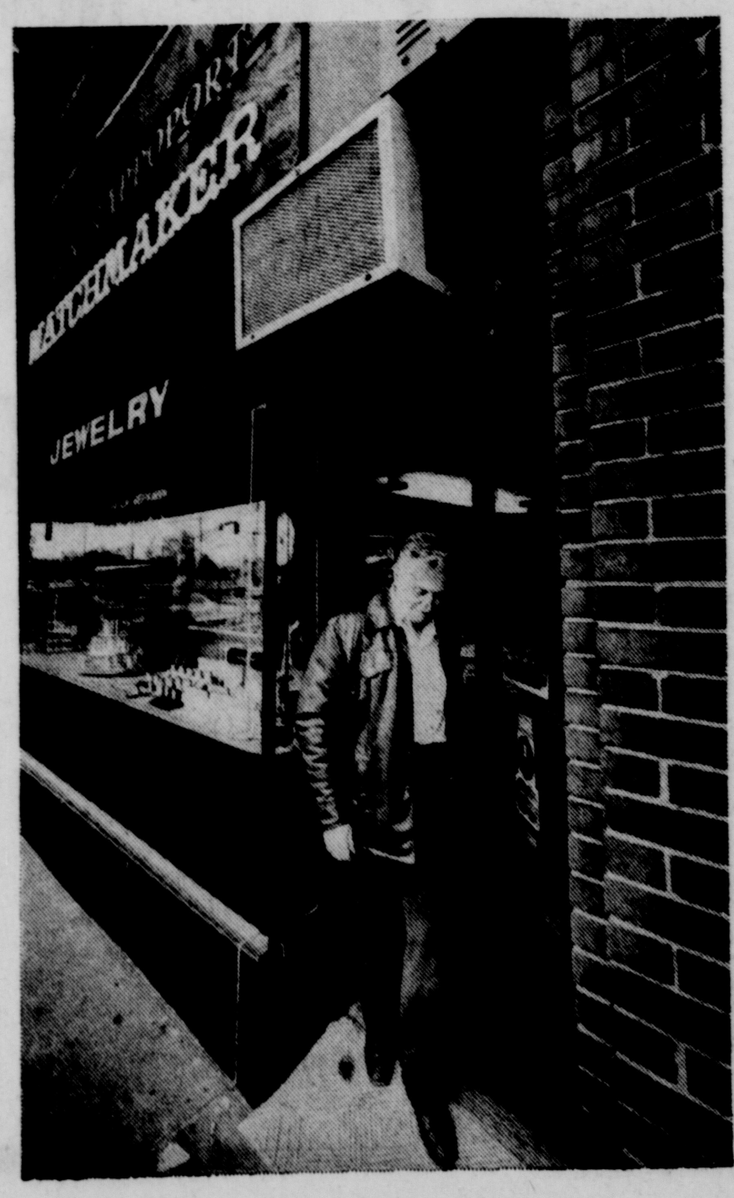
Jack Rappoport lives in a small world. A world of second hands, quarter inch gears and miniscule pins. From the time he opens his shop at 1748 Miner St., Des Plaines, until he closes, he sits at a cluttered workbench studying disassembled watches through a magnifying glass.

WATCHMAKER



Many of Rappoport's customers were his father's before him. The elder Rappoport died four years ago at 83, trusting his son to carry on the family tradition, the family pride. Rappoport, 61, intends to carry it on until his fingers can no longer hold the tiny instruments steady. But he sadly acknowledges his family's trade probably will die with him. His sons and his sons' generation are too impatient for the long hours and tedious work necessary to fix a watch well. And Rappoport would rather leave a watch broken than put it in the hands of a poor tradesman.

Girl ascertains that she's spelling bee winner

Wendy Lin showed no sign of emotion as she coolly rattled off the letters "a-s-c-e-r-t-a-i-n" and clinched first place in Sunday's final competition in Arlington Heights at the regional spelling bee sponsored by Paddock Publications.

Wendy, 14, who graduates June 3 from Robert Frost Junior High School in Schaumburg, will travel to Washington, D.C., June 6 to participate in national spelling competition with 86 other students.

The regional spelling champ, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Peter Lin, 622 Arizona Pass, Elk Grove Village, was one of 15 finalists from earlier Schaumburg, Des Plaines and Arlington Heights regional tournaments. Sunday's spelling bee was at South Junior High School in Arlington Heights.

WENDY WON the title after edging second-place winner Paul Fendley of Holmes Junior High School in Mount Prospect.

He spelled ascertain "a-s-s-e-r-t-a-i-n."

Paul, a Herald newspaper carrier, won a 30-volume set of books from Encyclopaedia Britannica for the second-place slot. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. James R. Fendley, 211 Pickwick Rd., Arlington Heights.

Laura Young of Twin Grove Junior High School in Buffalo Grove, took third place after she faltered on the word "pizzeria," spelling it "pizzaria."

LAURA, THE daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Peter R. Young, 957 Alden Ln., Buffalo Grove, won a Zenith AM-FM phonograph stereo system.

More than 250 seventh and eighth graders competed in the three regional spelling bees. All finalists received a certificate and the American Heritage Dictionary of the English Language.

Judges for the finals were Arlene Woulf of Miner Junior High School in Arlington Heights, Kristin Forsythe of Eisenhower Junior High School in Hoffman Estates, and Steve Forsythe, public information officer for the Regional Transportation Authority.

ALSO SUPERVISING was Anne Chalikis of Paddock Publications.

Wendy Lin seemed to be confident of her spelling ability all through the contest, rarely showing signs of apprehension. Even after her confirmation as winner, the 14-year-old remained reserved.

The final contest word "ascertain" spelled disappointment for Paul Fendley, who had hopes of meeting a friend in Washington, D.C., next month.

He said he and his best friend were hoping to win their respective regional contests so they could be together.

Other winners in the final spelling bee were:

- Margie Wojdyla, 112 E. Garden Ave., Palatine, a Palatine Hills Junior High School student.
- Angie Valenti, 196 Ashley Rd., Hoffman Estates, a student at Eisenhower Junior High School.
- Aruna Lahoti, 412 Westmoreland Dr., Vernon Hills, a student at Twin Grove Junior High School.
- John Zimmerman, 214 S. Bothwell, Palatine, a student at St. Theresa Junior High School.
- Nick Pontikes, 5 Dogwood Rd., Rolling Meadows, a student at Sandburg Junior High School.
- Barbara Vitello, 522 Bell Dr., Des Plaines, a student at Dempster Junior High School.
- Douglas P. Meinhardt, 923 S. Emerson Rd., Mount Prospect, a student at Lincoln Junior High School.
- Suzanne Witt, 4579 Gettysburg Dr., Rolling Meadows, a student at Sandburg Junior High School.
- Tom Brodnicki, 430 Dara James Rd., Des Plaines, a student at Dempster Junior High School.
- Maria McCarthy, 323 Beverly Ln., Mount Prospect, a student at Lincoln Junior High School.
- Jeff Clark, 431 Selkirk Dr., Schaumburg, a student at Keller Junior High School.
- Lisa Ochal, 1761 Pratt Ave., Des Plaines, a student at Iroquois Junior High School.

We've been allocated Lake Michigan water. Let's go get it!

An Irishman never tames his mind's growling tiger

Jim Bishop

Old Irishmen never tame the tiger of the mind. It is up there, pacing a tight circle, baring snowy fangs, growling softly inside a poetic brain. It can be taught to purr momentarily in sleep, a tranquilizer, a belt or two of booze, but it is always awake.

Tom Ferris fought it. He was the fat man of our crowd. He had a face like a dinner plate. He was born in Belfast but he dropped the brogue in Kearny, New Jersey. He kept the swift wit and philosophy that life is one long laugh.

He was a crackerjack reporter and a renowned press agent. He escorted newspapermen over the sand dunes of Bahama islands and squinted in the sun and said, "The skyscraper hotel will be built over there, the 700-boat marina here, and the gambling casino will be on the beach."

NOBODY BELIEVED it. But it happened. He promoted a new hotel by placing a fish tank in the lobby with a gold-lettered sign: "See the Invisible Fish." Hundreds of suckers swore they saw swirls in the water.

He earned a lot of money. And Tom spent a lot. He bought a house at Key Biscayne, Florida. He pretended to be annoyed when President Nixon moved in. Ferris's eyes went heavenward. "There goes the neighborhood," he muttered.

I asked him what his accomplishments were. He scratched his forehead. "Well," he said, "I married a beautiful airline stewardess-nurse. And we have Tim and Bruce. That's about it." He did not mention that he made a lot of millionaires richer by his brand of promotion.

None of them made Ferris rich. They used him, abused him and watched him back out of their offices. This is when the tiger began to grow inside his head. He began to ask himself if, after all, perhaps he was getting old.

THIS OCCURS TO all men at some time — the successful and the failures. Ferris was a winner all the way, one of the most imaginative press agents in the world. He flew to England to set up one of the best-selling campaigns ever devised: "Buy a retirement home in the Bahamas — a pound down and a shilling a week."

When he left Kearny High School, the graduates made solemn promises to each other. Tom Ferris told the boys and girls that, "Fifty years from now, I will ride down the main street in a chauffeur-driven limousine."

He kept promises. Last year, Tom and his Jean flew to New York, hired a big Cadillac and chauffeur, and drove through Kearny in low gear waving to the old men and women who survived from high school.

The tiger was growing. The engaging grin became a lie. Tom was happy that his son Timothy decided to become a writer. But he worried about Bruce. The younger son sought the solace of loneliness. He sat in his room, thinking the dismal thoughts which plague young men who cannot believe that this is a harsh and callous world.

ONE NIGHT BRUCE left the house and was drowned. The boy's death chilled Tom and Jean forever. It was a bone for the tiger. Tom soothed the beast with idle-hour television and a bottle of whiskey.

Now and then, we played golf with Gene Kroll. Sometimes, after a hot nine, Gene and I hit the cold beer. Not Ferris. He spurned all alcohol in public. When his conversation brightened, it was about Tim.

"My kid has lost me already," he said. "He's been published in Harper's and Esquire, and now he's writing a book. Can you believe it — a book?"

HE WAS BECOMING older and more uncertain. His weight was close to 300. When he fell in a faint in the living room, Jean couldn't help him. A volunteer ambulance group took Ferris to the hospital.

The mind was alert. The body was shot. All he had left was guts. He kept asking Jean about that book. Tom knew that Tim was in New York correcting the final galleys. "Ah," he said, "maybe the boy forgot us."

Somehow, the book and Tom made the final deadline. He was dying, fully conscious, when it arrived. She touched his forehead to bring him back one more time.

She held the book up and opened it. "Can you read this, Tom?" He squinted, turned his head sidewards, and smiled.

The book, a work of stellar science called "The Red Limit," had a dedication: "For my Mother and Father, and in Memory of my Brother Bruce." . . .

H.C. PADDOCK, 1852 - 1935

Water planning challenge

The announcement that eight Northwest suburbs have received allocations of Lake Michigan water is a summons to cooperative action by local officials.

The lake water allocation is not the total answer to this area's serious water supply problems. But it is a beginning.

Along with a share of lake water, the state has given the suburbs new challenges and responsibilities. Local leaders must find ways to scale the technical, financial and political barriers that still stand between the Northwest suburbs and Lake Michiagn.

The first challenge is the clear need for continued efforts at water conservation. Users of lake water must follow stringent new rules on conservation. The state will require water-saving toilets and showers in new construction and will order communities to account for 8.8 per cent of the water they receive from the lake.

Lake Michigan water will not, therefore, bring a return to the days of unlimited lawn-watering. On the contrary, local communities must be more vigilant than ever in fighting waste.

A second challenge is for the two area organizations involved in water planning to get together on a unified plan for bringing lake water to the area. Without such a plan, the allocation will be useless.

One group, SHARE ⅜ 3, which includes Schaumburg, Hoffman Estates, Arlington Heights, Rolling Meadows, Elk Grove Village, Mount Prospect, Buffalo Grove and Palatine, proposes to construct a pipeline from the Northwest suburbs to O'Hare Airport, where water could be purchased from the city of Chicago.

The other group, DAMP, a commission which includes Arlington Heights, Mount Prospect and Palatine, proposes that an independent pipeline be built from the suburbs directly to the lake, bypassing the Chicago water system.

There are political and econnomic arguments to be made for each plan, but it is obvious that the people of the Northwest suburbs cannot afford the time or dollars to have competing programs.

The current allocations last until 1980, after which time they will be reviewed annually. That gives local officials three years to agree on a uniform plan and take realistic action or risk losing their share of the water.

While the local communities work on their end of the water planning, the state must take the lead in rational regional planning for water needs. Once the current allocations are used, come communities will depend entirely on lake water while others will rely partly or wholly on their own wells.

The question is whether those communities which remain on well water should be allowed to reap, free of charge, the benefit of rising water tables that result from expenditures by other communities to build lake water pipelines. If that is unacceptable — and we suspect it will be — it will be up to the state to determine a fair allocation of costs.

One way to solve that problem would be through creation of a regional water authority which could coordinate all the water use, from the lake and from wells, that will occur in northeastern Illinois.

The impetus for such an agency will have to come from the Illinois General Assembly, which should immediately undertake a serious study of the issue.

Water will remain an issue in this area for a long time. The granting of lake water allocations is just a first step on the road toward reasonable water use planning.

Who is the victim?

Deprogramming a brutal wrong?

MINNEAPOLIS — Until she was 16 years old Nancy Lofgren was her parents' daughter. They were conservative, she was conservative; they were establishment, she was establishment.

"They wanted me to be the All-American girl," she says, "go to the Lutheran church, go to college, get married, have children, and live right."

At 16, Lofgren began to rebel. She quit the Lutheran church. At first she says her parents were concerned but not abusive. Perhaps they thought it was momentary madness. Teenagers do pass through stages. Besides this, it was the early 1970s, kids everywhere were searching for new horizons before returning to old truths.

BUT LOFGREN was not to return. When she was 18, she and other friends from high school came into contact with an obscure religious movement led by an Indian convert to Christianity named Rama Behera. Lofgren insists that she joined with her eyes open. She says she was not brainwashed. "I just liked what they stood for."

What the movement stood for was and is religion according to the Book of Acts. That part of the Bible records the commission given by Christ to his disciples to go forth "unto the uttermost parts of the earth" to create the first church. In effect, Acts is a brief report of the history of the Christian movement.

Lofgren says the followers of Rama Behera conduct themselves according to the leads given by the disciples in Acts. The sect has no formal structuring, no membership rolls, no official church. "We meet in each other's homes, as the disciples did, and what we do is read the Bible, pray, be happy, and live as fundamental Christians."

AT THE TIME Lofgren joined the sect, it was virtually unknown in Minnesota. That is to say it did not have an image at all, good or bad. Still, Lofgren's parents were worried. "They couldn't understand it," she says, "all they understand is Lutheranism. If I'd have joined the Catholic church they would have been equally upset."

As it was, the parents were more than upset. They insisted that the girl come to her senses and come home. When it became clear she would not, she says they decided to force her compliance. In May of last year, according to the daughter, the parents told their story to friends who then "conspired to kidnap me against my will."

By then Lofgren was no longer a feisty teenager. "I was 21 years old, and I thought that made me a free person in this country."

Lofgren says her kidnappers first took her to a state hospital for the mentally ill, but only for a few hours. Afterwards she was driven to a private home in Minneapolis, where she met several strangers, and where she says her parents had arranged for her to undergo a rigorous deprogramming process for the next week and a half.

LOFGREN SAYS the deprogramming was 'the worst thing I have ever gone through in my life." Day in, day out, the strangers "screamed at me, always menacingly, and wouldn't let me rest or think by myself." The strangers took turns in the process. One would holler awhile, get hoarse, give up, and be spelled by another.

And then there was the physical punishment. Lofgren says her parents were sometimes present for the screaming, but never for the other abuse. "They batted me about, they punched me in the face, they threw water on me." When Lofgren shut her eyes to avoid punishment, "they poked with their fingers to open them up."

Desperate, Lofgren says she cut her wrist in a phony attempt at suicide. "I thought that by doing it I would be sent to a hospital, where I could tell authorities what was happening." But her plan failed. "I was denied medical attention. I bandaged the wrist myself; after that the cuts kept breaking open and bleeding."

THROUGHOUT THE ordeal, Lofgren refused to capitulate on principles. In the end, she says, "I kept faith with myself." She lied to the deprogrammers that they had convinced her of her error. Then she was put in a room with light security. "As soon as I could I crawled out a window," and went directly back to her friends at Rama Behera.

Today Nancy Lofgren says she still can't believe that her rights as an adult citizen can be subordinate to the values of her parents. Recently she filed suit for $800,000 against 11 people she claims conspired to enslave her mind and person. As for her parents, she says sadly that she has now abandoned them as well as their values.

News reports have been filled in recent weeks with stories about how concerned parents have been trying to win their children back from a variety of religious sects through the controversial "deprogramming" technique. In this column, NEA columnist Tom Tiede tells the other side of the story.

New mayor's bad start

Des Plaines Mayor-elect Herbert H. Volberding has gotten off to a bad start on his new administration.

Volberding won't even be sworn in until tonight, but he already has alienated much of the city council by hiring a consulting firm to help him with the transition period.

The problem is that he didn't have the authority to hire the firm, at least not if he expected the city to pay for it.

Volberding, a 23-year veteran of the Des Plaines Police Dept., hired the firm of Pandolfi, Weiss, and Co., to prepare a report for him on the city's problems. The cost of the report, according to an official of the firm, will be less than $3,000.

Under city ordinances, the mayor can authorize expenditures of less than $3,000, but contracts eventually must be approved by the council.

So, if Volberding had been mayor when he hired the consulting firm, he probably would have been within his rights.

But he won't be mayor until he takes his oath of office tonight. And that means no matter how city rules are interpreted, he simply didn't have the authority to act as he did.

The best way for Volberding to get himself out of this fix gracefully is for him to pick up the consulting bill himself and vow to handle things properly in the future.

The amount of the contract should be chalked up to the cost of a lesson learned, — the hard way.

My husband and I are 20-year residents of Rolling Meadows. We used to attend movies in our town when we first got our theatre, but just stopped going when it offered only X-rated movies.

I'm ashamed to say it took a 9-year-old child to ask why she couldn't go to see "Cinderella" because it was X-rated to really wake us up.

Neighbors, what do you answer your children when they ask that question? Let's get concerned. We just got a new city manager and now we have had an aldermanic election. Let's shake our apathetic ways and get Rolling Meadows Theater back to a family theater. Don't drop the ball the Deerfield family started rolling.

Rolling Meadows

HAVING READ all three articles lately concerning the theater I would like to express my feelings.

Rolling Meadows has much to offer its residents. It has the potential of being a community of which all can be proud. Unfortunately apathy is rampant — it shows up everywhere including this movie theater. Its advertising and films stimulate neither wholesomeness in the kids and adults who frequent it or paint sex as the healthy and beautiful part of life that it most definitely is.

To the woman whose concern is the rights of our residents and businesses — do our children have the right also to free access to the full range of narcotics easily obtained at school, in the backyard or just about anywhere?

It unnerves me to think that Michaelangelo's nudes could be even remotely classified with the distorted bodies portrayed in our one and only movie theater.

We've been allocated Lake Michigan water. Let's go get it!

THE HERALD editorials

"Our aim: To fear God, tell the truth and make money."
H.C. PADDOCK, 1852 - 1935

Water planning challenge

The announcement that eight Northwest suburbs have received allocations of Lake Michigan water is a summons to cooperative action by local officials.

The lake water allocation is not the total answer to this area's serious water supply problems. But it is a beginning.

Along with a share of lake water, the state has given the suburbs new challenges and responsibilities. Local leaders must find ways to scale the technical, financial and political barriers that still stand between the Northwest suburbs and Lake Michiagn.

The first challenge is the clear need for continued efforts at water conservation. Users of lake water must follow stringent new rules on conservation. The state will require water-saving toilets and showers in new construction and will order communities to account for 8.8 per cent of the water they receive from the lake.

Lake Michigan water will not, therefore, bring a return to the days of unlimited lawn-watering. On the contrary, local communities must be more vigilant than ever in fighting waste.

A second challenge is for the two area organizations involved in water planning to get together on a unified plan for bringing lake water to the area. Without such a plan, the allocation will be useless.

One group, SHARE 3/8 3, which includes Schaumburg, Hoffman Estates, Arlington Heights, Rolling Meadows, Elk Grove Village, Mount Prospect, Buffalo Grove and Palatine, proposes to construct a pipeline from the Northwest suburbs to O'Hare Airport, where water could be purchased from the city of Chicago.

The other group, DAMP, a commission which includes Arlington Heights, Mount Prospect and Palatine, proposes that an independent pipeline be built from the suburbs directly to the lake, bypassing the Chicago water system.

There are political and econnomic arguments to be made for each plan, but it is obvious that the people of the Northwest suburbs cannot afford the time or dollars to have competing programs.

The current allocations last until 1980, after which time they will be reviewed annually. That gives local officials three years to agree on a uniform plan and take realistic action or risk losing their share of the water.

While the local communities work on their end of the water planning, the state must take the lead in rational regional planning for water needs. Once the current allocations are used, come communities will depend entirely on lake water while others will rely partly or wholly on their own wells.

The question is whether those communities which remain on well water should be allowed to reap, free of charge, the benefit of rising water tables that result from expenditures by other communities to build lake water pipelines. If that is unacceptable — and we suspect it will be — it will be up to the state to determine a fair allocation of costs.

One way to solve that problem would be through creation of a regional water authority which could coordinate all the water use, from the lake and from wells, that will occur in northeastern Illinois.

The impetus for such an agency will have to come from the Illinois General Assembly, which should immediately undertake a serious study of the issue.

Water will remain an issue in this area for a long time. The granting of lake water allocations is just a first step on the road toward reasonable water use planning.

An Irishman never tames his mind's growling tiger

Jim Bishop

Old Irishmen never tame the tiger of the mind. It is up there, pacing a tight circle, baring snowy fangs, growling softly inside a poetic brain. It can be taught to purr momentarily in sleep, a tranquilizer, a belt or two of booze, but it is always awake.

Tom Ferris fought it. He was the fat man of our crowd. He had a face like a dinner plate. He was born in Belfast but he dropped the brogue in Kearny, New Jersey. He kept the swift wit and philosophy that life is one long laugh.

He was a crackerjack reporter and a renowned press agent. He escorted newspapermen over the sand dunes of Bahama islands and squinted in the sun and said, "The skyscraper hotel will be built over there, the 700-boat marina here, and the gambling casino will be on the beach."

NOBODY BELIEVED it. But it happened. He promoted a new hotel by placing a fish tank in the lobby with a gold-lettered sign: "See the Invisible Fish." Hundreds of suckers swore they saw swirls in the water.

He earned a lot of money. And Tom spent a lot. He bought a house at Key Biscayne, Florida. He pretended to be annoyed when President Nixon moved in. Ferris's eyes went heavenward. "There goes the neighborhood," he muttered.

I asked him what his accomplishments were. He scratched his forehead. "Well," he said, "I married a beautiful airline stewardess-nurse. And we have Tim and Bruce. That's about it." He did not mention that he made a lot of millionaires richer by his brand of promotion.

None of them made Ferris rich. They used him, abused him and watched him back out of their offices. This is when the tiger began to grow inside his head. He began to ask himself if, after all, perhaps he was getting old.

THIS OCCURS TO all men at some time — the successful and the failures. Ferris was a winner all the way, one of the most imaginative press agents in the world. He flew to England to set up one of the best-selling campaigns ever devised: "Buy a retirement home in the Bahamas — a pound down and a shilling a week."

When he left Kearny High School, the graduates made solemn promises to each other. Tom Ferris told the boys and girls that, "Fifty years from now, I will ride down the main street in a chauffeur-driven limousine."

He kept promises. Last year, Tom and his Jean flew to New York, hired a big Cadillac and chauffeur, and drove through Kearny in low gear waving to the old men and women who survived from high school.

The tiger was growing. The engaging grin became a lie. Tom was happy that his son Timothy decided to become a writer. But he worried about Bruce. The younger son sought the solace of loneliness. He sat in his room, thinking the dismal thoughts which plague young men who cannot believe that this is a harsh and callous world.

ONE NIGHT BRUCE left the house and was drowned. The boy's death chilled Tom and Jean forever. It was a bone for the tiger. Tom soothed the beast with idle-hour television and a bottle of whiskey.

Now and then, we played golf with Gene Kroll. Sometimes, after a hot nine, Gene and I hit the cold beer. Not Ferris. He spurned all alcohol in public. When his conversation brightened, it was about Tim.

"My kid has lost me already," he said. "He's been published in Harper's and Esquire, and now he's writing a book. Can you believe it — a book?"

HE WAS BECOMING older and more uncertain. His weight was close to 300. When he fell in a faint in the living room, Jean couldn't help him. A volunteer ambulance group took Ferris to the hospital.

The mind was alert. The body was shot. All he had left was guts. He kept asking Jean about that book. Tom knew that Tim was in New York correcting the final galleys. "Ah," he said, "maybe the boy forgot us."

Somehow, the book and Tom made the final deadline. He was dying, fully conscious, when it arrived. She touched his forehead to bring him back one more time.

She held the book up and opened it. "Can you read this, Tom?" He squinted, turned his head sidewards, and smiled.

The book, a work of stellar science called "The Red Limit," had a dedication: "For my Mother and Father, and in Memory of my Brother Bruce." . . .

Big Steel announces losses, sets course for price increases

PITTSBURGH (UPI) — With Big Steel last week revealing weather-related profit losses for the first quarter of 1977, sources in and out of the industry expect another round of steel price increases soon.

Wheeling-Pittsburgh Steel Corp. Chairman Robert Lauterbach said there was an "urgent" need for new increases and suggested that 10 per cent would be about the right amount.

"I would expect some price increases on some products," said an economist in the Carter administration. "Everybody is anticipating it. But I wouldn't expect it to be across the board on all products. I don't know that the administration has any firm expectations on how much it will be."

TOP STEEL executives say the boosts are necessary to recover from the rising costs of manufacturing steel, including the increased wages won by the United Steelworkers April 9 in a new three-year pact.

Noting President Carter is likely to look with more favor on an increase the market place might support, observers say boosts are possible on flat-rolled steel used by the auto and appliance industries.

Last December, when steelmakers announced a 6-per cent price hike on flat-rolled steel, Carter engaged in pre-inauguration jawboning because he did not think demand was strong enough at tha time.

The last mill increase was in February on tin plate, used by the can industry.

ANOTHER POSSIBILITY for an increase involves steel used by the housing and construction industries. Some steel executives have noted an apparent increase in building activity.

Administration sources refused to speculate on the effects of price increases. But the sources said without being specific that certain increases on certain products might be acceptable, while others would not be.

There was no indication steel executives had contacted the administration to advise of pending increases, as United States Steel Corp. Chairman Edgar Speer did in February.

The Carter administration would like this pattern of "prenotification" to continue "so the tone is set for when they come in with an unreasonable demand and it can be discussed before it is announed," an economist said.

Miller, 46, and his wife Alice have six children and live in Park Ridge.

The nine daily Herald newspapers are published by Paddock Publications; in Lake County, Paddock Circle publishes six weekly newspapers.

Small firms told to study competitor

NEW YORK (UPI) — Although industrial espoinage is being practiced on an increasing scale in the United States, many businessmen are dead set against it.

They don't want to resort to Watergate tactics or Sherlock Holmes sleuthing, and they couldn't afford it if they did.

Nevertheless, even small companies must keep thoroughly abreast of competitors' activities, and there are perfectly legal and moral ways of doing so, says Robert Hersey, professor of management and psychology at New York University who was for 20 years an industrial relations expert at Bulova Watch Co.

In an article in the American Management Assn's. periodical "Management Review," Hersey said small companies should take a leaf from the military's book and learn to gather intelligence from lawful sources about the competitive atmosphere of their industries

A GOOD job at gathering this kind of information can improve a small firm's marketing capabilities substantially, Hersey wrote.

The procedures are for the most part fairly mundane, he said. It's necessary to subscribe to all the better trade magazines and market letters that deal with the company's industry and to read them carefully, he said.

But that's far from enough, Hersey said. 'Zeroing in on competitive activity is the key to sound strategic planning."

HE SAID companies should buy specimens of their competitors' products and analyze them carefully and objectively. Salesmen and many other employes should be trained to report on the activities of competitors regularly, especially in their relations with suppliers, distributors and dealers.

Key officers of the company should spend days from time to time talking with customers about competitive products.

Hersey also recommends engaging the services of market research firms that specialize in gathering legitimate information on competitors' products and corporate activity. He said the services of such firms can be had for as little as $3,000 to $5,000 a year.

There are firms in Washington, for example, that search government publications and records for patent data, labor relations and antitrust proceedings, research development and expansion plans and stockholder actions and relations.

Hersey said the services of an outside agency are desirable as backup insurance even if a company itself is doing considerable research on its competitors.

"Top executives, preoccupied with operating matters, are likely to run over an important item of information."

Big Steel announces losses, sets course for price increases

PITTSBURGH (UPI) — With Big Steel last week revealing weather-related profit losses for the first quarter of 1977, sources in and out of the industry expect another round of steel price increases soon.

Wheeling-Pittsburgh Steel Corp. Chairman Robert Lauterbach said there was an "urgent" need for new increases and suggested that 10 per cent would be about the right amount.

"I would expect some price increases on some products," said an economist in the Carter administration. "Everybody is anticipating it. But I wouldn't expect it to be across the board on all products. I don't know that the administration has any firm expectations on how much it will be."

TOP STEEL executives say the boosts are necessary to recover from the rising costs of manufacturing steel, including the increased wages won by the United Steelworkers April 9 in a new three-year pact.

Noting President Carter is likely to look with more favor on an increase the market place might support, observers say boosts are possible on flat-rolled steel used by the auto and appliance industries.

Last December, when steelmakers announced a 6-per cent price hike on flat-rolled steel, Carter engaged in pre-inauguration jawboning because he did not think demand was strong enough at tha time.

The last mill increase was in February on tin plate, used by the can industry.

ANOTHER POSSIBILITY for an increase involves steel used by the housing and construction industries. Some steel executives have noted an apparent increase in building activity.

Administration sources refused to speculate on the effects of price increases. But the sources said without being specific that certain increases on certain products might be acceptable, while others would not be.

There was no indication steel executives had contacted the administration to advise of pending increases, as United States Steel Corp. Chairman Edgar Speer did in February.

The Carter administration would like this pattern of "prenotification" to continue "so the tone is set for when they come in with an unreasonable demand and it can be discussed before it is announed," an economist said.

Small firms told to study competitor

NEW YORK (UPI) — Although industrial espoinage is being practiced on an increasing scale in the United States, many businessmen are dead set against it.

They don't want to resort to Watergate tactics or Sherlock Holmes sleuthing, and they couldn't afford it if they did.

Nevertheless, even small companies must keep thoroughly abreast of competitors' activities, and there are perfectly legal and moral ways of doing so, says Robert Hersey, professor of management and psychology at New York University who was for 20 years an industrial relations expert at Bulova Watch Co.

In an article in the American Management Assn's. periodical "Management Review," Hersey said small companies should take a leaf from the military's book and learn to gather intelligence from lawful sources about the competitive atmosphere of their industries

A GOOD job at gathering this kind of information can improve a small firm's marketing capabilities substantially, Hersey wrote.

The procedures are for the most part fairly mundane, he said. It's necessary to subscribe to all the better trade magazines and market letters that deal with the company's industry and to read them carefully, he said.

But that's far from enough, Hersey said. 'Zeroing in on competitive activity is the key to sound strategic planning."

HE SAID companies should buy specimens of their competitors' products and analyze them carefully and objectively. Salesmen and many other employes should be trained to report on the activities of competitors regularly, especially in their relations with suppliers, distributors and dealers.

Key officers of the company should spend days from time to time talking with customers about competitive products.

Hersey also recommends engaging the services of market research firms that specialize in gathering legitimate information on competitors' products and corporate activity. He said the services of such firms can be had for as little as $3,000 to $5,000 a year.

There are firms in Washington, for example, that search government publications and records for patent data, labor relations and antitrust proceedings, research development and expansion plans and stockholder actions and relations.

Hersey said the services of an outside agency are desirable as backup insurance even if a company itself is doing considerable research on its competitors.

"Top executives, preoccupied with operating matters, are likely to run over an important item of information."

The emotional impact of a heart attack

Nation's number one killer forces changes in victims' lifestyles

Byline report

Barbara Ladd

The pain comes quickly. A gripping ache or pressure in the center of the chest. Nausea. A cold sweat.

Then heart attack.

About 1,400 Americans die daily from heart disease — about one a minute.

Now our biggest killer, heart attacks were nearly non-existent until the 1920s. Today approximately half of all deaths of middle-aged men in North America, the United Kingdom and most western countries are attributed to myocardial infarction (heart attack).

It's not only a man's concern, either.

BEFORE REACHING the age of menopause, women have a heart attack risk of one-fourth to one-third that of men. With other risk factors present (smoking, high cholesterol, obesity, high blood pressure and stress), the gap narrows. At about age 50, women's incidence of heart attack equals that of men.

Although 1.25 million Americans will suffer heart attacks this year, about half of them will recover.

Consider the cases of three Arlington Heights residents:

• Walt Barnett was playing golf seven years ago when he first noticed the symptoms of a heart attack. The next day his doctor gave him a physical and warned that some changes in lifestyle would have to be made or Walt would have an honest-to-goodness attack. He did — a month later. Today he is a few months into his retirement and "feels great."

• Bob Hutchinson used to work two or three evenings in addition to his 40-hour week, and he traveled regularly on business. He stayed up late and got up early. About 12 years ago at 3:15 a.m. he awakened with the first signs of a heart attack. He thought it was an ulcer flare-up and took an antacid. But the pain didn't go away, and that afternoon, after a trip to the doctor's office he was admitted into the hospital with a heart attack. Today, despite also suffering a stroke eight years ago, he plays golf, works in his garden and mows the lawn.

• Dorothy Walter was at the beauty shop under a dryer when she noticed a heavy feeling in her chest nearly a year ago. Not thinking much of it, she shopped for groceries before returning home, but found that the packages were beyond her strength to carry. She lay down and in late afternoon felt nauseous. Her son telephoned the paramedics. It was a heart attack. Admittedly a "hyper person" and a perfectionist, she is learning to take life less seriously and to quit worrying about the future. "i'm not going to change it anyway," she said.

ALL THREE returned to work after their recovery, but they have also undergone changes in their lives in order to reduce the risk of other attacks. It hasn't been easy.

"New heart attack patients have gone from a healthy life, with no indications beforehand, to heart attack recovery," said Judi Sizilak, a counselor with Chicago Heart Association. "It's such a shock. And now they're having to deal with that."

Diet, smoking habits, medications and exercise and stress are re-evaluated by the medical profession. A victim's work is interrupted. Family roles often change as spouses take responsibility in decision-making and household tasks previously handled by the rehabilitating patient.

Will his or her business fail without personal guidance? How are the children getting along? Will family finances hold up? Will sex life be disrupted?

MOST VICTIMS are confused, depressed and worried, said Ms. Sizilak. "It's not just a physical crisis, it's a mental one as well."

The newest trend in the physical aspect of heart attack recovery involves doctor-prescribed exercise sessions where the patient is carefully monitored.

But to help these patients cope with the emotional side of rehabilitation, area hospitals have instituted classes that deal with anatomy of the heart, diet, and lifestyle changes. Hospital chaplains and social workers offer counseling and, if depression persists, some area psychologists give specialized therapy for heart attack and stress patients.

One of the biggest problems, all heart attack counselors agree, is the victim's loss of control over his or her world.

"IT'S HARD. Especially for people who are always in control, like most heart attack victims, that particular loss has the most impact," said Gail Adler, social worker at Alexian Brothers Medical Center.

During the first phase of recovery, when the heart attack patient is in intensive care and not even allowed to read a newspaper, Ms. Adler "lets them have control over me. I'll be their arms and legs until they get into surveillance (the patient's next phase of recovery at Alexian Brothers where more activity is allowed). I'll make phone calls, check into things the patient is worried about and be bossed around so they feel they haven't lost control of everything. I don't do that for other patients."

"Confidence is another factor," said Jack Ruane of the Chicago Heart Association.

The victim may not feel sick after the first week or two, but the doctor is telling him to take it easy.

"THE INSTRUCTIONS are very nebulous. Some people can limit themselves too much and be crippled for the rest of their lives," Ruane said.

Heart attack patients may also be fearful of leaving the hospital, afraid of suffering another attack, said Ron Buck, chaplain at Northwest Community Hospital and an instructor on stress in that hospital's coronary care classes.

"The day the heart attack patient goes home is one of the most anxious days of his life," he said. "He's leaving the mecca of medical care to go home to be cared for by relatives."

"The patient was very secure in the hospital, being monitored and watched constantly," agreed Ms. Sizilak.. "All of a sudden he is on his own. He is very unsure about what he can and can't do. There's a lot of boredom and that's depressing, especially for an active person.

The family may have difficulty coping with the rehabilitating patient, she continued. "They are told to be positive and supportive of him and keep him occupied. But it's difficult to remain cheerful around a depressed person, you know.

"And after all, the family went through crisis, too. They nearly lost him. Who's helping them?"

MS. SIZILAK recommends families not hesitate to seek counseling if the situation becomes serious. She also speaks highly of self-help groups like Mended Hearts, which meets in Maywood, and Coronary Club of Chicago, which meets the second Monday of each month at Swedish Covenant Hospital, 2751 Winona.

Ms. Adler, also enthusiastic about self-help groups for heart attack patients, regrets that none exist in the Northwest suburbs.

"I'd like to see a group started here," she said. "These are people who are sympathetic, understanding of the problems, and capable of offering each other a lot of help. My best feelings come when I see patients exchanging phone numbers as they leave. Supportive systems are so very important."

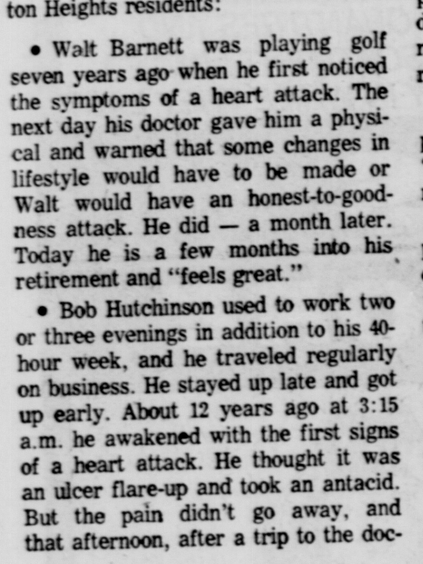
Also important is the willingness for heart attack patients to change destructive health patterns, especially since they have a nine times greater chance of another attack than those who haven't yet experienced myocardial infarction.

Both Walt Barnett and Bob Hutchinson quit smoking cigarets and watch their diets to keep the cholesterol level down.

Bob avoids phoning co-workers, preferring to walk from office to office. Walt works out on the golf course every chance he gets and Dorothy Walter rides a bicycle or an exercycle.

"I consider myself in reasonably good health but in a precarious position," said Bob. "I'm doing what I think I can do, but I try to be as philosophical as I can. Some day another heart attack will get me. But I hope to stall it as much as I can."

It's how we cope with stress that counts



THE REVEREND RON BUCK

by BARBARA LADD

Stress is everyday wear and tear, a given part of life. But for heart attack patients, it may be life threatening.

This is not because research has proven that stress causes myocardial infarctions — that's still up for debate. Some people simply cope better with everyday hassles.

"There's a myth that stress is bad, undesirable," said Ron Buck, chaplain at Northwest Community Hospital and stress counselor in the hospital's coronary care classes. "But I just don't believe that's true. It's how we cope with it that counts. It's how we are affected."

People prone to heart attacks are also prone to a fast-paced life, said Bonnie Rudolph, a clinical psychologist with Elk Grove-Schaumburg Township Mental Health Center. She has been counseling heart attack and stress patients for the past year.

"They push themselves and are overly committed to work. They act like they are limitless. And then their body breaks down," she said.

"That fast-paced, never-satisfied attitude is common in suburban Chicago" said Buck.

"Here in the Northwest suburbs we have a lot of external stress which results in the 'I-shoulds'," he said. "For example, if everyone in the neighborhood has wrought-iron gates, some people are likely to say 'I should have one too.' I tell the heart attack patients that anytime they think or say 'I-should,' they must ask themselves if they can substitute the phrase 'I-want'."

Although he terms the social pressure of 'I-should' as the greatest area of emotional stress, he is also concerned about the concept of loss.

"I'm not just talking about loss in terms of death and grief, but especially in this transient suburban area, the loss of friends. It's a constant pressure on us. We have little losses all the time. Neighbors move, peer groups shift, office workers are transferred or get different jobs. We're constantly breaking and building new ties. And it's stressful."

It's important, he continued, that heart attack patients recognize and deal with stressful situations over which they have control and accept those over which they do not.

"We have control over our standard of living and over whom we choose to spend our time with. We don't have control over the expectations of our bosses or inflation. For the most part, we have control over our work setting. We have the power to decide to stay or find another job."

He added, "I ask heart attack patients how they want to live out the rest of their lives. Most have had three weeks in the hospital lying in bed to think 'Is life really worth it'."

Sometimes patients decide they need to get a new job, sometimes they seek counseling for an unhappy marriage, said Buck.

In crisis people are generally willing to make change in their lives, observed Ms. Rudolph.

"It provides an opportunity for a person to grow and progress," she said. "They can come out healthier and happier."

Elastic cord gives waistbands adjustable fullness

Eunice Farmer

Sew simple

Dear Eunice Farmer: Will you please tell us how to apply elastic cord to waistlines? It is used in ready made dresses, but patterns usually show a casing, and the flat elastic for it ends up bulky. — Mrs. J. McG.

Dear Mrs. J. McG.: The following technique can be used with lightweight or sheer fabric and can be applied to any straight dress in which you want to keep the fullness at the waistline without holding it in with a belt or a tie.

Tie a string tightly around your waistline and adjust the fullness of the garment. If you like a slightly blouson look, pull the skirt up slightly so that it blouses over the string.

After marking the position of the string with a few pins, remove the garment and mark the string's location with basting thread that can be seen from the inside of the dress.

I suggest that you use Staylastic Elastic Cord for the band. It is manufactured by Scoville and is a little firmer and stronger than elastic thread.

Working from the inside of the garment, overcast over the cord, but don't catch it in the sewing machine. Allow a little extra length so the cord won't pull out.

Try the dress on again and adjust the length of the elastic cord so it holds the fullness in place but doesn't pull too tight. Remove the garment and carefully tie the ends of the cord permanently.

I personally love this treatment and use it for shirt dresses as well as other types of dresses. The fullness can be pushed where it is the most flattering for your figure and will always remain in place.

This week's winner of the gold blazer buttons is Mrs. Richard Clasing, Ruthven, Ia., 51358. Her tip:

"To replace frayed bindings on blankets, cut strips of knit fabric to the desired width. If you cut the bindings on the cross-grain, there is no need to turn the edges under. Simply sew with a zig-zag stitch and you have an attractive, long-wearing, washable trim.

Dear Eunice Farmer: I am a beginner at sewing, and am having trouble with sleeves. I've been concentrating on the drop shoulders seam and the sleeves fit in fairly easily with very little excess fabric to be worked in.

Now, though, I'm attempting a dress pattern with set in sleeves and I can't get rid of the gathers in the sleeve cap. I'd like to know why some patterns are easy and others have so much extra fabric. — Mrs. M. V. J.

Dear Mrs. M. V. J.: The problem is the difference between a drop shoulder line and the standard sleeve found in most dresses, coats and suits.

The type you have worked with has a much less rounded sleeve cap because the sleeve itself is set in smooth without ease. This is the type of sleeve found in men's shirts, most shirt blouses and shirt dresses. The difficulty is when you have a standard cap in the sleeve that actually requires easing into the armhole smoothly.

I suggest you stitch two rows of machine stitching from the notch at the front of the sleeve to the notch at the back. Pull the bobbin threads slightly to form a nice smooth cap. The sleeve should always be slightly larger than the armhole, so don't pull those gathers up to fit exactly.

Press the cap of the sleeve and proceed with setting it in.

If you would like more information about sleeves, send for the booklet, "All About Sleeves." Send 25 cents and a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request to Eunice Farmer, Box 4994, Des Moines, Ia., 50306.

Dear Eunice Farmer: Can I use my knit fabric for bindings or must I purchase a finished binding? Also, must I cut the binding on the bias? — Margaret C.

Dear Margaret: Yes, you may use your own knit fabric for self-bindings, unless you wish a contrasting detail. Also, the bindings must be cut on the cross grain, not the bias, for a maximum of "stretch."

The emotional impact of a heart attack

Nation's number one killer forces changes in victims' lifestyles

Byline report

Barbara Ladd

The pain comes quickly. A gripping ache or pressure in the center of the chest. Nausea. A cold sweat.

Then heart attack.

About 1,400 Americans die daily from heart disease — about one a minute.

Now our biggest killer, heart attacks were nearly non-existent until the 1920s. Today approximately half of all deaths of middle-aged men in North America, the United Kingdom and most western countries are attributed to myocardial infarction (heart attack).

It's not only a man's concern, either.

BEFORE REACHING the age of menopause, women have a heart attack risk of one-fourth to one-third that of men. With other risk factors present (smoking, high cholesterol, obesity, high blood pressure and stress), the gap narrows. At about age 50, women's incidence of heart attack equals that of men.

Although 1.25 million Americans will suffer heart attacks this year, about half of them will recover.

Consider the cases of three Arlington Heights residents:

• Walt Barnett was playing golf seven years ago when he first noticed the symptoms of a heart attack. The next day his doctor gave him a physical and warned that some changes in lifestyle would have to be made or Walt would have an honest-to-goodness attack. He did — a month later. Today he is a few months into his retirement and "feels great."

• Bob Hutchinson used to work two or three evenings in addition to his 40-hour week, and he traveled regularly on business. He stayed up late and got up early. About 12 years ago at 3:15 a.m. he awakened with the first signs of a heart attack. He thought it was an ulcer flare-up and took an antacid. But the pain didn't go away, and that afternoon, after a trip to the doctor's office he was admitted into the hospital with a heart attack. Today, despite also suffering a stroke eight years ago, he plays golf, works in his garden and mows the lawn.

• Dorothy Walter was at the beauty shop under a dryer when she noticed a heavy feeling in her chest nearly a year ago. Not thinking much of it, she shopped for groceries before returning home, but found that the packages were beyond her strength to carry. She lay down and in late afternoon felt nauseous. Her son telephoned the paramedics. It was a heart attack. Admittedly a "hyper person" and a perfectionist, she is learning to take life less seriously and to quit worrying about the future. "i'm not going to change it anyway," she said.

ALL THREE returned to work after their recovery, but they have also undergone changes in their lives in order to reduce the risk of other attacks. It hasn't been easy.

"New heart attack patients have gone from a healthy life, with no indications beforehand, to heart attack recovery," said Judi Sizilak, a counselor with Chicago Heart Association. "It's such a shock. And now they're having to deal with that."

Diet, smoking habits, medications and exercise and stress are re-evaluated by the medical profession. A victim's work is interrupted. Family roles often change as spouses take responsibility in decision-making and household tasks previously handled by the rehabilitating patient.

Will his or her business fail without personal guidance? How are the children getting along? Will family finances hold up? Will sex life be disrupted?

MOST VICTIMS are confused, depressed and worried, said Ms. Sizilak. "It's not just a physical crisis, it's a mental one as well."

The newest trend in the physical aspect of heart attack recovery involves doctor-prescribed exercise sessions where the patient is carefully monitored.

But to help these patients cope with the emotional side of rehabilitation, area hospitals have instituted classes that deal with anatomy of the heart, diet, and lifestyle changes. Hospital chaplains and social workers offer counseling and, if depression persists, some area psychologists give specialized therapy for heart attack and stress patients.

One of the biggest problems, all heart attack counselors agree, is the victim's loss of control over his or her world.

"IT'S HARD. Especially for people who are always in control, like most heart attack victims, that particular loss has the most impact," said Gail Adler, social worker at Alexian Brothers Medical Center.

During the first phase of recovery, when the heart attack patient is in intensive care and not even allowed to read a newspaper, Ms. Adler "lets them have control over me. I'll be their arms and legs until they get into surveillance (the patient's next phase of recovery at Alexian Brothers where more activity is allowed). I'll make phone calls, check into things the patient is worried about and be bossed around so they feel they haven't lost control of everything. I don't do that for other patients."

"Confidence is another factor," said Jack Ruane of the Chicago Heart Association.

The victim may not feel sick after the first week or two, but the doctor is telling him to take it easy.

"THE INSTRUCTIONS are very nebulous. Some people can limit themselves too much and be crippled for the rest of their lives," Ruane said.

Heart attack patients may also be fearful of leaving the hospital, afraid of suffering another attack, said Ron Buck, chaplain at Northwest Community Hospital and an instructor on stress in that hospital's coronary care classes.

"The day the heart attack patient goes home is one of the most anxious days of his life," he said. "He's leaving the mecca of medical care to go home to be cared for by relatives."

"The patient was very secure in the hospital, being monitored and watched constantly," agreed Ms. Sizilak.. "All of a sudden he is on his own. He is very unsure about what he can and can't do. There's a lot of boredom and that's depressing, especially for an active person.

The family may have difficulty coping with the rehabilitating patient, she continued. "They are told to be positive and supportive of him and keep him occupied. But it's difficult to remain cheerful around a depressed person, you know.

"And after all, the family went through crisis, too. They nearly lost him. Who's helping them?"

MS. SIZILAK recommends families not hesitate to seek counseling if the situation becomes serious. She also speaks highly of self-help groups like Mended Hearts, which meets in Maywood, and Coronary Club of Chicago, which meets the second Monday of each month at Swedish Covenant Hospital, 2751 Winona.

Ms. Adler, also enthusiastic about self-help groups for heart attack patients, regrets that none exist in the Northwest suburbs.

"I'd like to see a group started here," she said. "These are people who are sympathetic, understanding of the problems, and capable of offering each other a lot of help. My best feelings come when I see patients exchanging phone numbers as they leave. Supportive systems are so very important."

Also important is the willingness for heart attack patients to change destructive health patterns, especially since they have a nine times greater chance of another attack than those who haven't yet experienced myocardial infarction.

Both Walt Barnett and Bob Hutchinson quit smoking cigarets and watch their diets to keep the cholesterol level down.

Bob avoids phoning co-workers, preferring to walk from office to office. Walt works out on the golf course every chance he gets and Dorothy Walter rides a bicycle or an exercycle.

"I consider myself in reasonably good health but in a precarious position," said Bob. "I'm doing what I think I can do, but I try to be as philosophical as I can. Some day another heart attack will get me. But I hope to stall it as much as I can."

THE REVEREND RON BUCK

It's how we cope with stress that counts

by BARBARA LADD

Stress is everyday wear and tear, a given part of life. But for heart attack patients, it may be life threatening.

This is not because research has proven that stress causes myocardial infarctions — that's still up for debate. Some people simply cope better with everyday hassles.

"There's a myth that stress is bad, undesirable," said Ron Buck, chaplain at Northwest Community Hospital and stress counselor in the hospital's coronary care classes. "But I just don't believe that's true. It's how we cope with it that counts. It's how we are affected."

People prone to heart attacks are also prone to a fast-paced life, said Bonnie Rudolph, a clinical psychologist with Elk Grove-Schaumburg Township Mental Health Center. She has been counseling heart attack and stress patients for the past year.

"They push themselves and are overly committed to work. They act like they are limitless. And then their body breaks down," she said.

"That fast-paced, never-satisfied attitude is common in suburban Chicago" said Buck.

"Here in the Northwest suburbs we have a lot of external stress which results in the 'I-shoulds'," he said. "For example, if everyone in the neighborhood has wrought-iron gates, some people are likely to say 'I should have one too.' I tell the heart attack patients that anytime they think or say 'I-should,' they must ask themselves if they can substitute the phrase 'I-want'."

Although he terms the social pressure of 'I-should' as the greatest area of emotional stress, he is also concerned about the concept of loss.

"I'm not just talking about loss in terms of death and grief, but especially in this transient suburban area, the loss of friends. It's a constant pressure on us. We have little losses all the time. Neighbors move, peer groups shift, office workers are transferred or get different jobs. We're constantly breaking and building new ties. And it's stressful."

It's important, he continued, that heart attack patients recognize and deal with stressful situations over which they have control and accept those over which they do not.

"We have control over our standard of living and over whom we choose to spend our time with. We don't have control over the expectations of our bosses or inflation. For the most part, we have control over our work setting. We have the power to decide to stay or find another job."

He added, "I ask heart attack patients how they want to live out the rest of their lives. Most have had three weeks in the hospital lying in bed to think 'Is life really worth it'."

Sometimes patients decide they need to get a new job, sometimes they seek counseling for an unhappy marriage, said Buck.

In crisis people are generally willing to make change in their lives, observed Ms. Rudolph.

"It provides an opportunity for a person to grow and progress," she said. "They can come out healthier and happier."

Elastic cord gives waistbands adjustable fullness

Dear Eunice Farmer: Will you please tell us how to apply elastic cord to waistlines? It is used in ready made dresses, but patterns usually show a casing, and the flat elastic for it ends up bulky. — Mrs. J. McG.

Dear Mrs. J. McG.: The following technique can be used with lightweight or sheer fabric and can be applied to any straight dress in which you want to keep the fullness at the waistline without holding it in with a belt or a tie.

Tie a string tightly around your waistline and adjust the fullness of the garment. If you like a slightly blouson look, pull the skirt up slightly so that it blouses over the string.

After marking the position of the string with a few pins, remove the garment and mark the string's location with basting thread that can be seen from the inside of the dress.

I suggest that you use Staylastic Elastic Cord for the band. It is manufactured by Scoville and is a little firmer and stronger than elastic thread.

Working from the inside of the garment, overcast over the cord, but don't catch it in the sewing machine. Allow a little extra length so the cord won't pull out.

Try the dress on again and adjust the length of the elastic cord so it holds the fullness in place but doesn't pull too tight. Remove the garment and carefully tie the ends of the cord permanently.

I personally love this treatment and use it for shirt dresses as well as other types of dresses. The fullness can be pushed where it is the most flattering for your figure and will always remain in place.

This week's winner of the gold blazer buttons is Mrs. Richard Clasing, Ruthven, Ia., 51358. Her tip:

"To replace frayed bindings on blankets, cut strips of knit fabric to the desired width. If you cut the bindings on the cross-grain, there is no need to turn the edges under. Simply sew with a zig-zag stitch and you have an attractive, long-wearing, washable trim.

Dear Eunice Farmer: I am a beginner at sewing, and am having trouble with sleeves. I've been concentrating on the drop shoulders seam and the sleeves fit in fairly easily with very little excess fabric to be worked in.

Now, though, I'm attempting a dress pattern with set in sleeves and I can't get rid of the gathers in the sleeve cap. I'd like to know why some patterns are easy and others have so much extra fabric. — Mrs. M. V. J.

Dear Mrs. M. V. J.: The problem is the difference between a drop shoulder line and the standard sleeve found in most dresses, coats and suits.

The type you have worked with has a much less rounded sleeve cap because the sleeve itself is set in smooth without ease. This is the type of sleeve found in men's shirts, most shirt blouses and shirt dresses. The difficulty is when you have a standard cap in the sleeve that actually requires easing into the armhole smoothly.

I suggest you stitch two rows of machine stitching from the notch at the front of the sleeve to the notch at the back. Pull the bobbin threads slightly to form a nice smooth cap. The sleeve should always be slightly larger than the armhole, so don't pull those gathers up to fit exactly.

Press the cap of the sleeve and proceed with setting it in.

If you would like more information about sleeves, send for the booklet, "All About Sleeves." Send 25 cents and a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request to Eunice Farmer, Box 4994, Des Moines, Ia., 50306.

Dear Eunice Farmer: Can I use my knit fabric for bindings or must I purchase a finished binding? Also, must I cut the binding on the bias? — Margaret C.

Dear Margaret: Yes, you may use your own knit fabric for self-bindings, unless you wish a contrasting detail. Also, the bindings must be cut on the cross grain, not the bias, for a maximum of "stretch."

Many reasons for low white counts

Are there any cancer cells in the bone marrow of persons with an extremely low white cell count? Is the presence of cancer the cause of the low white cell count? Does radiation destroy white blood cells? Explain the relationship between bruises and white blood cells. Generally how does one feel when he is short of white blood cells? Is there any way to determine this condition without a bone marrow test? Please send me The Health Letter on Understanding the Anemias.

In general, the white blood cells are one of the body's defense mechanisms against infection. Some people have low white counts for no good reason. Others may have a low white count for any number of reasons, including the side effects of some medicines or exposure to toxins which may occur in one's occupation.

A low white count does not mean that a person has cancer at all. So you can have a low count and there will be no cancer cells in the marrow or anywhere else.

Too much radiation may destroy white blood cells. Since radiation is often used in treatment of cancer I presume that is where you fixed on the idea that cancer and low white cell counts were related. Many of the medicines used to treat cancer are also toxic to the bone marrow and may lower the white cell count.

Since whit cells, red cells and small cells called platelets that are involved in the blood clotting mechanism are all produced by the bone marrow, you can have an anemia, low white cell count and a tendency to bleed. The latter can cause bruising. I hasten to add that easy bruising often occurs without any change in the bone marrow or in the production of either white or red blood cells.

Whether a person should have additional tests to evaluate a low white count really depends upon the whole picture and the patient's history. Many patients with a moderately low white count and nothing else do just fine and do not warrant a more extensive and expensive painful evaluation. Other patients with additional findings will need a bone marrow test, which is fairly simple, to provide more information to the physician.

I would like to know what would happen if someone took Synthroid by mistake.

It depends. If you took Sythroid in place of birth control pills by mistake a lot could happen. But if you ignore the medicine you mayhave missed by mistake and just ask about the effects of Synthroid, it is not likely to cause any harm.

Synthroid is thyroid hormone. Your thyroid gland is designed so that if you take limited amounts of unneeded thyroid hormone it just quits putting out so much. The net result of the increase in thyroid through pills and a decrease in thyroid hormone because of the slowdown in your gland ends up about the same. Nothing gained, nothing harmed.

Excessive doees beyond the amount the thyroid normally produces may produce symptoms similar to an overactive thyroid gland. Usually this involves prolonged use of excess thyroid hormones.

Plastic doilies may damage wood tables

Dear Dorothy: I had plastic doilies on my practically new pecan wood parlor tables. When I took them off, there were marks on the tables from everything that had been sitting on the doilies. I've tried everything that anyone told me to do, but so far nothing has worked. Hope you can help. — Mrs. Donald Wismer

I wish it were possible to convince everyone that plastic mats can be destructive to wood A chemical reaction tends to take place when there is heat or weight involved. Hope whatever you have tried has not taken off the finish. Normally, when a finish is good, wiping off the dustlike particles with 0000 steel wool and then applying furniture polish does the job. I've had one set of plastic mats for 20 years. I place food-filled dishes on them and remove them after the meal. Maybe it's because I never let heavy things stay on them and because I keep a good finish on the table that I've never had a mark in all the years. But enough other experiences involving heat or weight have convinced me that in these circumstances plastic mats can do damage.

City landmarks on view

"Chicago: Its Preeminence in Art and Architecture" is the subject of a specially prepared program of slides to be presented by lecturer Irene Overman Kreer Saturday, May 7, after a salad luncheon sponsored by Arlington Heights Area Branch, American Association of University Women. Punch will be served in St. Peter Lutheran Church, 111 W. Olive St., at noon with the lunch following.

Members and guests will see old and new city landmarks that typify Chicago's architectural prowess beginning with its distinction as home of the first skyscraper ever built. That building is still standing.

New AAUW officers will be installed during the afternoon. Jean Jana of Arlington Heights becomes president; Gwen Kukla, Buffalo Grove vice president; June Rostetter, secretary.

An ERA support table will display aprons, bumper stickers and note paper for sale.

Proceeds from the Branch's used book sale will be sent to the Illinois State Division Educational Foundation Fund in honor of named-gift recipients Marilyn Bogen, Mary Haag and Arlington Heights Park District.

Tickets for the Luncheon and program are $2.50. Gwen Kukla, 537-7586, and Randy Long, 397-1122, have details.

Happenings

Mom-daughter dinner

The annual spring mother-daughter dinner of the Messiah Lutheran Church Women will be held Friday, May 6 at 6:30 p.m. in Fellowship Hall of the church, 1477 Dee Road, Park Ridge.

Directed by Mrs. Harold Byrne, a group of Church Women members will present "Living Pictures."

Tickets at $3 for adults and $2 for children under 12 (children under 4 are free) may be obtained by contacting Mrs. Russell Anderson, 823-9284. Mrs. Charles Johnson is chairman of the dinner.

Spring salad luncheon

Palatine Chapter 585, Order of the Eastern Star, presents its annual spring salad luncheon at 12:30 p.m. Saturday, May 7, in the Masonic Temple, 1 N. Plum Grove Road.

Bertha May, a representative of the World Gift Decorating Co., Bellwood, will present "Home Decorating Ideas." Mrs. Carol Richter is chairman of the event.

Reservations are recommended; only a limited number of tickets will be sold at the door. They may be made by calling 358-5237. Donation is $2.75 for adults; $1.75 for children under 12.

City landmarks on view

"Chicago: Its Preeminence in Art and Architecture" is the subject of a specially prepared program of slides to be presented by lecturer Irene Overman Kreer Saturday,May 7, after a salad luncheon sponsored by Arlington Heights Area Branch, American Association of University Women. Punch will be served in St. Peter Lutheran Church, 111 W. Olive St., at noon with the lunch following.

Members and guests will see old and new city landmarks that typify Chicago's architectural prowess beginning with its distinction as home of the first skyscraper ever built. That building is still standing.

New AAUW officers will be installed during the afternoon. Jean Jana of Arlington Heights becomes president; Gwen Kukla, Buffalo Grove vice president; June Rostetter, secretary.

An ERA support table will display aprons, bumper stickers and note paper for sale.

Proceeds from the Branch's used book sale will be sent to the Illinois State Division Educational Foundation Fund in honor of named-gift recipients Marilyn Bogen, Mary Haag and Arlington Heights Park District.

Tickets for the Luncheon and program are $2.50. Gwen Kukla, 537-7586, and Randy Long, 397-1122, have details.

Independents gamble looks successful

A novel adaptation that started out as an uncertain gamble for independent stations and network affiliates throughout the country is heading for success, and it's going to make television history a week from today.

The group of 93 autonomous stations, calling themselves Operation Prime Time, are pooling their money, energy and hopes in an unprecedented attempt to provide themselves with decent first-run programming for prime time and to provide advertisers with top-dollar commercial time.

The group's first $4 million endeavor is Taylor Caldwell's "Testimony of Two Men" which, in Chicago, will be aired by WGN-TV, Channel 9, in three 2-hour segments beginning May 9.

TWENTY-TWO independent stations such as WGN-TV and 71 network affiliates (stations that contract with the three major networks for programming but that remain autonomous in operation) are partners in the project with MCA-TV and Universal Pictures.

The six-hour novel is in every way on par with any of the similar types of network programming we have seen recently.

Its all-star cast of 44 includes well-known actors such as David Birney, Barbara Parkins, Steve Forrest, Ralph Bellamy, Theodore Bikel, Tom Bosley, Ray Milland, Kathleen Nolan, Margaret O'Brien and William Shatner.

The producer Jack Laird is a three-time Emmy winner whose career spans the old "Ben Casey" series, "Doctors Hospital" and "Kojak." Directors who traded off during segments of the series include Leo Penn of "Kojak" fame and Larry Yust.

The writers are numerous and renown; art director William H. Tuntke did the sets for movies such as the "Andromeda Strain," costume designer Bill Jobe did the wardrobe for "Rich Man, Poor Man, Book II" and the project has backing from some of the nation's largest advertisers such as General Foods and Bristol Meyer.

WHAT IT MEANS is that independent television stations finally have decided they have enough money to invest in a much-discussed but never executed venture that may change television programming.

It means alternatives to network programming and commercial time are about to become a reality. It means national advertisers with big bucks are tired of paying expensive commercial time prices for what have become scarce network commercial spots.

The market is ripe for picking. Independent stations, advertisers, actors, writers and picture studios are looking for a viable programming alternative to the three major networks: ABC, CBS and NBC.

For that reason, Operation Prime Time's "Testimony of Two Men" may prove to be just the tip of the iceberg.

The 93 stations to carry the television novel represent a potential 80 per cent coverage of all American households.

"TESTIMONY OF TWO MEN" has a budget of $568,000 an hour which easily matches the estimated $500,000 an hour cost of most top network projects.

The Operation Prime Time project will have the same audience saturation potential and comparable costs of any network project. The only thing it is gambling on is the ratings, and the ratings "Testimony of Two Men" receives will determine whether independent programming alternatives will become workable.

The long-range implications for television and television audiences, if the project is successfull, are exciting. It would open up a new marketplace for

"Testimony of Two Men"

Hollywood studios long dominated by the three television networks.

It would mean more working alternatives for television professionals and more programming alternatives for the viewer.

"We brainstormed all of this just a year ago January at a convention in Los Angeles of independent television stations. Such stations do well with reruns in their daytime schedule but have never been able to present any real programming competition against the networks in prime time, because they never had the funds to buy top quality programming." said Al Masini, president of TeleRep, a company that advises independent stations and now is a major coordinator of the Operation Prime Time project.

ABC'S "RICH MAN, Poor Man" and "Roots" have whetted the public's appetite for television miniseries and novels. "Independent stations alone could never afford to underwrite such a project, but, together, can pool their resources and make it possible to give the networks a run for their money," he said.

One of the first independent television stations to jump on the Operation Prime Time Time bandwagon was WGN-TV.

"The syndicated programs and reruns we pay for are getting to be so expensive, we thought it was worth the risk of going with our own original programming in a cooperative effort with other stations like ourselves," said Sheldon Cooper, general manager of WGN-TV.

"All we have to prove now is that we can get good ratings in prime time with this kind of programming even up against network programs. We've already proven that independent stations can work together for a common cause," he said.

NETWORK AFFILIATE stations are making the supreme sacrifice of laying aside their normal network programming to give "Testimony of Two Men" a try this month. Like other independent stations, WGN is sinking a large amount of money into Operation Prime Time and the first-run syndicated programming such as the David Frost-Richard Nixon interview, the first part of which airs Wednesday.

May is a good month to do it. Stations are selling advertising time for the fall, and programming is at its low point where the networks are concerned.

However, the networks aren't taking this in stride. They are counterprogramming with specials atypical of the "off season."

'Happy Days,' 'Laverne and Shirley' rated tops

The A.C. Nielsen Co. report on 1977 television says that the top two shows across the country are "Happy Days" and "Laverne and Shirley."

The two ABC comedies are undeniable hits among younger viewers but are only included in the top 15 favorite shows for adult viewers.

The number one show for adults in most cases was NBC's "Big Event" which included the movie "Gone With the Wind" this past season.

The report also confirmed that Sunday night still remains the nation's top television viewing night and that more women watch TV than men.

The situation comedy is the most popular kind of network programming and that variety shows are the least favorite types, according to the report.

"The Tony Randall Show" and the "Bionic Woman," both recently dropped by ABC from their line-up of new fall programs, have been well-rated programs throughout the season. Both shows are expected to be picked up by CBS or NBC.

Independents gamble looks successful

A novel adaptation that started out as an uncertain gamble for independent stations and network affiliates throughout the country is heading for success, and it's going to make television history a week from today.

The group of 93 autonomous stations, calling themselves Operation Prime Time, are pooling their money, energy and hopes in an unprecedented attempt to provide themselves with decent first-run programming for prime time and to provide advertisers with top-dollar commercial time.

The group's first $4 million endeavor is Taylor Caldwell's "Testimony of Two Men" which, in Chicago, will be aired by WGN-TV, Channel 9, in three 2-hour segments beginning May 9.

TWENTY-TWO independent stations such as WGN-TV and 71 network affiliates (stations that contract with the three major networks for programming but that remain autonomous in operation) are partners in the project with MCA-TV and Universal Pictures.

The six-hour novel is in every way on par with any of the similar types of network programming we have seen recently.

Its all-star cast of 44 includes well-known actors such as David Birney, Barbara Parkins, Steve Forrest, Ralph Bellamy, Theodore Bikel, Tom Bosley, Ray Milland, Kathleen Nolan, Margaret O'Brien and William Shatner.

The producer Jack Laird is a three-time Emmy winner whose career spans the old "Ben Casey" series, "Doctors Hospital" and "Kojak." Directors who traded off during segments of the series include Leo Penn of "Kojak" fame and Larry Yust.

The writers are numerous and renown; art director William H. Tuntke did the sets for movies such as the "Andromeda Strain," costume designer Bill Jobe did the wardrobe for "Rich Man, Poor Man, Book II" and the project has backing from some of the nation's largest advertisers such as General Foods and Bristol Meyer.

WHAT IT MEANS is that independent television stations finally have decided they have enough money to invest in a much-discussed but never executed venture that may change television programming.

It means alternatives to network programming and commercial time are about to become a reality. It means national advertisers with big bucks are tired of paying expensive commercial time prices for what have become scarce network commercial spots.

The market is ripe for picking. Independent stations, advertisers, actors, writers and picture studios are looking for a viable programming alternative to the three major networks: ABC, CBS and NBC.

For that reason, Operation Prime Time's "Testimony of Two Men" may prove to be just the tip of the iceberg.

The 93 stations to carry the television novel represent a potential 80 per cent coverage of all American households.

"TESTIMONY OF TWO MEN" has a budget of $568,000 an hour which easily matches the estimated $500,000 an hour cost of most top network projects.

The Operation Prime Time project will have the same audience saturation potential and comparable costs of any network project. The only thing it is gambling on is the ratings, and the ratings "Testimony of Two Men" receives will determine whether independent programming alternatives will become workable.

The long-range implications for television and television audiences, if the project is successfull, are exciting. It would open up a new marketplace for

"Testimony of Two Men"

Hollywood studios long dominated by the three television networks.

It would mean more working alternatives for television professionals and more programming alternatives for the viewer.

"We brainstormed all of this just a year ago January at a convention in Los Angeles of independent television stations. Such stations do well with reruns in their daytime schedule but have never been able to present any real programming competition against the networks in prime time, because they never had the funds to buy top quality programming." said Al Masini, president of TeleRep, a company that advises independent stations and now is a major coordinator of the Operation Prime Time project.

ABC'S "RICH MAN, Poor Man" and "Roots" have whetted the public's appetite for television miniseries and novels. "Independent stations alone could never afford to underwrite such a project, but, together, can pool their resources and make it possible to give the networks a run for their money," he said.

One of the first independent television stations to jump on the Operation Prime Time Time bandwagon was WGN-TV.

"The syndicated programs and reruns we pay for are getting to be so expensive, we thought it was worth the risk of going with our own original programming in a cooperative effort with other stations like ourselves," said Sheldon Cooper, general manager of WGN-TV.

"All we have to prove now is that we can get good ratings in prime time with this kind of programming even up against network programs. We've already proven that independent stations can work together for a common cause," he said.

NETWORK AFFILIATE stations are making the supreme sacrifice of laying aside their normal network programming to give "Testimony of Two Men" a try this month. Like other independent stations, WGN is sinking a large amount of money into Operation Prime Time and the first-run syndicated programming such as the David Frost-Richard Nixon interview, the first part of which airs Wednesday.

May is a good month to do it. Stations are selling advertising time for the fall, and programming is at its low point where the networks are concerned.

However, the networks aren't taking this in stride. They are counterprogramming with specials atypical of the "off season."

'Happy Days,' 'Laverne and Shirley' rated tops

The A.C. Nielsen Co. report on 1977 television says that the top two shows across the country are "Happy Days" and "Laverne and Shirley."

The two ABC comedies are undeniable hits among younger viewers but are only included in the top 15 favorite shows for adult viewers.

The number one show for adults in most cases was NBC's "Big Event" which included the movie "Gone With the Wind" this past season.

The report also confirmed that Sunday night still remains the nation's top television viewing night and that more women watch TV than men.

The situation comedy is the most popular kind of network programming and that variety shows are the least favorite types, according to the report.

"The Tony Randall Show" and the "Bionic Woman," both recently dropped by ABC from their line-up of new fall programs, have been well-rated programs throughout the season. Both shows are expected to be picked up by CBS or NBC.

White Sox hit the road with 12-4 win

BIG DAY. Arlington Heights resident Kurt Petersen is all smiles, as is Sox manager Bob Lemon and announcer Harry Caray, as Kurt helps out in the Sox dugout Sunday at Comiskey Park. by BOB GALLAS

The White Sox went on a tour of the Texas pitching staff and liked what they saw most of the afternoon Sunday while waltzing to a 12-4 win over the Rangers.

The Sox sent 21 men to the plate in the first two innings while producing 12 runs for starting pitcher Ken Brett. The Rangers used up four pitchers in the first two frames, beginning with starter Gaylord Perry, who was shelled for six runs in just 1/3 of an inning and took the loss.

Brett, who'd had some arm trouble the past two times out, went seven innings, giving up three runs but walking five before retiring Lerrin La Grow, who pitched the final two frames, allowed a ninth inning solo homer by Claudell Washington.

"I COULD HAVE gone on but I'd throwing again Thursday so I came out," said Brett, whose record is now thrown a lot of pitches and will be 3-1. "But the arm felt OK."

By the time ex-Cub Darold Knowles, the sixth Ranger hurler, came in to work the seventh and eighth innings, Ranger manager Frank Lucchesi had virtually emptied his bullpen. All who remained were Bert Blyleven, scheduled to pitch Tuesday in Detroit, Doyle Alexander, who went nine innings Friday and is scheduled to start Wednesday, and Nelson Briles and Tommy Boggs, who combined on Saturday's Rangers win. The 38-year-old Perry is now 1-4 on the season and his earned run average soared to 8.28.

The Sox came up with plenty of power as Chet Lemon, Jim Essian and Jorge Orta all clubbed home runs. Oscar Gamble broke out of his slump with a 3-for-5 performance with a triple and two singles and three runs batted in. Lemon, who also doubled, likewise drove in three runs.

Shortstop Alan Bannister had to leave the game after he was struck in the helmet by a Perry pitch in the first inning. Bannister stayed in the game to run before going to Illinois Masonic Hospital for precautionary X-Rays. He suffered a bump on the head, but the injury was not believed to be serious.

THE SOX, who snapped a three-game losing string Sunday, moved into third place, 1½ games behind division leading Minnesota and ½-game behind second-place Kansas City where the Sox open a four-game series tonight. And nobody will be happier to leave Comiskey Park than Richie Zisk.

The Sox slugger, who had five homers on the recent road trip, was shutout on round trippers on the three-game home stand and had another 400-foot shot caught in center field Sunday.

Sox manager Bob Lemon has altered his pitching lineup for the Kansas City series, moving Chris Knapp up a day in the rotation to give Steve Stone an extra day of rest. So Francisco Barrios (2-0) will open for the Sox in Kansas City tonight against Dennis Leonard (1-1). Knapp (3-1) will go Tuesday against Marty Pattin (0-0) or Larry Gura (1-0) Tuesday night, Stone (1-3) vs. Jim Colborn (4-1) Wednesday and Brett (3-1) vs. Arlington Heights product Paul Splittorff (1-2) in the fianle Thursday night.

The attendance Sunday of 13,964 put the Sox season turnstyle count at 132,320, that's 40,000 ahead of last season's pace when the Sox drew about 900,000. The Sox are averaging close to 17,000 fans per game with the bulk of their home schedule still to come during the warmer summer months.

SOX SHORTS: The Sox had six extra base hits in their big first inning Sunday (3 doubles, a triple and 2 home runs), one short of the major league record for extra base hits in an inning . . . Orestes Minoso, son of Sox coach Minnie Minoso, hit his fifth home run of the season and third in as many nights Saturday for Appleton, the Sox A farm club . . . Kevin Bell's three-run homer lifted Iowa over Columbus, 9-6 . . . The Sox' next home game is Friday, May 13, and that will be "Anti-Superstition Night."

Reuschel, Sutter combine

Cubs snap Reds' winning streak

From Herald Wire Services

Jerry Morales doubled home two runs in the ninth inning and Bruce Sutter pitched scoreless relief over the final 3 1/3 innings Sunday to preserve a 4-1 victory for the Cubs over Cincinnati which snapped the Reds' five-game winning streak.

The Cubs took a 2-0 lead in the sixth inning off loser Pat Zachry with the help of shortstop Dave Concepcion's first error of the season.

A SINGLE by Manny Trillo, a walk to Steve Ontiveros, an infield out and Morales' double accounted for the Cubs final two runs in the ninth.

Sutter, in picking up his fourth save of the season, restricted the Reds to two hits and struck out four after taking over from winner Rick Reuschel in the sixth.

Sutter came in after Joe Morgan had doubled with one out and later scored the Reds' only run on a wild giving the Pittsburg Pirates a 4-3 victory over the Houston Astros.

Moreno singled with one out and stole second. After Ed Ott popped out, Forsch intentionally walked Dave Parker to get to Oliver, who singled to right field ending the game.

Oliver sent the game into extra innings with a leadoff home run in the ninth inning. Willie Stargell hit a pair of solo homers for the Pirates' first two runs.

LENNY RANDLE had three hits, including a triple and a run-scoring single, and stole home to lead the New York Mets to an 8-2 triumph over the San Diego Padres who suffered their eighth loss in a row.

Randle, obtained from the Texas Rangers in a trade last week, tripled and scored the Mets' first run in his first time at bat in the National League in the first inning. He also singled home a run in the ninth and then stole home as part of a double steal for the Mets' final run. The infielder-outfielder is awaiting trial on a charge in Florida of criminal assault on Texas manager Frank Lucchesi during spring training.

DEL UNSER drove in four runs, snapping a 2-2 tie with a three-run homer in the sixth inning, to lead the Montreal Expos to a 6-2 victory over Los Angeles breaking the Dodgers' eight-game winning streak.

Unser's blast into the Expos' bullpen came off reliever Elias Sosa with Chris Speier aboard with a triple and Tony Perez on base on an intentional walk.

LARRY CHRISTENSON drove in two runs with a single and pitched a six-hitter, leading the Philadelphia Phillies to a 7-2 victory over the San Francisco Giants.

Christenson got his two RBI in the pitch by Reuschel.

AL OLIVER singled off reliever Ken Forsch with two out in the 10th inning driving in Omar Moreno and second inning when the Phillies took a 2-0 lead. Bob Boone doubled with one out and Ted Sizemore singled, Boone stopping at third. Sizemore advanced to second on an infield out and then Christenson singled the two runners in.

The young Philadelphia right-hander had a no-hitter when Terry Whitfield doubled after two out in the fifth. Christenson had a shut out until the ninth when Willie McCovey hit a two-run homer.

ERIC RASMUSSEN pitched a five-hitter and batterymate Ted Simmons knocked in three runs, two on a first-inning triple, when the St. Louis Cardinals defeated the Atlanta Braves 8-0 to complete a three-game sweep.

Only one Brave reached third base as Rasmussen raised his record to 2-3. He struck out six and walked two.

from Herald Wire Services

AL baseball

Roy Smalley's run-scoring single capped a four-run, two-out rally in the ninth inning Sunday that gave the Minnesota Twins a 6-5 victory over the Detroit Tigers.

Mike Cubbage started the winning rally with a one-out double off Detroit starter Dave Rozema. One out later, Hisle singled to score Cubbage. After Cubbage hit Dan Ford, the next batter, with a pitch, John Hiller replaced Rozema.

Craig Kusick greeted Hiller with a pinch-hit double that scored Hisle and Ford and tied the game. Smalley then singled to short right to score pinch runner Jerry Terrell with the winning run.

AL COWENS and Fred Patek each drove in two runs to give the Kansas City Royals an 8-2 victory over the Toronto Blue Jays.

Cowens capped a three-run first inning with a run-scoring single and then ignited a five-run eighth inning with a run-scoring double. Patek followed with a two-run double and George Brett and Hal McRae each knocked a run later in the frame to send Dave Lemanczyk down to his second loss in four decisions.

Carlton Fisk atoned for a costly error by smashing two home runs and driving in five runs to pace the Boston Red Sox to a 6-4 victory over the Oakland A's.

Fisk, whose seventh inning error allowed Bill North to score Oakland's fourth run, drilled a three-run homer over the left field screen off reliever Stan Bahnsen in the eighth inning to give Boston the victory.

RAY FOSSE and John Grubb drove in three runs apiece to give the Cleveland Indians an 8-5 victory in the nightcap after Robin Yount's three-run homer paced the Milwaukee Brewers to a 7-3 triumph in the opener.

Right-fielder Pat Kelly's second home run of the game, a leadoff blast in the 10th inning, gave the Baltimore Orioles a 3-2 victory over the California Angels.

Kelly, former White Sox who was subbing for the ailing Ken Singleton, also slammed a solo home run in the third inning, his first of the season.

Thurman Munson stroked his third homer in as many games and scored the go-ahead run on Chris Chambliss' double in the sixth inning to spark a 5-2 victory by the New York Yankees over the Seattle Mariners.

A LOST CAUSE. Sox manager Bob Lemon (center) and Jim Spencer plead their case to second-base umpire Ken Kaiser on a disputed play Sunday in the first inning. Spencer hit a blast off the top of the right field wall and thought he had a home run. Kaiser ruled the ball remained in play so Spencer had to settle for a double.

Reuschel, Sutter combine

Cubs snap Reds' winning streak

From Herald Wire Services

Jerry Morales doubled home two runs in the ninth inning and Bruce Sutter pitched scoreless relief over the final 3 1/3 innings Sunday to preserve a 4-1 victory for the Cubs over Cincinnati which snapped the Reds' five-game winning streak.

The Cubs took a 2-0 lead in the sixth inning off loser Pat Zachry with the help of shortstop Dave Concepcion's first error of the season.

A SINGLE by Manny Trillo, a walk to Steve Ontiveros, an infield out and Morales' double accounted for the Cubs final two runs in the ninth.

Sutter, in picking up his fourth save of the season, restricted the Reds to two hits and struck out four after taking over from winner Rick Reuschel in the sixth.

Sutter came in after Joe Morgan had doubled with one out and later scored the Reds' only run on a wild giving the Pittsburg Pirates a 4-3 victory over the Houston Astros.

Moreno singled with one out and stole second. After Ed Ott popped out, Forsch intentionally walked Dave Parker to get to Oliver, who singled to right field ending the game.

Oliver sent the game into extra innings with a leadoff home run in the ninth inning. Willie Stargell hit a pair of solo homers for the Pirates' first two runs.

LENNY RANDLE had three hits, including a triple and a run-scoring single, and stole home to lead the New York Mets to an 8-2 triumph over the San Diego Padres who suffered their eighth loss in a row.

Randle, obtained from the Texas Rangers in a trade last week, tripled and scored the Mets' first run in his first time at bat in the National League in the first inning. He also singled home a run in the ninth and then stole home as part of a double steal for the Mets' final run. The infielder-outfielder is awaiting trial on a charge in Florida of criminal assault on Texas manager Frank Lucchesi during spring training.

DEL UNSER drove in four runs, snapping a 2-2 tie with a three-run homer in the sixth inning, to lead the Montreal Expos to a 6-2 victory over Los Angeles breaking the Dodgers' eight-game winning streak.

Unser's blast into the Expos' bullpen came off reliever Elias Sosa with Chris Speier aboard with a triple and Tony Perez on base on an intentional walk.

LARRY CHRISTENSON drove in two runs with a single and pitched a six-hitter, leading the Philadelphia Phillies to a 7-2 victory over the San Francisco Giants.

Christenson got his two RBI in the pitch by Reuschel.

AL OLIVER singled off reliever Ken Forsch with two out in the 10th inning driving in Omar Moreno and second inning when the Phillies took a 2-0 lead. Bob Boone doubled with one out and Ted Sizemore singled, Boone stopping at third. Sizemore advanced to second on an infield out and then Christenson singled the two runners in.

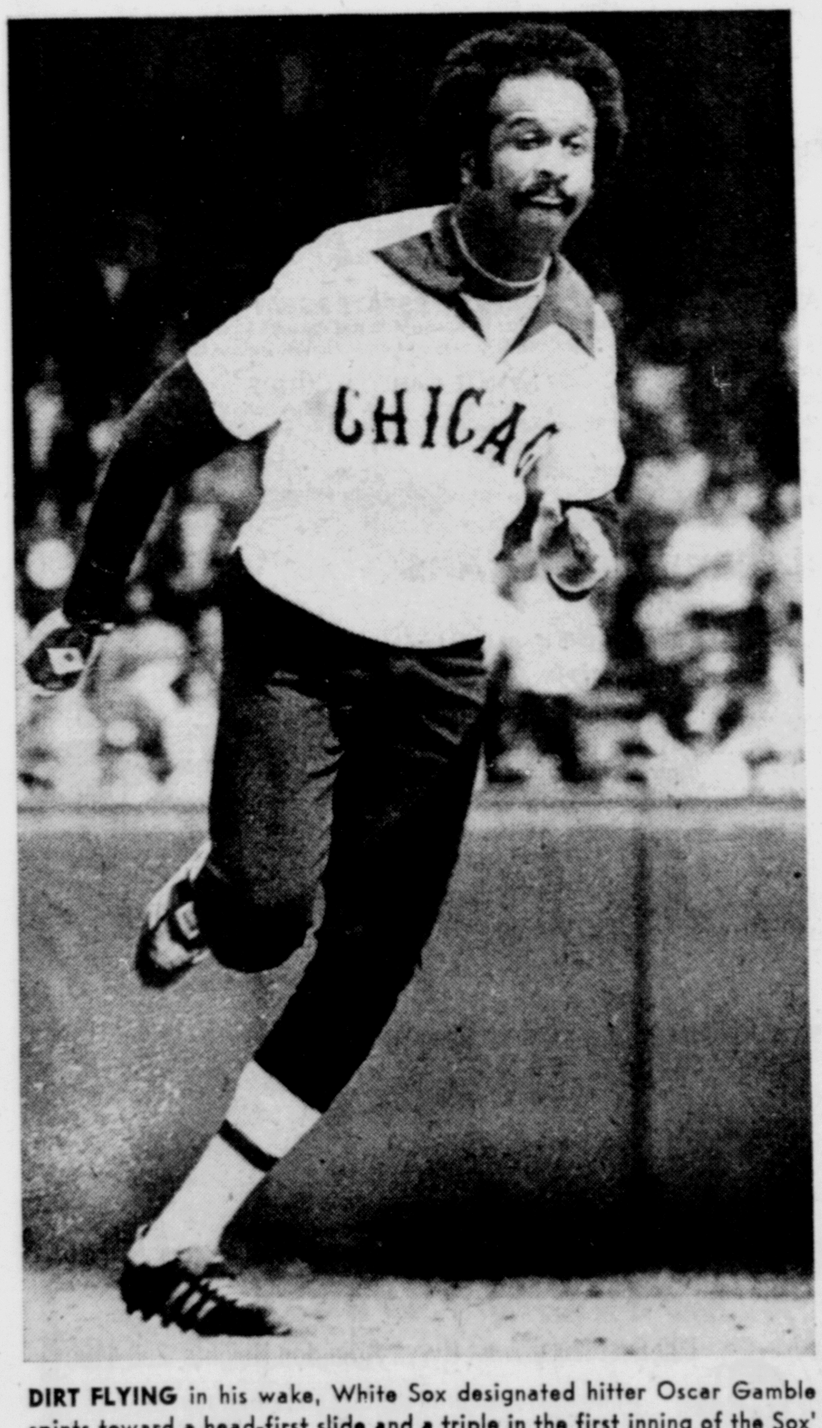
The young Philadelphia right-hander had a no-hitter when Terry Whitfield doubled after two out in the fifth. Christenson had a shut out until the ninth when Willie McCovey hit a two-run homer.

ERIC RASMUSSEN pitched a five-hitter and batterymate Ted Simmons knocked in three runs, two on a first-inning triple, when the St. Louis Cardinals defeated the Atlanta Braves 8-0 to complete a three-game sweep.

Only one Brave reached third base as Rasmussen raised his record to 2-3. He struck out six and walked two.



DIRT FLYING in his wake, White Sox designated hitter Oscar Gamble spints toward a head-first slide and a triple in the first inning of the Sox' 12-4 win over Texas at Comiskey Park Sunday. Gamble also had two singles and drove in three runs.

Twins hold lead with 6-5 victory

from Herald Wire Services

Roy Smalley's run-scoring single capped a four-run, two-out rally in the ninth inning Sunday that gave the Minnesota Twins a 6-5 victory over the Detroit Tigers.

Mike Cubbage started the winning rally with a one-out double off Detroit starter Dave Rozema. One out later, Hisle singled to score Cubbage. After Cubbage hit Dan Ford, the next batter, with a pitch, John Hiller replaced Rozema.

Craig Kusick greeted Hiller with a pinch-hit double that scored Hisle and Ford and tied the game. Smalley then singled to short right to score pinch runner Jerry Terrell with the winning run.

AL COWENS and Fred Patek each drove in two runs to give the Kansas City Royals an 8-2 victory over the Toronto Blue Jays.

Cowens capped a three-run first inning with a run-scoring single and then ignited a five-run eighth inning with a run-scoring double. Patek followed with a two-run double and George Brett and Hal McRae each knocked a run later in the frame to send Dave Lemanczyk down to his second loss in four decisions.

Carlton Fisk atoned for a costly error by smashing two home runs and driving in five runs to pace the Boston Red Sox to a 6-4 victory over the Oakland A's.

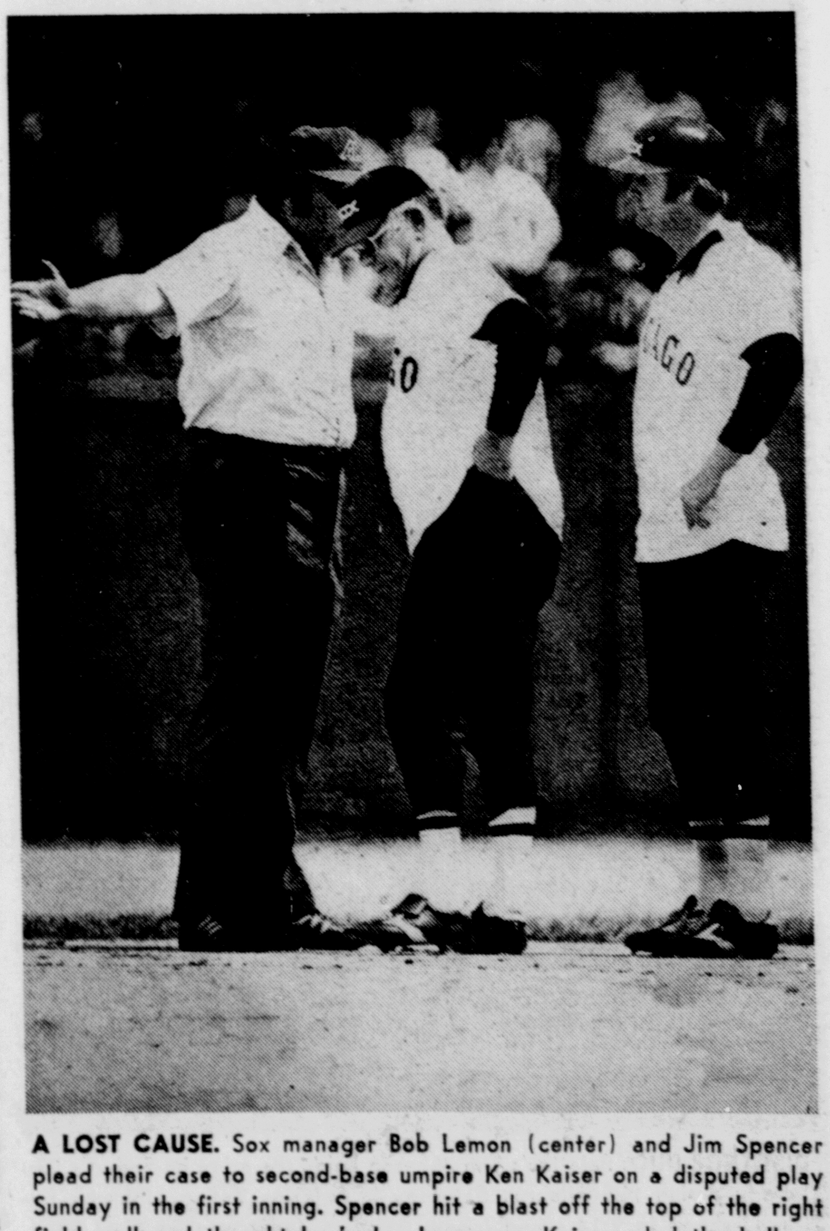
Fisk, whose seventh inning error allowed Bill North to score Oakland's fourth run, drilled a three-run homer over the left field screen off reliever Stan Bahnsen in the eighth inning to give Boston the victory.

RAY FOSSE and John Grubb drove in three runs apiece to give the Cleveland Indians an 8-5 victory in the nightcap after Robin Yount's three-run homer paced the Milwaukee Brewers to a 7-3 triumph in the opener.

Right-fielder Pat Kelly's second home run of the game, a leadoff blast in the 10th inning, gave the Baltimore Orioles a 3-2 victory over the California Angels.

Kelly, former White Sox who was subbing for the ailing Ken Singleton, also slammed a solo home run in the third inning, his first of the season.

Thurman Munson stroked his third homer in as many games and scored the go-ahead run on Chris Chambliss' double in the sixth inning to spark a 5-2 victory by the New York Yankees over the Seattle Mariners.



A LOST CAUSE. Sox manager Bob Lemon (center) and Jim Spencer plead their case to second-base umpire Ken Kaiser on a disputed play Sunday in the first inning. Spencer hit a blast off the top of the right field wall and thought he had a home run. Kaiser ruled the ball remained in play so Spencer had to settle for a double.

Oak Park captures Arlington Invite title

by CHARLIE DICKINSON

Oak Park River Forest won both singles championships in the Arlington Invitational Saturday and that was enough to propel the Huskies to the team title.

Elsewhere, the Maine West Warriors rode the doubles play of Bob Wyatt and Tom Gebhardt to a tie for the championship of the Titan Invite, Palatine took second place at the Maine East Quad and Fremd took a second place at the DeKalb Quad.

Bruce Brescia and Alan Blankshain grabbed four points apiece for Oak Park and that enabled the Huskies to edge New Trier East by a half-point, 10 ½-10.

ARLINGTON TOOK third with nine points.

"Brescia is just beautiful with his groundstrokes," commented Arlington coach Tom Pitchford. "You can't beat him playing the baseline."

Brescia, only a sophomore but already regarded as one of the best players for his age in the nation, ripped defending state singles-champion Matt Horwitch of Highland Park 6-4, 6-2 in the semifinals then dumped Libertyville's Kreg Yingst 7-5, 6-1 in the finals.

Yingst had disposed of Arlington's first singles hope, Paul Wei, in the semifinals, 6-3, 6-4.

PITCHFORD SAID, "Yingst is just so strong. He's improved his strength quite a bit since last year and Paul just couldn't handle him."

Arlington's Jim Butler fell to Sterling's Roland Rodriguez in the first round.

Arlington's top-seeded first doubles team of Bob Pionke and Mike Doering were upset in the second round by Aurora West.

PITCHFORD DIDN'T think they were ready to play. "They were overconfident, I think," he said. "They had a tough time with Ottawa (in the first round) and they never got going against Aurora."

The pair battled back in the consolation rounds and eventually took fourth place.

"They'll be okay," Pitchford said. "They needed something like this to get their heads on straight and it took a lot to come back the way they did."

Arlington's second doubles team of Blair Johnson and Kurt Wiebe waded through four straight matches to win their championship.

MAINE WEST coach Roger King is understandably high on the play of Wyatt and Gebhardt.

"I think they are one of the best doubles teams in the state," King said. "They've won two straight tournaments and have beaten 30 other teams in the past two weeks."

The two juniors went to three sets only once in winning the doubles championship of the Tital Invite Saturday as the Warriors tied Stevenson for the team title with 12 points.

At the Maine East Quad, Palatine won three championships while the Hersey Huskies picked up one.

MIKE ESENBERG took three straight matches to win the first singles title and Phil Groesbeck took the third singles title with an 8-6 win over Arnie Harris of Maine East in the finals.

Esenberg later teamed with Mike Stowe at first doubles and won three straight matches and the championship.

Hersey's Jim Skully nipped Dave Cohen of Maine East 8-7 for the fourth singles title.

FREMD JOURNEYED to DeKalb for a quadrangular and bumped off the host Barbs and St. Francis of Wheaton before losing to Naperville North.

"The competition was really good for my kids," said Fremd coach Rick Gablenz. "They played a lot of good tennis."

Mike Mitsch won three matches at second singles as did the doubles team of Jim Bayer and Bill Casey.

"Mitsch was the most impressive," Gablenz said. "He's starting to play near the top of his game."

Mustangs win Jamboree; Elk Grove hurdles field

by ART MUGALIAN

Rolling Meadows' track team has strength, it has speed, and it has remarkable depth. It also has Fred Kocian, so add versatility to the list. And give Meadows another meet title while you're at it.

Kocian ran his first mile ever in competition Saturday at the Mustang Jamboree and he ran it in 4:38. He also pole vaulted 12-0 ("He darn near got 12-6," said coach Joe Vitton), although Kocian hadn't touched a pole in nearly a year.

IN ADDITION, Kocian ran a 2:01.5 leg on the Mustangs' winning two-mile relay team to help Vitton's squad pick up their first-ever championship in the Jamboree after four years of honest trying. Meadows had 65 points and Loyola 49 in the eight-team meet, strictly a relay affair.

"Many of the kids were in four events or three events," said Vitton later. "It's the kind of meet where you sacrifice some outstanding individual performances for some good team performances. And that's what we got."

Kocian's contribution was perhaps the most noticeable, mainly because the Mustang senior has been concentrating on the 880 this season. The mile leg came in Meadows' second-place effort in the four-mile relay while the vaulting stint gave Meadows an unexpected win in that event.

"It was actually the first time Fred was over the bar this year," Vitton said. "In a way I was kind of afraid to use him there because I didn't want him to get hurt."

KACIAN also took part in the Mustangs' hurdles relay.

Rolling Meadows set records in the 440-relay with 44.1 (Dave Boursaw, Pete Till, Bill Kasper, and Rick Sutton), the 880-relay in 1:31.9 (Boursaw, Till, Marty Petlicki, and Sutton), and the shot put relay (Rich Huber, Scott Jennings, Bill Chauncey, and Bob Lamick combined for 200-10½).

The Mustang weightmen also captured a first place in the discus. But Huber, Chauncey, Dave Sloan and Jeff Schrock managed only 552-0, or seven feet short of the meet record.

Sloan and Schrock also contributed to Meadows' second-place finish in the high jump (where Hinsdale South's Sokolowski went 6-7), and Schrock added some footage to the Mustangs' effort in the triple jump, which took runnerup points.

Sutton, Petlicki, Boursaw and Till finished second in the sprint medley relay, two-tenths behind Loyola's record-breaking time of 3:39.0.

ELK GROVE'S Joe Cullen and John McCloughan each took two first places as the Grenadiers swamped the field in the six-team Ridgewood Relays Saturday totaling 87 points to 47½ for runnerup Walther Lutheran. Maine North was fourth and Stevenson sixth.

The winning trophy was pretty much pot-luck for Elk Grove. "I didn't really know who was going to be there until we got to the meet," said Grenadier coach Jim Wendler. "It was the first time for us."

Cullen won the two-mile (9:43) and the mile (4:34) while McCloughan, a junior, grabbed wins in the low hurdles (39.6) and the highs, rattling off his second 14.3 in that event to beat teammate Pat O'Brien who ran 14.4.

"I don't know where John gets his speed," said Wendler. "He's not that fast. If I put him in the 100, he'd run about a 10.6 or 10.7.

Wendler did put O'Brien in the 220 and the senior standout won in 2.35. O'Brien took third in the lows.

ELK GROVE also got victories from Ron Hartman in the long jump (20-11) and Dan Streich in the discus.

The Grenadiers travel to Rolling Meadows today for a double duel against the host Mustangs and the Libertyville Wildcats, who are led by the state's premier weightman, Jim Lenzini.

"A guy could throw the shot 52 feet and not score in that meet," said Wendler. "It should be a good meet."

In another meet Saturday, St. Viator took sixth at the Notre Dame Relays in a field of 13.

Knights tip Falcons in softball play

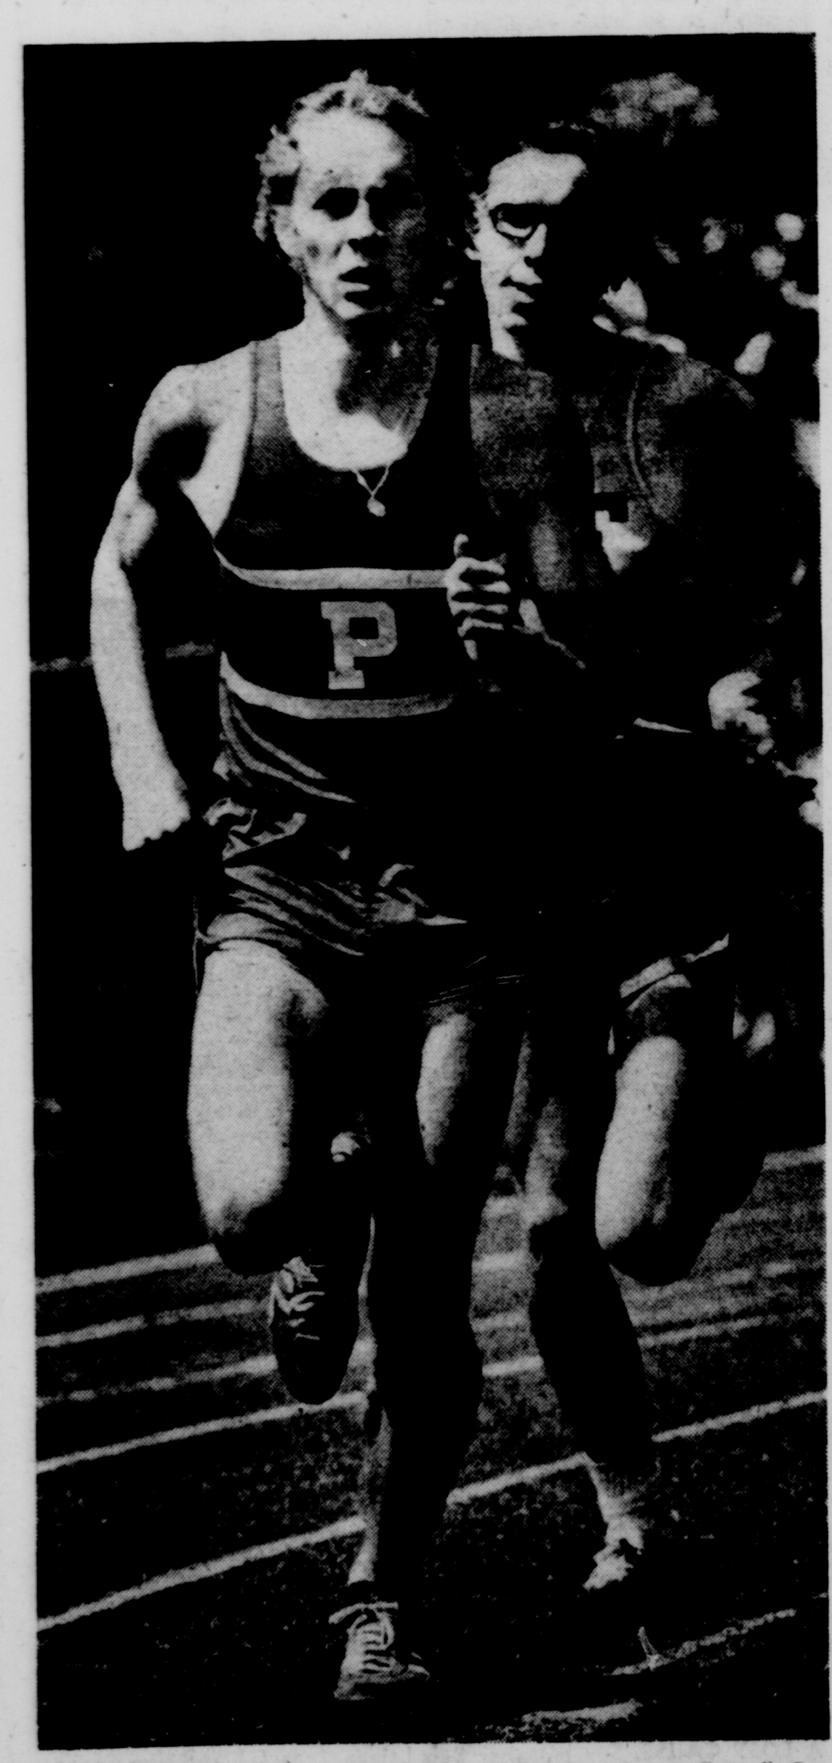
Cindy Lollar singled to center field to drive in Patty Panaia with the winning run Saturday as Prospect High School handed Forest View its first loss this season in girls softball competition.

Lollar's hit came in the home half of the ninth inning and the 2-1 decision was the Knights' third straight in Mid-Suburban South play and fifth of sixth over-all. Forest View is 1-1 in MSL and 9-1 over-all.

Dina Wilke homered for the first run off loser Nancy Lachus. Pam Mache went the distance for the Knights.

Arlington upped its record to 2-0 in the MSL North with a 20-2 romp past Wheeling. Perry Jackson and Sue Goedke combined on the mound for the Cards and the big hitters were Goedke (two triples, three hits, four RBIs), Kim Broderick (three hits), Val Weidner (two hits, three RBIs), and Jackson (two hits, three RBIs).

Schaumburg took care of Conant 14-9 with Walker slamming a triple and double, walking three times and driving in three. Eyerman had two triples and a double for Conant, which lost Gall Kerschke for the season with a broken leg.



DISTANCE DUO. Palatine's Tim Johnson holds the edge on Fremd's Dan Inbody during two-mile run Saturday in Palatine Relays. Johnson finished second in 9:14.3 and Inbody third in event won by Carl Sandburg's spectacular Tom Graves in 8:52.8 (Photo by Mike Seeling)

Hawks sting Triton 11-9 in playoffs

Greg Meyer powered a bases loaded homer while Buddy Highes and John Carbery teamed up on the mound as Harper stung hosting Triton 11-9 in the semis of the Section I junior college state baseball playoffs Sunday.

A day earlier the Hawks had routed Wright 9-1. They now face off against Oakton Monday at 1 p.m.

Top-seeded Triton was sailing with an 8-2 lead when Harper opened up all barrels in the top of the eighth inning. The triumph was the second for the Hawks in three tries against the one-ranked River Grove team and also marked the second time Harper had grand slammed Triton. Bob Ray turned the trick during a regular season double header.

Ray also homered against Wright, his fifth circuit shot of the campaign, in backing Scott Green's seven-hit mound effort.

Meyer swatted his homer in the Sunday contest after two outs in the eighth. Bobby Frye also contributed a key two-out double during the uprising. Mike Pircher finished the game three-for-five and Marty Luquet was two-for-three.

The two weekend triumphs pulled Harper up over the .500 mark to 13-12. A victory Monday would advance them to the finals where they would meet a team coming out of the loser's bracket for the right to head down to the state finals.

Sun smiles on Relays

The 45th Palatine Relays got a wink from the weatherman Saturday as 47 track teams converged for competition in both boys and girls events in the tradition-rich spectacle.

The day-long activities produced a barrage of records including a complete revision of the girls' standards. East St. Louis captured the boys trophy and Wheeling paced the girls.

Flyers fly to Palatine Relays honors

by ART MUGALIAN
Track and field editor

If there was ever any doubt which team would win the 45th edition of the Palatine Relays, it was dispelled the moment the Flyers came onto the track.

With their distinctive royal blue and red uniforms and their state-champion patches, the East St. Louis Flyers look as fast, strong and durable as they, in fact, are. If anyone at Saturday's sun-drenched Relays — the final one held at the old Ost Field oval — had forgotten the winner of the past two Class AA state meets, the Flyers jogged the memory.

Oh, THAT East St. Louis. The Flyers didn't come down until they boarded the bus for the long ride home.

"NEXT TIME JUST bring half your team," chided one area coach, trying to give Flyers' coach James Lewis a lefthanded compliment.

Lewis didn't quite get the joke, probably because half his team was still in East St. Louis. But he smiled anyway and held up his first-place boys' trophy in triumph.

The Flyers scored 118 points. Fremd took second with 65. No one else was in the ballpark. Defending champ Maine West was fifth with 33.

"He says he can win state again this year," said Palatine's Jeff Teach. "I'd say he's got a good chance."

THE FLYERS didn't leave much for anybody else in the boys division, scoring in 13 of the 16 events and winning five of the six relay races. Flyer sprinter Keith Brown won the 100-dash in 9.9 by edging Maine West's Tony Krainik, and discus thrower Melvin Kennedy took first place with a 159-6 toss.

East St. Louis set records in the mile relay (3:21.7) and the high-hurdle shuttle (40.2) and clipped off a 42.87 in the 440-relay and a modest 7:55.2 in the two-mile relay. Other than that, they left the record-setting to Fremd, Brother Rice and the incredible Tom Graves.

Graves, Sandburg's husky, brawling, big shouldered junior, gave his fans what they wanted by running the two-mile in 8:52.8, the fastest time in the nation and one of the top four two-mile times in Illinois prep history.

"We thought lower 8:50s was possible, even without anybody pushing him," said Graves coach, Gene Kowert. "Tom is a methodical runner."

A MACHINE IS more like it. Graves ran his first mile in 4:25 after a very sluggish first quarter of pack-running.

"That pace was too slow," said Graves, whose previous best was 9:00.5 when he won the state meet last year. "I had to go out."

Palatine's Tom Johnson, who was second in 9:14.3, by eight seconds his best time, was in awe of Graves.

"The guy's unreal," said Johnson. "I couldn't believe it. On the first lap he told the guy in front of him to go faster or move out of the way. I was going to go with him, but he just took off."

JUST SO THAT no one thought he was tired, Graves came back to win the mile in 4:16.6, only three-tenths off the meet record and the fastest outdoor time in the state this year.

"It took me a while to get going," said Graves, limping around slightly after his second victory. "I was tight. I don't know if I'll be able to do this in state — running both events. It's tough."

For his efforts, Graves won the G.A. McElroy award for outstanding male athlete, although that honor was up for grabs until the very moment Graves walked off with his trophy.

FREMD'S BRIAN SCHONES cracked the meet record in the high jump with a 6-6¼ effort and also anchored the Vikings' record-breaking performance in the low-hurdle shuttle with a sensational leg, catching and passing East St. Louis. He also helped Fremd to a third place in the high-hurdle race.

"Schones had a good day," said Fremd coach Pat Brogan. "I think he could have gone 6-8 in the high jump if he had taken a little more time."

The Vikings got second places from pole vaulter Greg Stipe (13-0) and the underclass distance medley while two-miler Dan Inbody was third (9:38.6) and steeplechaser Tom Ross, a sophomore, was third, also (9:59.3).

Jim Solus of Brother Rice was also in the running for top athlete with victories in the long jump (21-7½) and the triple jump, where he shattered the meet record by nearly three feet with 45-3¼.

BUFFALO GROVE'S Joe Schmidt, the defending champ and record-holder in the steeplechase, had to settle for second place behind Sandburg's Bob Hicks, though both runners broke the mark by more than 30 seconds.

"That's a great event — when it's over," said Schmidt, a junior, who won the 1976 Relays steeplechase in 10:06 as a soph.

Schmidt led most of the way but Hicks, a 9:11 two-miler, stayed close and put on a final burst after the last water-jump, winning with a 9:30.69 to Schmidt's 9:31.6.

"I came out here to practice on Thursday," said Schmidt, "and Hicks was out here too. He looked pretty crummy going over the hurdles, but I still thought he'd beat me because he's so much faster than I am."

ARLINGTON'S JAY Lenahan achieved a personal best in the shot put, coming from far back in the prelims to win with a 54-10½ put.

Hoffman Estates pole vaulter Paul Major won his fourth major-meet title in a row with a 13-6 effort, but he failed to reach 14 feet for the first time in three weeks.

And finally, Schaumburg's Keith Mazikowski, whose sister was second in the girls discus, took sixth in the boys mile to complete the family double.

Wheeling shows class in girls competition

by JEFF NORDLUND

Knowing they had to finish at least two places ahead of East St. Louis in the final event of the afternoon, Wheeling's mile-relay team shaved six seconds off their previous best to take third place in the event and give the Wildcats the girls team title at the Palatine Relays Saturday.

East St. Louis, which did not place at all in the mile relay, wound up in a second-place tie with Hersey. Calumet was fourth, and last year's champion Palatine was fifth.

"I was confident we could run that well in the mile relay," Wheeling coach Donna Dubbelde said. "Last year we ran it in 4:08 with three of the same girls, even though their best this season was 4:15."

DENISE BEGROWICZ, Betsy and Bonnie Buenzow and Karen Byckowski carried the baton in 4:07.44 time to clinch the team victory for Wheeling.

Wheeling scored best times and distances in nearly every event, owing partly to the importance of the meet and partly to the good weather.

"We've been running in cold weather lately," Dubbelde said. "Gail Miloch (mile) and Bonnie Buenzow (long jump) had personal bests for us."

New meet records were established in all 12 girls' events. This is the third year the girls have run in the 45-year-old relays.

BETTY SMITH, East St. Louis' sprint speedster, won the G. A. McElroy Award for winning the 100-yard dash, finishing third in the long jump, and anchoring the top-finishing 440-and 880-yard relay teams.

Miloch, Wheeling's top distance runner, also turned in an outstanding performance to win the mile run in 5:16.31. The time was a whopping 17 seconds better than the previous meet best set by Libertyville's Pam Kroenig in 1975.

Wheeling's Bonnie Buenzow added three inches to the long jump record by leaping 17-feet-2½ to take the Wildcats' other first place. Teammate Kathy Wachter took fifth in the same event with a jump of 16-feet-5¼. The old long jump record belonged to Montini's Kathy Ingalls, set in 1975.

The winners also had high finishes in the high jump where Sandy Rainey's 5-foot-1 best was good for third place and in the shot put where Cheryl Wood placed sixth with a throw of 33-4¼ In relay events, Wheeling placed second in the 880-yard medley and 880-yard relays, fourth in the 400-yard low hurdle shuttle and fifth in the 440-yard relay.

BUFFALO GROVE cut nearly 26 seconds off the meet record in winning the two-mile relay. Sharon Organdes, Laura Morgan, Carol March and Wendy Kiddle finished in 10:04.96, bettering the old mark of 10:30.8 set by Fremd in 1976. Hersey was second, and Palatine was fourth in the same event.

Hersey also took a first in a relay, the 400-yard low hurdle shuttle, with a time of :53.61. Sherri Kostelny, Cathy Frankiewicz, Jean Katzler and Karen LaPorte ran the four legs of the race to break the old record of :57.2 set in 1976 by Palatine. Palatine was third and Conant placed fifth in the event.

Joliet West's Mickey Bzarnes won the power events of shot put and discus. Behind her in the shot put were Roge Carol of Palatine, Sue Vlamis of Rolling Meadows and Bev Torain of Buffalo Grove.

Carol Mazikowski of Schaumburg was second in the discus, followed by Vlamis of Rolling Meadows, Sandy Norman of Arlington and Sandy Omerod of Fremd.

DENISE REITMEYER of Rolling Meadows finished second in the high jump behind Sandburg's Carol O'Connor. Also placing from this area was Lisa Hoekstra of Buffalo Grove. Palatine's Joan Kelly was second in the mile run, followed by area runner Margaret LaPorte of Hersey, Mary Ahern of Hersey and Karen Bucaro of Fremd.

Bev Bidlo of Conant had the best area finish in the 100-yard dash, taking fifth, and Fremd's Jan Fletcher placed sixth in the long jump.

76ers knock off Celts; take on Houston next

PHILADELPHIA — Lloyd Free came off the bench to ignite a third quarter spurt Sunday that carried the Philadelphia 76ers to an 83-77 victory over Boston and eliminated the defending champion Celtics from the NBA playoffs.

Free, who missed his first six shots of the game, re-entered midway through the third period after the Celtics had rallied from a 50-45 halftime deficit to a 56-56 tie with 4:46 remaining. He finished the game with 27 points.

Boston, which lost a seventh playoff game for only the second time in its history, was led by Jo Jo White with 17 points, all in the first half.

Rudy Tomjanovich and Mike Newlin bombed Washington from long range down the stretch meanwhile to knock the Bullets out of the playoffs, 108-103, and move the Houston Rockets into the NBA Eastern Conference finals for the first time.

Tomjanovich scored 26 points, eight of them in the final five minutes, while Newlin had 21, six in the same time span. Tomjanovich was 12 of 19 from the floor and Newlin was seven of 10. He scored 15 of his points in the final quarter for the Rockets, who won the best-of-seven series 4-2.

The Golden State Warriors jumped to a 17-3 lead and overcame a 42-point outburst by Kareem Abdul-Jabbar to post a series-squaring 115-106 NBA quarter-final playoff victory over the Los Angeles Lakers.

Center Dan Issel scored nine points in overtime and finished with 23 to give Denver a 114-105 victory over the Portland Trail Blazers in the fifth game of their best-of-seven NBA Western Conference semifinal.

Vilas, Argentina upset U.S. in Cup

BUENOS AIRES, Argentina — Guillermo Vilas provided Argentina with the winning point Sunday when he defeated Dick Stockton in a three hour and 15 minute match to give his country an upset victory over the United States in the American Zone Davis Cub tennis final.

The capacity crowd, which included Argentina's President Jorge Videla, went wild, swarming onto the court after Vilas' victory and carrying him off on their shoulders. All during the game the referee had to plead for silence from the whistling, flag-waving fans.

It was the first time Argentina managed to defeat the United States in the zone final.

Littler coasts to Houston Open title

WOODLANDS, Tex. — Gene Littler, one of the few remaining old pros still battling the PGA's horde of talented young lions, coasted to his 29th tour win Sunday and a $40,000 paycheck with a three-shot victory in the Houston Open.

Littler started the day five strokes ahead and while he was carving out a so-so, two-over-par 74 over the steamy 7,000-yard Woodlands Golf Club course, no one could make a run at him.

Waltrip wins four-way Winston duel

TALLADEGA, Ala. — Darrell Waltrip outdueled three other Chevrolet drivers Sunday to claim a narrow victory in the $236,885 Winston 500 stock car race.

Waltrip averaged 164.887 miles per hour for his first victory and the first win by a Chevrolet at the 2.66-mile Alabama International Motor Speedway tri-oval.

Connors claims first in King Classic

LAS VEGAS, Nev. — Jimmy Connors faltered in the second set but regained his form in the third Sunday afternoon to beat Raul Ramirez and win the $50,000 first prize in the 1977 Alan King Tennis Classic.

Connors, the defending champion and the top-seeded player, beat the second-seeded Ramirez 6-4, 5-7, 6-2 in a nationally-televised match affected by winds gusting to 25 miles an hour.

"I adjusted for the wind by simply keeping the ball in play. I wanted to get good pace on the shots," Connors said.

Wheeling gains in North's race; Conant shades Buffalo Grove, 4-3

by KEITH REINHARD

Who ARE those guys and WHY are they following us?

Like the movie about Butch Cassidy and the Sundance Kid, Buffalo Grove keeps looking over its shoulder and seeing this unpredictable gang of players on the trail.

In their only face-to-face shootout, the Bison gunned Wheeling down but that hasn't discouraged the Wildcats at all. On Saturday the 'Cats put a little more heat into the North Division race by knocking off Elk Grove while Buffalo Grove was being ambushed by Conant.

Fremd stopped Palatine in another makeup tussle Saturday. The result of all the diamond activity was to leave Buffalo Grove clinging to a scant half-game lead over the unheralded Wheeling gang.

Nobody else in the North seems to be left in the hunt.

BILL KNUTH stroked a two-run homer in the first inning and Wheeling took their cue from him in downing the Grens 7-3. Rick Heredia, Marty Geisler and John Skwarek joined Knuth in pacing the 11-hit attack with a pair of safeties apiece.

Jim Passolt started on the mound for Wheeling, but Brad Moszkiewicz came on in the fourth and earned the win. Pat Rogers went the distance in defeat for the Grens.

Elk Grove's scoring was all credited to home runs. Randy Hansen smacked a two-run circuit shot in the third and pinch hitter Tom Curran connected for a solo blast in the seventh.

CONANT SCORED a pair of runs each in the fourth and sixth frames and then held on to issue Buffalo Grove their first setback in eight loop starts, 4-3.

Bill Schimbke went the route on the hill for the Cougars to garner the win. The losing hurler, Mark Rusche, also went the distance.

Mid-Suburban baseball report

Conant scored in the fourth on a single by Carmen Zepeda, a walk to Tony DiJohn and sacrifice plays by Scott Schafer and Schimbke.

This same cast participated in the sixth inning Cougar spurt with Zepeda singling, DiJohn doubling him home, Schafer walking and Schimbke getting a base rap to send home DiJohn with what proved to be the decisive run.

The Bison struck back in the bottom of the sixth on Scott Groot's single and Tim Prokof's two bagger. In the seventh Scott Campbell doubled and Al Cymbal singled him home. Mike Williams walked and Dave Wilhelm drove Cymbal in but Schimbke snuffed out the threat right there.

FREMD, which has lost a trio of contests in the seventh inning, turned the tables Saturday in nipping cross-town rival Palatine and ace hurler Kevin McKenna 2-1.

In the bottom of the seventh Dale Hallberg singled and Bill Friskics walked but was then picked off first by catcher McSweeney.

An error left runners on first and second and pinch runner Dale Kukla then advanced to third on Kevin Weaver's flyout.

Curt Hacker promptly drove one apparently out of the park in a pinch hitting role but the umpire ruled it a double, leaving it to Don Constable to single home the triumphant run.

Fletcher went the distance for Fremd to earn the win. He fanned five and did not walk a man.

Did New York try to buy off Frank Lucchesi?

Texas Rangers manager Frank Lucchesi, who left Chicago Sunday night after a three-game series with the White Sox, was offered $10,000 by M. Donald Grant, chairman of the board of the New York Mets, as an inducement not to press charges against Lenny Randle, according to a copyrighted story Sunday in the Chicago Tribune.

Lucchesi was beaten up by Randle Grant told United Press International he nad made the offer on behalf of Randle as a goodwill gesture. "This had nothing to do with trying to buy him off," Grant said.

Luchessi was beaten up by Randle in spring training, and the Rangers' manager has not indicated whether or not he intends to file suit.

Baseball Commissioner Bowie Kuhn declined comment on the Grant bid. "I know nothing about it," Kuhn said, "but I'd want to find out the details before I say anything."

FREE-DOM RINGS. Doug Collins (right) is hugged by teammate Lloyd Free after their Philadelphia team bumped the Boston Celtics from the NBA playoffs with an 83-77 win. Free came off the bench to pace the 76ers, who now tangle with Houston in the semifinals.

76ers knock off Celts; take on Houston next

PHILADELPHIA — Lloyd Free came off the bench to ignite a third quarter spurt Sunday that carried the Philadelphia 76ers to an 83-77 victory over Boston and eliminated the defending champion Celtics from the NBA playoffs.

Free, who missed his first six shots of the game, re-entered midway through the third period after the Celtics had rallied from a 50-45 halftime deficit to a 56-56 tie with 4:46 remaining. He finished the game with 27 points.

Boston, which lost a seventh playoff game for only the second time in its history, was led by Jo Jo White with 17 points, all in the first half.

Rudy Tomjanovich and Mike Newlin bombed Washington from long range down the stretch meanwhile to knock the Bullets out of the playoffs, 108-103, and move the Houston Rockets into the NBA Eastern Conference finals for the first time.

Tomjanovich scored 26 points, eight of them in the final five minutes, while Newlin had 21, six in the same time span. Tomjanovich was 12 of 19 from the floor and Newlin was seven of 10. He scored 15 of his points in the final quarter for the Rockets, who won the best-of-seven series 4-2.

The Golden State Warriors jumped to a 17-3 lead and overcame a 42-point outburst by Kareem Abdul-Jabbar to post a series-squaring 115-106 NBA quarter-final playoff victory over the Los Angeles Lakers.

Center Dan Issel scored nine points in overtime and finished with 23 to give Denver a 114-105 victory over the Portland Trail Blazers in the fifth game of their best-of-seven NBA Western Conference semifinal.

Vilas, Argentina upset U.S. in Cup

BUENOS AIRES, Argentina — Guillermo Vilas provided Argentina with the winning point Sunday when he defeated Dick Stockton in a three hour and 15 minute match to give his country an upset victory over the United States in the American Zone Davis Cub tennis final.

The capacity crowd, which included Argentina's President Jorge Videla, went wild, swarming onto the court after Vilas' victory and carrying him off on their shoulders. All during the game the referee had to plead for silence from the whistling, flag-waving fans.

It was the first time Argentina managed to defeat the United States in the zone final.

Littler coasts to Houston Open title

WOODLANDS, Tex. — Gene Littler, one of the few remaining old pros still battling the PGA's horde of talented young lions, coasted to his 29th tour win Sunday and a $40,000 paycheck with a three-shot victory in the Houston Open.

Littler started the day five strokes ahead and while he was carving out a so-so, two-over-par 74 over the steamy 7,000-yard Woodlands Golf Club course, no one could make a run at him.

Littler, 46, finished at 12-under-par 276 — three shots off the tournament record at Woodlands.

Lanny Wadkins grabbed second place with a 70 Sunday for a 72-hole total of nine-under 279 and won $22,800.

Waltrip wins four-way Winston duel

TALLADEGA, Ala. — Darrell Waltrip outdueled three other Chevrolet drivers Sunday to claim a narrow victory in the $236,885 Winston 500 stock car race.

Waltrip averaged 164.887 miles per hour for his first victory and the first win by a Chevrolet at the 2.66-mile Alabama International Motor Speedway tri-oval.

Waltrip, Cale Yarborough, Benny Parsons and Donnie Allison ran virtually bumper-to-bumper in a draft for the last 38 laps after Dodge driver Richard Petty dropped out of contention with an overheated engine.

Connors claims first in King Classic

LAS VEGAS, Nev. — Jimmy Connors faltered in the second set but regained his form in the third Sunday afternoon to beat Raul Ramirez and win the $50,000 first prize in the 1977 Alan King Tennis Classic.

Connors, the defending champion and the top-seeded player, beat the second-seeded Ramirez 6-4, 5-7, 6-2 in a nationally-televised match affected by winds gusting to 25 miles an hour.

"I adjusted for the wind by simply keeping the ball in play. I wanted to get good pace on the shots," Connors said.

Wheeling gains in North's race; Conant shades Buffalo Grove, 4-3

by KEITH REINHARD

Who ARE those guys and WHY are they following us?

Like the movie about Butch Cassidy and the Sundance Kid, Buffalo Grove keeps looking over its shoulder and seeing this unpredictable gang of players on the trail.

In their only face-to-face shootout, the Bison gunned Wheeling down but that hasn't discouraged the Wildcats at all. On Saturday the 'Cats put a little more heat into the North Division race by knocking off Elk Grove while Buffalo Grove was being ambushed by Conant.

Fremd stopped Palatine in another makeup tussle Saturday. The result of all the diamond activity was to leave Buffalo Grove clinging to a scant half-game lead over the unheralded Wheeling gang.

Nobody else in the North seems to be left in the hunt.

BILL KNUTH stroked a two-run homer in the first inning and Wheeling took their cue from him in downing the Grens 7-3. Rick Heredia, Marty Geisler and John Skwarek joined Knuth in pacing the 11-hit attack with a pair of safeties apiece.

Jim Passolt started on the mound for Wheeling, but Brad Moszkiewicz came on in the fourth and earned the win. Pat Rogers went the distance in defeat for the Grens.

Elk Grove's scoring was all credited to home runs. Randy Hansen smacked a two-run circuit shot in the third and pinch hitter Tom Curran connected for a solo blast in the seventh.

CONANT SCORED a pair of runs each in the fourth and sixth frames and then held on to issue Buffalo Grove their first setback in eight loop starts, 4-3.

Bill Schimbke went the route on the hill for the Cougars to garner the win. The losing hurler, Mark Rusche, also went the distance.

Mid-Suburban baseball report

Conant scored in the fourth on a single by Carmen Zepeda, a walk to Tony DiJohn and sacrifice plays by Scott Schafer and Schimbke.

This same cast participated in the sixth inning Cougar spurt with Zepeda singling, DiJohn doubling him home, Schafer walking and Schimbke getting a base rap to send home DiJohn with what proved to be the decisive run.

The Bison struck back in the bottom of the sixth on Scott Groot's single and Tim Prokof's two bagger. In the seventh Scott Campbell doubled and Al Cymbal singled him home. Mike Williams walked and Dave Wilhelm drove Cymbal in but Schimbke snuffed out the threat right there.

FREMD, which has lost a trio of contests in the seventh inning, turned the tables Saturday in nipping cross-town rival Palatine and ace hurler Kevin McKenna 2-1.

McKenna nursed along a 1-0 lead from the first inning on after Bruce Peterson tripled and Dan McSweeney's sacrifice fly brought him home.

In the bottom of the seventh Dale Hallberg singled and Bill Friskics walked but was then picked off first by catcher McSweeney.

An error left runners on first and second and pinch runner Dale Kukla then advanced to third on Kevin Weaver's flyout.

Curt Hacker promptly drove one apparently out of the park in a pinch hitting role but the umpire ruled it a double, leaving it to Don Constable to single home the triumphant run.

Fletcher went the distance for Fremd to earn the win. He fanned five and did not walk a man.

Did New York try to buy off Frank Lucchesi?

Texas Rangers manager Frank Lucchesi, who left Chicago Sunday night after a three-game series with the White Sox, was offered $10,000 by M. Donald Grant, chairman of the board of the New York Mets, as an inducement not to press charges against Lenny Randle, according to a copyrighted story Sunday in the Chicago Tribune.

Lucchesi was beaten up by Randle Grant told United Press International he nad made the offer on behalf of Randle as a goodwill gesture. "This had nothing to do with trying to buy him off," Grant said.

Luchessi was beaten up by Randle in spring training, and the Rangers' manager has not indicated whether or not he intends to file suit.

Baseball Commissioner Bowie Kuhn declined comment on the Grant bid. "I know nothing about it," Kuhn said, "but I'd want to find out the details before I say anything."

Overbid proves lucky

Jim: "IMP team matches are supposed to be the best test of skill between bridge players. How about some hands that show how both luck and skill apply in these contests?"

Oswald: "Here's a simple hand indeed. At both tables South opened with a standard, but minimum 16-point notrump. Both North players raised to two notrump. One South passed as he should; the other decided to try three on the theory that it just might make."

Jim: "The man who passed at two was quite happy when he saw the dummy. It looked as if he would score two tricks in each major suit, one in diamonds and two or three in clubs to wind up with seven or eight tricks."

Oswald: "The three-notrump bidder wished he had settled for two, but did see some hope. He won the second spade in dummy, led a club, finessed his jack, cashed the ace, noted the fall of the king from East, finessed against West's ten and made his game for a score of 600 and a 10 IMP gain. The other declarer made the same nine tricks, but that did him no good at all."

Ask Andy

Plastics made of many types of materials

Andy sends the Encyclopaedia Britannica's 1977 Yearbook of Science and the Future to Mitchell Constantino, 10, of Spring Valley, Calif., for his question: FROM WHAT IS PLASTIC MADE?

Celluloid, our first commercial plastic material, didn't work out for billiard balls but it definitely became a substitute for the diminishing supply of ivory in the late 1800s. It worked well for combs, buttons, fountain pens, piano keys and frames for glasses.

The word "plastic" is a family name just as the word "metal" is a family name. There are many different types of metals and many different types of plastics.

Some plastics are made from cotton, wood or other plant cellulose. Cellulose is the fiber that makes up the cell walls of plants. Other plastics are made from natural resins such as rosin, asphalt and pitch. Still other plastics are made from synthetic resins created by chemists from cheap and abundant raw materials such as air, petroleum, coal and castor oil. Proteins found in soybeans and milk offer the source for still another type of plastics.

Plastics fall into two groups: (1) thermosetting plastics which are those hardened or set into permanent shapes when heat and pressure are applied (once hardened, they cannot be made soft again) and (2) thermoplastics, the type that can be softened by heat.

Plastics are so important these days that it is hard to imagine life without them. They are used, for example, in making safety film for movies, safety glass, costume jewelry, tool handles, protective goggles and even eyeglasses. You'll also find plastic in phonograph records — and thousands of other products we come into contact with daily.

During World War II when there was a scarcity of silk, rubber and metal, the plastics industry expanded tremendously in a wide variety of areas. One of the most important plastics developed at this time (a synthetic-resin thermoplastic) was vinyl. It makes life easier for us in hundreds of ways. Vinyl is used for unbreakable phonograph records, floor coverings, adhesives, paper and cloth coatings, gloves, wire and cable insulations and liners used for tanks that hold acid. Its fibers are woven into draperies and furniture covers, and it provides that natural-feeling skin of dolls.

Polystyrene is probably the best known of the synthetic thermoplastics. Almost all plastic toys are made of polystyrene, and it is also used for tableware and kitchen appliances. It is used in making washable water paints, too.

Andy sends a Denoyer-Geppert World Globe to Jennifer Cushing, 7, of St. Catharines, Ont., Canada, for her question:

HOW DOES A STAR FALL?

What we call falling stars, or shooting stars, are not stars at all but simply meteors — chunks of stone or metal. They may have come from some comet or perhaps they were left over from the formation of the solar system. They may even have come from the unknown space between the stars in our Milky Way.

Scientists figure more than a million meteors fall into our atmosphere every day, but we see only a few of them. Friction causes them to burn up and be reduced to ash or gas as they plunge into our atmosphere — the largest ones producing a fireworks display and the smaller ones invisible. Less than one in a hundred hits the earth. When one does reach our land we call it a meteorite.

Do you have a question to Ask Andy? Send it on a post card with your name, age and complete address to Ask Andy in care of The Herald, P.O. Box 280, Arlington Heights, Ill. 60006. Entries are open to boys and girls 7 to 17.

ABOUT THE ONLY things Antionette Slovik has left in life are tainted memories of her husband, Pvt. Eddie Slovik, the only American executed for desertion in World War II.

DETROIT (UPI)—About the only riches Antionette Slovik has left in life are memories. And even those are tainted.

The 62-year-old widow spends her days in a local nursing home, not even able to use her real name. Her husband, Pvt. Eddie Slovik, was the only American executed for desertion in World War II.

She lives on $25 a month in Social Security payments and a few extra dollars from the sales of bedspreads, capes, shawls and tablecloths she crochets.

MRS. SLOVIK lost her husband Jan. 31, 1945. Eight years later she learned why, and she also found out why the Army refused to pay her $10,000 in insurance benefits.

After repeated, costly trips by the wheelchair-bound woman to Washington, sometimes to the gates of the White House itself, the Army finally decided last week to review the Slovik claim. Despite the breakthrough, she is still somewhat bitter.

"He had the clearest blue eyes," she said in recalling their brief marriage. "It was like something out of a story book. They should have never taken him. Never. He was no soldier.

"He didn't like the Army, but he said, 'So long as they want me, I'll go. But I hope to God they don't give me a gun'."

HE WAS FOUND guilty of deserting his position in Belgium in October 1944. Of the 49 deserters sentenced to death in the war, Slovik was the only one actually tied to a six-foot post, hooded and then shot by a firing squad.

The Army has never explained why Slovik was uniquely qualified for execution. His body was placed in a numbered Belgian grave, but his widow is hoping eventually to have it moved to a nearby cemetery where other GIs were buried.

After more than two decades of anguish and puzzlement, Mrs. Slovik now looks forward to the prospects of $68,000 in insurance benefits and interest that she said could help heal her scars.

"At this stage of my life," she said, "the insurance will make it easier for me to hold my head up high.

"I could drop my assumed name and live in dignity. And I would never again have people spitting and cursing at me because they think I was once married to a traitor and deserter."

Total SALT plan called 'integral'

by JIM ANDERSON

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Diplomats say talks on strategic arms limitation have reached the prenegotiation stage. A used car salesman might call it tire-kicking time.

It is a time for talking tough while appearing interested.

The State Dept's spokesman, Hodding Carter III, has warned that the American disarmanent proposal — a far-reaching, "comprehensive" plan involving deep cuts in strategic arsenals, or a simple ratification of the Vladivistok accord — was designed to be one integral piece.

THE AMERICAN ideas were presented to the Soviets in late March at the Moscow talks and quickly rejected. The same American plan remains on the negotiating table.

"We consider the package to be integral and it is difficult to see how the pieces would fit together if some were left out," Carter said.

Later, he said, the United States would consider "shrinking the whole package" by changing the numbers of missiles and bombers involved. But he said the Soviets can't take one piece they like, and then reject the rest of it.

THAT "WOULD be taking the keystone out of the arch."

The spokesman denied that the position he enunciated represents any toughening of United States position in advance of the second round of talks May 18 in Geneva.

But the tone differed from Defense Sec. Harold Brown's remarks two weeks ago to a university audience that the United States proposals are "not take it or leave it proposals" and the United States would be willing to consider any changes that would not tip the strategic balance in favor of the Soviet Union.

In a speech at the University of Rochester, Brown said, "We are willing to listen to their (the Soviete) arguments and consider adjustments to our own proposals that would not affect the equitable outcomes our two proposals are designed to achieve."

AT THE SAME time, however, the Soviets are doing some prenegotiation ground work themselves. Dr. Georgii Arbatov, a frequent spokesman for the Soviet leadership on matters involving the United States, told reporters in Washington, "The American Plan was presented in a package, and it was rejected as a package."

Sounding much like a man who wants to buy a car while suggesting to the seller that the vehicle in question looks something like a repainted taxi, Arbatov said, "I don't want to say everything in the American package was unacceptable."

But, he said, the Soviets were disappointed in the American plans. He suggested President Carter's original ideas were altered by someone else.

The encouraging thing about the prenegotiation or tire-kicking stage is that it implies both parties in the transaction are genuinely interested in the next phase — making a deal.

Women priests 'block to reunion'

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (UPI)—The presiding bishop of the Episcopal Church says his denomination's women priests present a "real obstacle" to the eventual reunion of the Roman Catholic Church and the worldwide Angelican Communion.

But the Most Rev. John M. Allin, spiritual head of 2.8 million Episcopalians, says he believes "God's Spirit is moving in efforts to reunite His Church" and there is a chance Roman Catholics and Anglicans may establish intercommunion "within our lifetime.

POPE PAUL VI and the Most Rev. Donald Coggan, Archbishop of Canterbury, issued a joint statement in Rome Friday urging that dialogue aimed at reuniting the two churches continue.

They conceded serious differences still exist between them, including the fact U.S. Episcopalians and some other Anglican provinces allow women priests.

"It's a real obstacle, but my chief concern is that the decision of the Episcopal Church (on women priests) be clear," said Allin, who was interviewed while attending a meeting of Anglican provincial representatives.

The bishop said members of his own denomination have not fully accepted women priests and the "church needs time to grow into that." He said the first priority for Episcopalians should be to "develop the capacity to recognize our need for diversity among ourselves" before expecting substantial progress toward reunion with Rome.

Singer dies in backstage accident

CLEVELAND (UPI)—The coroner's office announced Sunday that the death of Betty Stone of the Metropolitan Opera Co. backstage at Public Hall Saturday night was due to a head injury suffered when her floor-length, 17th Century nun's costume caught in an elevator door and dragged her to the floor.

When Miss Stone, a veteran chorus member, fell, her head was caught in the elevator door, according to Francis Robinson, Met tour director.

The autopsy was performed Sunday by Deputy Cuyahogo County Coroner Dr. Lester Adelson.

"It happened so quickly," Robinson said. "She was greatly admired — deeply beloved."

Miss Stone, 63, with the Met since 1965, died shortly after the accident, which occurred at the end of the second act of Verdi's "Il Trovatore."

Robinson said the crowded, 8-foot-by-6-foot elevator, carried several cast members when the accident happened.

The elevator was being used for access to the stage from the third-floor dressing rooms. As the elevator operator closed the door, Miss Stone's long flowing cape was caught in the door, witnesses told police, adding that Miss Stone was the last person to enter the lift.

The elevator went up about six feet before the operator could stop it.

Slovik's widow seeks insurance

ABOUT THE ONLY things Antionette Slovik has left in life are tainted memories of her husband, Pvt. Eddie Slovik, the only American executed for desertion in World War II.

DETROIT (UPI)—About the only riches Antionette Slovik has left in life are memories. And even those are tainted.

The 62-year-old widow spends her days in a local nursing home, not even able to use her real name. Her husband, Pvt. Eddie Slovik, was the only American executed for desertion in World War II.

She lives on $25 a month in Social Security payments and a few extra dollars from the sales of bedspreads, capes, shawls and tablecloths she crochets.

MRS. SLOVIK lost her husband Jan. 31, 1945. Eight years later she learned why, and she also found out why the Army refused to pay her $10,000 in insurance benefits.

After repeated, costly trips by the wheelchair-bound woman to Washington, sometimes to the gates of the White House itself, the Army finally decided last week to review the Slovik claim. Despite the breakthrough, she is still somewhat bitter.

"He had the clearest blue eyes," she said in recalling their brief marriage. "It was like something out of a story book. They should have never taken him. Never. He was no soldier.

"He didn't like the Army, but he said, 'So long as they want me, I'll go. But I hope to God they don't give me a gun'."

HE WAS FOUND guilty of deserting his position in Belgium in October 1944. Of the 49 deserters sentenced to death in the war, Slovik was the only one actually tied to a six-foot post, hooded and then shot by a firing squad.

The Army has never explained why Slovik was uniquely qualified for execution. His body was placed in a numbered Belgian grave, but his widow is hoping eventually to have it moved to a nearby cemetery where other GIs were buried.

After more than two decades of anguish and puzzlement, Mrs. Slovik now looks forward to the prospects of $68,000 in insurance benefits and interest that she said could help heal her scars.

"At this stage of my life," she said, "the insurance will make it easier for me to hold my head up high.

"I could drop my assumed name and live in dignity. And I would never again have people spitting and cursing at me because they think I was once married to a traitor and deserter."

Total SALT plan called 'integral'

by JIM ANDERSON

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Diplomats say talks on strategic arms limitation have reached the prenegotiation stage. A used car salesman might call it tire-kicking time.

It is a time for talking tough while appearing interested.

The State Dept's spokesman, Hodding Carter III, has warned that the American disarmanent proposal — a far-reaching, "comprehensive" plan involving deep cuts in strategic arsenals, or a simple ratification of the Vladivistok accord — was designed to be one integral piece.

THE AMERICAN ideas were presented to the Soviets in late March at the Moscow talks and quickly rejected. The same American plan remains on the negotiating table.

"We consider the package to be integral and it is difficult to see how the pieces would fit together if some were left out," Carter said.

Later, he said, the United States would consider "shrinking the whole package" by changing the numbers of missiles and bombers involved. But he said the Soviets can't take one piece they like, and then reject the rest of it.

THAT "WOULD be taking the keystone out of the arch."

The spokesman denied that the position he enunciated represents any toughening of United States position in advance of the second round of talks May 18 in Geneva.

But the tone differed from Defense Sec. Harold Brown's remarks two weeks ago to a university audience that the United States proposals are "not take it or leave it proposals" and the United States would be willing to consider any changes that would not tip the strategic balance in favor of the Soviet Union.

In a speech at the University of Rochester, Brown said, "We are willing to listen to their (the Soviete) arguments and consider adjustments to our own proposals that would not affect the equitable outcomes our two proposals are designed to achieve."

AT THE SAME time, however, the Soviets are doing some prenegotiation ground work themselves. Dr. Georgii Arbatov, a frequent spokesman for the Soviet leadership on matters involving the United States, told reporters in Washington, "The American Plan was presented in a package, and it was rejected as a package."

Sounding much like a man who wants to buy a car while suggesting to the seller that the vehicle in question looks something like a repainted taxi, Arbatov said, "I don't want to say everything in the American package was unacceptable."

But, he said, the Soviets were disappointed in the American plans. He suggested President Carter's original ideas were altered by someone else.

The encouraging thing about the prenegotiation or tire-kicking stage is that it implies both parties in the transaction are genuinely interested in the next phase — making a deal.
